TAZA, Morocco, July 24.—The Moroccan war is rapidly approaching its greatest climax. By the end of the month the admirable staff work of the French in bringing into play almost simultaneously three big new factors—Marshal Petain, General Naulin and reinforcements—will reach a point where it will begin to produce results at the front.

Marshal Petain has been studying the situation and formulating plans. General Naulin, the new Commander-in-Chief, now making contact with the front, is visiting Taza—the Moroccan Verdun—today.

While the two big chiefs were holding councils of war, two divisions of reinforcements are arriving daily and concentrating at strategic points behind the lines. In a week the plans for striking a blow at the Riffians and fresh troops for striking it will be both ready for action. It may well prove the turning-point of the war.

It is prudent, however, to guard against undue optimism or expecting decisive results too quickly. This is all the more necessary because it would be so natural to yield to this temptation, especially since the French people have sent Marshal Petain, their famous military pinch hitter, here. They know his remarkable qualities, but they do not know that the problem confronting him is far more difficult than they dream. If the public expects too much there is danger of becoming unduly discouraged if the results are not immediately forthcoming. It is not "all over but the shouting." The situation was serious when the French decided to send Marshal Petain and General Naulin with two divisions here. It is more rather than less serious now, and during the week remaining before the French troops can strike it may even become more serious. It should be remembered that Abd-el-Krim has not been twiddling his thumbs while the French are preparing. There is no reason to expect him to begin doing so now, when he sees the Damoclean sword looming larger and larger. On the contrary, there is every reason to believe that he will try to parry the danger by striking first.

Much Depends on Tribes.

The near future hinges largely on the attitude of the tribes which have not yet rebelled. They are permeated with Riffian propaganda and are generally far more restive than a month ago, especially those living just behind the French lines, whose position makes them most dangerous. Some of these are only kept from rebelling by the fact that the French troops separate them from the Riffians. Others openly admit that they are on the fence. Still others say they are loyal and appear to be peaceful unarmed harvesters during the day, while under cover of night they take guns to harass the French lines of communication.

This situation obtains all along the line, but particularly in the Taza zone, where the front in places is only ten miles from the sole route in Algeria to Fez. The result of this state of incipient rebellion, raids and infiltrations of Riffians between the French posts, especially at night, is that Marshal Petain, contrary to what most people imagine, has no front to deal with which is a single thin line sharply separating the French from the enemy. The front is rather a vague zone extending at a varying depth of five to fifteen miles behind the besieged French advance posts. Moreover he cannot count on the native population in the whole territory he is defending. It is almost next to impossible to distinguish the loyal natives from the rebels.

Whether these tribes want to rebel or not, the decision they will take depends at bottom on which side they think is going to win. If the French start an advance they will remain loyal and even fight loyally for the French. If Abd-el-Krim begins a successful offensive they will join him, certainly as soon as he touches their territory. The tribes are thus the stakes. What are the cards the French and Riffians have to play?

The French troops are now engaged in maintaining the status quo. Only by almost superhuman efforts, by standing terrific punishment, during the past three weeks have they prevented the rebellion spreading further than it has. Some of them have been fighting with little rest for three months, but the recent and present period has been the most severe along the whole front.

They are tired. The news of the arrival of Marshal Petain and General Naulin with reinforcements has given them new morale and strength to

London Copies Styles Set by King and Queen

LONDON, July 24.—Last Tuesday afternoon at the first royal garden party of the season at Buckingham Palace, the King wore a gray top hat and a gray morning suit, while the Queen wore a mauve dress and hat.

Neither the King nor Queen probably realized that they were setting a fashion which would keep the tailors and hatters working overtime, but within the remarkably short space of three days every man and woman who could do so had copied the style of the King and Queen.

This afternoon, when their Majesties entered the gardens to greet 5,000 guests at their second party they saw a veritable sea of gray and mauve. There were hundreds of gray toppers and gray morning coats, while scores of women had copied the Queen's style and wore mauve gowns and hats.

Today's party was one of the most colorful ever seen at Buckingham Palace. A number of Americans were present. As on Tuesday the crowd was representative of diplomacy, the church, art, stage, letters and exclusive society.

ANDREWS 'DRY' PLAN FACES LONG DELAY

Reorganization of Prohibition Forces May Be Postponed Even Beyond Sept. 1.

SALARIES ARE BIG PROBLEM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Announcement probably will be made tomorrow that the Andrews plan for reorganization of prohibition enforcement will not become operative until Sept. 1 instead of Aug. 1, as originally contemplated, and there is a likelihood that the effective date may be still further postponed. The reason for the delay is the inability of the prohibition board of strategy, of which Assistant Secretary Andrews is the head, to reach decisions in the matter of personnel.

Several men of prominence who have been approached with offers of posts in the two New York districts and in other districts that are regarded as strategic centres in the enforcement of the dry laws have declined to enter the Government service, with the result that General Andrews has been compelled to look for help in other directions.

The salary limitations are also handicapping General Andrews in his work of building up an efficient field service. Under a ruling of Controller General McCarl, the compensation of each of the district administrators is fixed at $7,500 a year. As it is not practicable to pay subordinate members of the administrators' staffs salaries in excess of the amount named, General Andrews is finding it difficult to induce lawyers of ability to accept positions as general counsel. The same trouble is being experienced in securing skilled chemists.

Just how long General Andrews expects to take to decide upon the personnel of the various district headquarters will be made known tomorrow.

Denies Plan Is Abandoned.

He denied tonight the truth of a report that the new plan had been abandoned owing to political interference.

"There is no truth in such a report," said General Andrews. "There will be some delay in installing the new organization. We planned originally to begin operations on Aug. 1 with one district at a time as fast as we completed the selection of personnel. We have concluded that it would be a better policy to instal the new districts simultaneously all over the country. This will mean some delay. I will have a statement tomorrow which will explain the whole situation as it now stands."

Closer coordination of effort on the part of the Department of Justice and the prohibition unit formed the subject of an extended conference today be-

NEW HAVEN RIDERS WILL SEEK TO STOP 40% JUMP IN FARES

WANT REHEARING OF CASE

New Rochelle Counsel May Ask Court to Review Public Service Board's Action.

SEE DISASTER TO SUBURBS

Fear Expressed That Population Will Decrease if Higher Rates Stand.

Westchester commuters who travel on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad announced yesterday through their Chairman, Benjamin I. Taylor, Supervisor of the Town of Harrison, that they would seek an injunction to restrain the New Haven from putting into effect on Aug. 1 the 40 per cent. increase in commutation rates, pending a rehearing of the evidence presented to the Public Service Commission.

In the meantime the fight of the commuters, through their protective organization, will be supplemented by action on the part of the municipal authorities along the route of the New Haven. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Van Auken of New Rochelle has arranged for a conference with other Corporation Counsels of the county and with members of the Special Railroad Fare Rate Committee of the New Rochelle Chamber of Commerce, to be held in New Rochelle next Monday evening.

Mr. Taylor said that if the increased rates were allowed to stand all Westchester villages along the New Haven would suffer little short of a catastrophe. He pointed out that in 1917 when a 10 per cent. increase was approved, the populations of towns in Northeastern Westchester decreased, in some instances as much as 30 per cent.

Calls Valuation Fictitious.

The citizens' committee is seeking to prevent the increased rates from going into effect will contend, according to Mr. Taylor, that the property valuations of the New Haven on which the rates were based are too high.

"None of us would contend that the New Haven Railroad or any other company is not entitled to a fair return on its investment," he said, "but we do contend that the railroad placed fictitious values upon its property holdings. If the property of the road were assessed at its true value, it would be apparent that the New Haven is in fact earning a fair return on its property within New York State."

Mr. Van Auken went to the offices of the Public Service Commission, 30 Church Street, and with Commissioner George R. Lunn made a study of the Commission's decision granting the 40 per cent. increase. The Corporation Counsel of New Rochelle is considering three courses of action to prevent the application of the new rates. He may apply for a writ of certiorari, calling for a court review of the matter, he may start an injunction suit, or he may petition the Public Service Commission for a rehearing of the case.

He did not indicate whether he would join Mr. Taylor in the injunction suit which Mr. Taylor said he would probably bring on Monday or Tuesday in the Supreme Court in White Plains.

"I have hopes that a review of the case will be made," Mr. Van Auken said, "if no appeal from the Public Service Commission's decision is allowed by law. If the railroad wishes a review of any decision, they can have it easily, and therefore commuters are entitled to a review as well. If they are not, then the law should be changed."

Plans for a fight against the increase will be discussed by the Board of Trustees of the town of Port Chester at a meeting to be called within the next few days, according to Village Counsel Arthur I. Wilcox.

Corporation Counsel Hugh M. Hewson of Mount Vernon said that the city was without funds to organize an indepen-

Parents Win Race With Death From Europe; Boy Hurt Diving Now Has Fighting Chance

Mr. and Mrs. Rody B. Marshall of Pittsburgh won their race against death to the bedside of their son Rody Jr., 15 years old, lying paralyzed in a hospital at Wakefield, R. I. A dispatch to THE TIMES last night carried the further good news of a decided improvement in the boy's condition.

The boy leaped from the Narragansett seawall at Newport on July 15. He dived into five feet of water and when he was pulled out physicians found that the spinal cord had been virtually severed. "He is alive simply by sheer will," physicians reported in a cablegram to his parents, who were on a pleasure trip in Europe. The message emphasized their son's danger.

The Aquitania of the Cunard Line was sounding the last warning whistle when the Marshalls went up the gangplank at Southampton. The big ship turned toward the open sea and began to cut down the thousands of miles that were ahead. In their cabin the parents found in the steady drumming of the engines hope that they would arrive in time. At regular periods the wireless brought word "no change."

Each day Mr. Marshall scanned anxiously the day's run. The big ship maintained its fast speed, and daily the Marshalls gained hope. Meanwhile preparations were made to speed them on their way when the Aquitania arrived. A Pittsburgh lawyer, an associate of Mr. Marhall, obtained permission from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for a tug to meet the liner at Quarantine.

Yesterday morning the ship swung to a stop and a tug glided alongside. The Marshalls went over the side and the tug steamed at full speed to the Barge Office. The Marshall chauffeur, with motors running, was waiting. In the machine and through the tangles of traffic, on and on, with each minute counting, the parents raced to the Grand Central Terminal, where they caught the 11:05 express for Boston.

The train slowed down at a station near Wakefield. The couple got off and another automobile with motors humming was there. In it they shot over the roads to the hospital, and won. They were soon at the bedside. Young Rody, although paralyzed from the waist down and with his arms extended horizontally to his shoulders by muscular contraction, was conscious. A faint smile spread over his face when he saw his father and his mother.

Then a bulletin of encouragement was issued. Physicians said that hope of the boy's ultimate recovery admittedly was slight, but that he had a fighting chance. If he does recover he will be crippled, however.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will remain in Wakefield pending the outcome of their son's battle.

BIDDING FAST AND FURIOUS

LONDON, July 24.—Heirs of the late John Singer Sargent were richer tonight by over $729,000 as the result of an auction of watercolor sketches, oil studies and unfinished pictures left by him in corners of his studio at his death. Still another set, including the original designs and decoration for the Boston Library and preliminary sketches for the Boston Museum will be sold Monday.

Today's sale was a record one for prices realized, the 163 pictures in the lot going in four hours for £145,984 10 shillings. It was also made notable by the announcement that Sir Joseph Duveen had bought privately the unfinished portrait of Mme. Gautreau for presentation to the Tate National Gallery of Modern Pictures, to which Mr. Duveen has already given a special wing for the exhibition of Sargent's works.

Christie's historic salesroom was crowded to suffocation this morning as the auctioneer entered the pulpit. All the art connoisseurs and dealers in London were packed away on long forms facing the salesman's rostrum, and crowds of visitors hoping to pick up for a comparative trifle some work of the great master filled the back of the room.

Lord Beatty obtained a place near the auctioneer for the few minutes that he could stay at the beginning of the sale. Sir Gerald du Maurier slipped in later, and the former King of Portugal was conducted to a quiet corner as the sale went on.

But the hopes of those looking for bargains were dashed at the very beginning. The first bid for a sketch of a Florentine palace was 100 guineas and the lot fell for 200. That proved one of the lowest prices of the day. It was not a finished work, but a mere sketch, 20 inches by 26, such as any artist on a holiday might paint and give away to a friend. Nevertheless, it seemed to set the pace for the rest of the sale.

Other prices were: "The Salute, Venice," £3,360; "Boats on the Lagoons, Venice," £2,100; "Doge's Palace," £2,415; "Boats at Anchor, Venice," £1,837 10 shillings.

Curiously enough, some of the poorer prices were paid for sketches of white oxen, which evidently had attracted Sargent's interest during a visit to Siena. They went as low as £320 and £240, but among the highest prices paid were those for sketches at Venice with boats in them.

By this time, with bids jumping by hundreds, mere amateurs were shaken off, but their interest was revived as the larger pictures were reached. The first hoisted to an easel was the portrait of Mme. Gautreau. It was unfinished, with the head, bust and most of the figure complete but the background and a large part of the skirt not even begun. It presented an admirable study of contrast of the plain black evening dress with the ivory-colored flesh, but the auctioneer announced at once it had been withdrawn from the sale. That, he said, would not have been permitted except that Sir Joseph Duveen had purchased it by private treaty for presentation to the nation. A Japanese dancer in a curious native costume was up next. It was, however, so unlike what people usually associate with Sargent's work that bidding was slow for a moment. It began at 100 guineas but gathered way in a moment. The picture fell in the end at £2,310.

MELBOURNE CHEERS SAILORS IN PARADE

MARCHERS AID IN RESCUE

None Killed in Fall of Canopy—Sydney Bars Swamped by Bluejackets.

MELBOURNE, July 24.—One hundred thousand persons lined the streets of Melbourne today to watch 2,000 sailors from the American warships visiting this port march before governmental dignitaries of Australia and Admiral Coontz and his staff, who stood on the steps of the Federal Parliament House.

The bluejackets were scheduled to arrive at this spot, which was the saluting base, at 11:55 this morning, but when at 1 o'clock they had not appeared, Governor General Forster sent a courier to learn the cause of the delay. In five minutes the courier came racing back with the news that a cantilever canopy extending across the sidewalk from a draper's shop had collapsed and caused the injury of more than one hundred people watching the parade.

When the accident occurred the sailors halted and helped in the rescue work. The latest check from various hospitals indicates that fifty-five women and fifty men were brought in for treatment.

About fifty persons had crowded upon the canopy seeking places to view the parade, and under their weight the structure broke down, striking those underneath it as well as injuring those on top. Thus far no deaths have been reported, but several cases of serious injury may prove fatal.

After doing all they could in aiding the police the sailors resumed their march and arrived before the Parliament House at 1:15 o'clock. Despite an unusually rough passage through Tasman Sea that had buffeted the vessels and made the progress of the fleet uncomfortable for its personnel, the bluejackets made a splendid appearance. The skies were lowering and rain was momentarily expected, but the day turned out to be clear and mild.

Many Spectators Faint in Street.

There was a curious psychological atmosphere about the entire proceedings. The crowding of the streets to see the parade was not great and the policing arrangements were good. Since the line of march covered a mile and a half, there was ample room on both sides to accommodate the spectators, but an hour before the procession started men, women and children began to fall unconscious on the streets. The police, Red Cross nurses, volunteers and Boy Scouts were busily occupied reviving those overcome. Probably forty persons were affected on a short square fronting the Parliament House, and it is estimated that 150 at least were overcome throughout the length of the march.

There was a great deal of suppressed excitement among the spectators and tremendous enthusiasm, as was evidenced when, with bands playing, each ship's contingent came stepping along spick and span.

The cheering was spontaneous and enthusiastic and there was a definite echo of a real and affectionate welcome in it. Much of the fainting was ascribed to the excitement of the occasion. Physicians pointed out, after quickly reviving some of their street patients, that fatigue from long standing, coupled with hunger because many missed their luncheon, due to the delay caused by the accident, probably was responsible for many faintings.

On the Parliament House steps the uniforms of Governor General Forster, the Earl of Stradbroke, Governor of Victoria, and their various aids and those of Admiral Coontz and his staff and the guards of honor made a colorful scene, vying as a pageant with the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace.

COURT VOIDS DEEDS OF CROKER PROPERTY WORTH $10,000,000

ESTATE NOW TO BE SHARED

BULA CROKER SIGNED DEEDS

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 24.—Attempts of Richard Croker, former Chieftain of Tammany Hall, to convey in life his Palm Beach estates, valued at several million dollars, were declared null and void by Judge Rhydon M. Call in Federal Court here today.

Judge Call ruled that a series of deeds executed by Croker and Mrs. Bula Croker, his second wife, in his lifetime purporting to convey the property to J. B. McDonald and the Palm Beach Estates, a corporation, were void because the deeds and the contracts with McDonald did not constitute an alienation of his homestead rights in accordance with the Florida Constitution. Therefore he did not vest such title to the lands in McDonald as would deprive the heirs and widow of it.

This gives the property in question to Mrs. Croker and the children of Croker by his first wife.

The decision followed a motion by the defendants, Bula Croker, J. B. McDonald and Palm Beach Estates, to have dismissed for want of equity the original bill which sought cancelation of the Croker contracts with McDonald and purported conveyances of the land in pursuance to such contracts. The motion to dismiss was denied.

The original bill was filed in Federal Court here in January by Howard Croker, Ethel Croker White and Richard Croker Jr., all children by the first wife. It alleged that Croker had no right under the Constitution of Florida to convey property set aside as his homestead so as to defeat the rights of the widow and heirs in the property. It asked title in the complainants, subject to the dower rights of the widow.

The decision also held null and void a series of contracts executed by Mr. Croker and his wife, Bula, to one Eccleston, and from Eccleston to Bula Croker, thence from him to Bula and Richard Croker jointly.

According to the allegations of the original bill, Richard Croker, on Oct. 24, 1910, was vested with the fee simple title by deed to part of the property involved in the litigation. Soon after acquiring the lands, it was alleged, Croker built a house on the property, and in November, 1914, he and his wife occupied it, remaining until his death.

At the time of the filing of the bill, in January, 1925, the widow was still occupying it as a home, it was alleged.

In 1917 Croker had acquired property contiguous to that property which he held until his death.

Wife Also Signed the Deeds.

Mr. Croker's will named Bula Croker as his sole devisee. It was asserted in the original bill that the will was void as to the homestead and that the properties acquired in 1910 and in 1917 constituted the homestead of the deceased.

According to the allegations, in November, 1917, Croker and his wife deeded to one Eccleston part of the property and the same day Eccleston executed a deed to the same lands to Bula Croker without consideration. On Oct. 21, 1918, Croker and his wife are alleged to have executed a deed to Eccleston to additional lots of the property acquired in 1917, which Eccleston deeded back to them the next day without consideration.

Several other similar transactions are recited in the original bill. Later, according to the allegations, Croker and his wife authorized McDonald to sell part of the homestead property, the money from the sale to go to Bula Croker alone. None was ever sold, however. But it was charged that deeds to the property were executed in favor of McDonald by the Crokers without sufficient consideration.

McDonald, it was alleged, executed two deeds to this property in favor of the Palm Beach Estates which, it was asserted, the corporation took, knowing that McDonald was not the owner of the property.

In the contracts was included an op-

Burglars Get $3,000 in Cigars 200 Feet From Enright's Office

The factory of the De Nobili Cigar Company is at 177 Mulberry Street and that directly at the rear of Police Headquarters. But that did not protect the plant when robbers picked the place for operations.

In fact the robbers, who took $3,000 in cigars, cigarettes and tobacco leaf, worked just 200 feet from the window of Police Commissioner Enright himself. And it was evident that the thieves used a truck to cart away the loot.

News of the robbery came to Gabriel Gustinani, manager, when he arrived to open the door yesterday morning. He found the door had been opened for him and a policeman was on guard to give him the bad news. The thieves had used a "jimmy" to get in.

HOTEL PLAZA DINER SUICIDE AT TABLE

Unidentified Young Man Orders Midnight Supper for Two, Then Shoots Himself.

ONLY 10 CENTS IN POCKET

Men and women in evening clothes were passing through the lobby of the Hotel Plaza, Fifty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, shortly after midnight last night, on their way from the theatres to supper and dancing, when the report of a single revolver shot resounded through the hotel. The sound came from the main dining room, which is separated from the lobby only by a sort of wall of potted palms.

Men and women hurried toward this room, but only a few of the men entered when it was seen that lying on the floor close beside a corner table was the figure of a man. He wore a dinner coat and his white shirt front was stained with blood. He had shot himself through the heart, and the weapon, a brand new revolver, lay on the floor at his side.

Dr. George Lee, house physician of the Plaza, was called at once and an ambulance, bringing Dr. Philip Lowenfish, was summoned from the Reception Hospital. The doctors agreed that the man had died instantly. He had put a bullet directly through his heart.

The man was young, not more than 25 years old and perhaps younger. He was tall, close to six feet in height and weighed about 170 pounds. He was blond, good-looking, of a German type, having a pompadour of light reddish hair. He was clean shaven.

No Mark of Identification.

In his pockets were a checkbook, although on what bank no one thought to examine in the excitement which followed the shooting, a gold watch and chain, but only 10 cents in cash. There was also a pack of cigarettes, but not a scrap of paper, either card or letter. The pocket of the young man's coat bore a label on which, in English script, appeared "Hamburg, Germany," but there was no name of a tailor.

The management of the hotel could not identify the man as a guest at the house. It was remarked that he had no hat and consequently appeared to have come down to the dining room from one of the hotel rooms. No clerk, bellboy or other attendant could be found who recalled having seen him before, however.

An attempt was made to identify the young man through the members of some German societies which have had rooms at the Plaza recently. However, at an early hour today no one had been reached who recognized him.

The first any one in the hotel seemed to have seen of him was at midnight, when he entered the main dining room on the ground floor of the hotel adjoining the lobby and asked John Speritz, a waiter, for a quiet table for two. He said he expected presently to be joined by a guest and would like a substantial dinner of chicken served for two.

Sat in Lobby Smoking.

Speritz told him that the kitchen was closed and that the best he could do for him would be to serve him some cold cuts of chicken and a salad. The young man said this would do and, after inspecting the table to which Speritz showed him and which was in a corner of the dining room nearest the lobby, he stepped back into the lobby and took

Confer With Brooklyn Leader Here to Learn How Far He'll Support Mayor.

SINNOTT SEEN AS A FACTOR

Would Go Down With the Mayor in the Primary, and End as a Rival of McCooey.

JUSTICE CHURCHILL BOOMED

His Virtues as a 'New' Candidate Considered—Wagner and Foley Still Strong.

Governor Smith, George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, and John H. McCooey, leader of the Democratic forces in Brooklyn, held a conference yesterday at an uptown club. There was said to have been a very frank exchange of views among the three party leaders, as a result of which it is predicted that the status of John F. Hylan with relation to the Mayoralty nomination would be determined before the end of next week.

There is reason to believe that plans for the conference of the "Big Five," which will be held next week to pick a designee for the Democratic nomination for Mayor, and the attitude of Mr. McCooey toward the candidacy of Mayor Hylan were the chief if not the only topics discuss. No date has been fixed as yet for the five-borough conclave, but it was said that an understanding had been reached with Mr. McCooey and that the opponents of Mayor Hylan by this time knew how far the Brooklyn leader was willing to go in his support of Mayor Hylan.

There was a revival last night in anti-Hylan circles of the statement heard more frequently during the absence of Mr. McCooey in the White Mountains than since his return to the city that "Hylan is out."

Limit to McCooey's Support.

It was stated yesterday that the Brooklyn leader would make his fight for the Mayor at the conference of the five borough leaders, but that if the Mayor should refuse to abide by the decision reached there with regard to his own candidacy, it would be futile for him to hope for support from Mr. McCooey or his Kings County organization in any fight that he might decide to make in the Democratic primaries against a candidate sactioned by the leaders.

The danger of a deadlock resulting from the meeting next week with Tammany and the Democratic organization in the Bronx arrayed against the three other borough organizations was said to have been rendered more remote as a result of the frank talk between the Governor, Olvany and McCooey yesterday. The latter, it was learned, took the attitude that if Mayor Hylan should be eliminated, Brooklyn ought to supply the candidate selected in his place, but was confronted with the argument that while Brooklyn was entitled to substantial recognition, that borough had had the Mayoralty every time a Democrat was elected in the last sixteen years, and that Manhattan was entitled to its inning now.

Mr. McCooey, it is believed, was confronted yesterday with convincing proof that in his own borough there was anti-Hylan sentiment a-plenty which readily could be organized and marshaled for a fight on the Mayor. The prospect that if the Mayor should make a fight in the Democratic primaries and be beaten, the political annihilation of James P. Sinnott, who has been suspected of harboring designs on McCooey's place at the head of the Kings County organization, would be achieved with the same blow, is regarded in Democratic circles as an additional reason why the Brooklyn leader would not want to make common cause with the Mayor in the primaries.

May Have Modified Stand.

It appeared yesterday that McCooey may have somewhat modified his ultimatum delivered soon after his return from the White Mountains that, as an inducement to quit the Mayor, he must "be shown" a stronger candidate. The Brooklyn leader was said last night to be reconciled to the proposal of the anti-Hylan leaders that the Mayor should be finally disposed of before the discussion of other candidates is taken up at next week's conference.

As far as it could be determined yesterday by piecing together stray bits of information that seeped through the wall of secrecy with which the anti-Hylanites are surrounding themselves, the plan they are contemplating is to make it perfectly plain early in next week's conference that the Mayor will not under any circumstances be acceptable to them. It has been proposed that Mr. McCooey, who has stood loyally by the Mayor and is regarded by Mr. Hylan with friendly eyes, should break the news to the Mayor as soon as a decision is reached.

Should the decision, as is expected, be adverse to Mr. Hylan, it is likely that what further deliberation is necessary before a substitute candidate can be selected will be deferred until it is known whether the Mayor is to make his fight within party lines in the primaries, or as an independent with the support of Hearst and what other forces can be brought to his aid, as a contender for the Mayoralty on a third ticket.

The Mayor's plans, it was stated, would have a vital bearing on the type

S. S. ARCTURUS, July 24.—About one hundred miles east of Brigantine Shoals we encountered on Wednesday the steam yacht Warrior, which had come to greet us on our way home from the Sargasso Sea and Galapagos deep sea expeditions of the New York Zoological Society.

The meeting of the sea-worn Arcturus and the elegant yacht of Harrison Williams was spectacular. We called the rendezvous, latitude 34.03 north, longitude 74.19 west, the corner of Gulf Stream and Broadway.

Mr. Williams, principal patron of our expedition, came aboard the Arcturus with his guests, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Doubleday, Fred Kruger and my publisher, George Palmer Putnam.

While inspecting our laboratory work and the strange specimens we have brought back from the Pacific and the Atlantic in our aquarium tanks, the visitors and our staff failed to take note of a wind that had come up, and the sea was soon running so high that only Mr. Williams and Mr. Putnam managed to get back aboard the Warrior.

Led by the Warrior we steamed toward Chesapeake Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Doubleday and Mr. Kruger remaining on the Arcturus overnight. We found a calm sea about thirty miles off Cape Henry and remained there until this afternoon. At noon today the entire personnel of our expedition were guests of Mr. Williams at luncheon aboard the Warrior.

We are now proceeding to a point 100 miles off Sandy Hook, where the prehistoric Hudson River gorge once met the old sea line, in a 250-foot fall. At this logical site of the original Manhattan we shall make a station, remaining probably two days, dredging, trawling, collecting specimens of submarine life 125 miles from the City Hall. We probably shall arrive home on Thursday.

The last leg of our expedition was interesting in the specimens obtained, but was totally unsuccessful in locating any tangible Sargasso Sea.

Rich Investors and Poor Prospectors Join in Wild Rush for Gold in Siberian Klondike

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—Men loaded down with gold rubbing elbows with starving prospectors begging for a crust of bread is the strange contrast offered at the newly opened gold fields in Siberia, described as "the Bolshevik Klondike."

The alteration of rich and poor there is due to the fact that the reputed wealth of the district is attracting such crowds of persons desiring to get rich quickly that many fail utterly and eventually are reduced to misery.

The new gold area is in the Aldan region of Siberia, northeast of Irkutsk, in a wild and partly unexplored region. The Bolshevist Government estimates that 400 tons of gold is available in an area of 6,000 square miles. Gold transportation is difficult because the fields are about 300 miles from the nearest station on the Amur railway. Prospectors are precariously supplied with the necessities of life by irregular river and air routes.

The Soviet Government already has organized a branch State bank and levies toll on all gold found. Diggers are forced to surrender to Bolshevist agents from ten to forty pounds of gold for each claim, according to its productivity, after which they may dig for themselves. But all nuggets found must be turned over to the authorities, who pay for them in Soviet currency at the rate of about $14 an ounce. No man is allowed to take more than five pounds of gold when leaving the fields.

Twelve thousand prospectors already are in the district and, more are flocking there from Russia, Korea and Japan. A Japanese company is said to have applied for a concession covering most of the Aldan gold fields.

of candidate to be chosen by the Democrats to oppose him.

In the event that the Mayor should determine to make his fight as an independent it might be necessary for Tammany Hall and its allies to place in the field a man who not only could make a broad appeal to the independents in both parties, but who would stand out as the very antithesis of Hearst, for under the circumstances Hearstism would be the dominant issue in the campaign against the Mayor.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Churchill was being strongly boomed yesterday in the anti-Hylan camp. While some Tammany men scoffed at his candidacy, it was urged that he possessed elements of strength and availability that might have been lost sight of and that, besides, he would lend much needed balance to the ticket.

It was suspected, however, that Justice Churchill was being brought forward chiefly because he was a "new" man not included in the list of candidates proposed by Tammany on which the Brooklyn leader already has frowned. Mr. McCooey, without going back on anything he already has said, could give his sanction to the candidacy of the jurist and, if he is seeking an easy way out, accept him as the "stronger" man he had asked to "be shown" before deserting Mayor Hylan.

Justice Churchill, it was pointed out, is not so close to the Tammany machine that McCooey could object to him on the ground that his election would put Tammany Hall in too advantageous a position with relation to the City Hall and the favors that usually flow from the Mayor's office. He would also answer requirements in that he is absolutely free from any touch of Hearstism.

With the east side represented on the city ticket through Acting Aldermanic President William T. Collins, who probably will be renominated, the west side of Manhattan would be entitled to any other place awarded to Manhattan and would get its due if Justice Churchill was picked to head the ticket.

Other Booms Still Active.

The talk of Justice Churchill, however, has not discouraged the followers and promoters of other Mayoralty booms. Of that there was abundant evidence yesterday. The booms for Justice Robert F. Wagner of the Supreme Court and Surrogate James A. Foley were still going strong.

Mr. McCooey was asked yesterday what he thought of Justice Churchill as a candidate.

"He is a very able man," the Brooklyn leader replied.

"Do you consider him a stronger man than other candidates offered from Manhattan?"

"I would hate to draw any comparison," Mr. McCooey said. "They are all very good friends of mine."

Mr. McCooey said he did not care to discuss his conference with Governor Smith and Mr. Olvany earlier in the day.

"I am not in a position to make any comment on that," he said.

"What do you think of the Tammany proposal to make a fight in other boroughs which are backing Hylan, including your own?" the Brooklyn leader was asked.

"There is nothing to that," he replied. "There will be a conference of the five county leaders at as early a date as we can arrange it, at which I expect to see a decision reached which will settle everything."

QUEENS LEADERS CONFER.

Both Republicans and Democrats Discuss Candidates.

Conferences were held yesterday by both the Democrats and Republicans in Queens at which the coming nominations were discussed. Sheriff Mason O. Smedley, the leader of the Democratic organization, presided at the Democratic conference and former Postmaster John Wagner presided at the Republican conference.

The Democrats left their conference with a fairly definite idea that Borough President Maurice E. Connolly is to be a candidate for re-election. President Connolly has expressed a strong wish to retire. If he should not be a candidate other possibilities are Sheriff Smedley, Congressman John J. Kindred of Astoria and Public Works Commissioner Michael J. Shugrue.

District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe may be the Queens candidate for Supreme Court Justice. Clarence Lowes of Flushing, a banker, was mentioned for Alderman in the Flushing-Jamaica district against Alderman George U. Harvey, Republican.

In the Republican conference is was decided to demand the renomination of Supreme Court Justice James C. Van Siclen. Commissioner of Jurors William B. Hazelwood and City Magistrate John Kochendorfer were discussed for the nomination for Borough President.

SAYS MERGED ROADS COULD SAVE $6,000,000

Nickel Plate President Tells of Economies Lines Would Make if United.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The five railroads which the Van Sweringen plan proposes to merge with the present Nickel Plate system, J. J. Bernet, President of the Nickel Plate, testified today before the Interstate Commerce Commision, can be run as a single unit for $6,000,000 a year less than their present total operating expenses. He arrived at the figure by a series of statistical calculations that took in economies in the use of equipment, shops, terminals and personnel, which he held the consolidation would allow.

A vast amount of data was required for the presentation of Mr. Bernet's testimony. H. W. Anderson, counsel for the dissenting minority stockholders who oppose the plan, demanded on cross-examination if the witness had worked out all the material for himself.

Much of it had been prepared under his direction, Mr. Bernet said, and the source of it was indicated. His individual judgment was that the figure was correct and that additional earnings would be made if the 9,000-mile rail consolidation is allowed to go into effect.

Herman Griggs, manager of the Cleveland Ore and Coal Exchange, earlier in the day, testified that the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, as a property, would be enhanced in value by the consolidation because of the outlet the other railroads in the merger would give for coal. Mr. Bernet's cross-examination will be continued tomorrow.

The Nickel Plate, to which the Chesapeake & Ohio would be attached, presented the only available marketing system in Eastern trunk line territory for the Chesapeake & Ohio coal traffic, he argued, and the public interest would be served by linking the two roads.

W. A. Colston, counsel for the Nickel Plate, objected to the cross-examination of Mr. Griggs by Mr. Anderson on the ground that only coal traffic had been studied by the witness. Mr. Anderson was allowed, however, to test the witness's knowledge of the railroad situation by questions directed at various aspects of railroad operation. Mr. Griggs refused at several points to go into specific details as to the betterment of conditions the merger might bring.

LAST OF QUADRUPLETS DIES.

Baby Is Six Months Old When He Succumbs to Whooping Cough.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of 720 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, who became the parents of quadruplets on Jan. 23 last, are mourning the death of the last of the four infants. Joseph Kelly, the last surviving quadruplet, was 6 months old on Thursday, and on that day succumbed to whooping cough.

The babies were named Catherine, Sarah, Edward and Joseph. The two girls and Edward died within a week. Joseph continued to thrive and became a normal baby. He weighed twelve pounds a few days before his death.

HYLAN SCENTS PLOT IN TRACTION SHARES

Declares They Have Risen $54,000,000 in Wall Street on Rumor He Will Go.

Says if Transit Manipulators Get Their Man In 10-Cent Fare Will Boom Securities.

Mayor Hylan declared yesterday that holders of B. M. T. and Interborough securities, whom he characterized as "transit manipulators and their satellites," had already gained $54,000,000 by "manipulation of the stock market" on the rumor that "Hylan was going and an increased fare coming," and would profit $200,000,000 if he should not be re-elected.

The Mayor declared that this alleged desire to reap a huge stock market profit was behind the drive against him by the "traction controlled newspapers" and the attempts to create discord in the Democratic Party. He recalled that the B. M. T. was recently bankrupt and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company only kept out of bankruptcy by a reorganization. To sustain his charge that the desire for profit was the motive of those seeking to defeat him, the Mayor presented the following tabulation as his analysis of the recent increase in the value of transit securities:

Since Jan. 1, 1925, when the traction drive commenced against me in deadly earnest, the B. M. T. stock has fluctuated between $35 and $55, a difference of twenty points on 770,000 shares	$15,400,000
The span in the B. M. T. preferred stock was nine points on 260,000 shares	2,340,000
The B. M. T. bonds advanced over eight points on $139,000,000	11,120,000
The I. R. T. stock, from a low of 13¼, is now at 28½, an advance of fifteen points on 350,000 shares	5,250,000
The I. R. T. bonds and notes have advanced an average of ten points from the low of the year on over $200,000,000	20,000,000

Sees Big Gains in Future.

"So that during the last six months $54,110,000 has been realized in Wall Street by the juggling of these securities and the spreading of rumors that 'Hylan is going' and 'increased fares are coming,'" the Mayor continued.

"Of course, lots of influence, direct and indirect, and plenty of newspaper attack and publicity can be bought for only a small part of this $54,000,000. But this is only the beginning of what Wall Street and the traction crowd will gather in within the next three or four months if they can have absolute assurance that traction henchmen will be in the City Hall.

"If an 8 or 10 cent fare is assured, and it will be if they accomplish the supplanting of the present city Administration with one of their own and the public is forced to pay between $60,000,000 and $100,000,000 a year in increased fares, there will not be the slightest difficulty in sending the 770,000 shares of B. M. T. stock, which only two years ago sold at $1, to $100 per share, an advance of 45 points—$34,650,000.

"Two hundred and sixty thousand shares of 6 per cent. preferred stock, which has already been paying dividends for over a year, to 110, an advance of 30 points—$7,800,000.

"The $139,000,000 B. M. T. 6 per cent. bonds would have no difficulty in reaching 110, a gain of 20 points—$27,800,000. A total advance in B. M. T. securities of $70,250,000.

Envisages a Total of $200,000,000.

"The profit which the I. R. T. traction crowd will make if the increased fare is assured is even easier to calculate.

"Its 350,000 shares of stock are selling at $28.50 a share. No argument is needed that the stock would rise at least 50 points—$17,500,000.

"And the bonds at least to par from their present level of about 70, an advance of 30 points on over $200,000,000, an aggregate gain of over $60,000,000, making the total rise in I. R. T. securities $77,500,000, and a grand total profit from the B. M. T. and the I. R. T. of $147,750,000.

"Taking into account the gain which will come from trading in Manhattan elevated and all of the surface lines of Manhattan and Bronx, and the Brooklyn City Railroad system in Brooklyn, $200,000,000 is conservative, in the face of what traders in Wall Street know has been the experience of those securities in the past years.

"Let the gentlemen in Wall Street and of the traction companies tell how and where this money is going."

RECEIVES BIDS ON SUBWAY.

Transportation Board Takes Up Interborough Projects.

The Board of Transportation received bids yesterday for the installation of tracks for the Westchester Avenue yard of the Interborough subway system. The bidders with informal totals were the Slattery Engineering and Construction Co., $113,881; McElroy & Kerwin, $129,967; T. H. Reynolds, Inc., $130,881, and the Thomas Crimmins Contracting Co., $135,327.

The board also received bids for construction changes in the Lexington Avenue subway made necessary by the widening of the Lexington Avenue roadway between Sixtieth and Sixty-second Streets. The lowest bid was that of Pattelli & Wilson and was $14,400. All the bids were referred to the engineering division of the board for tabulation and report.

CROKER DEEDS VOID AS TO FLORIDA LAND

tion on the property, which some time after Croker's death McDonald and the Palm Beach Estates sought to exercise.

Bula Croker, however, then repudiated the transactions and filed a bill for cancellation of the deeds given to McDonald in Croker's life time.

Therefore, it was contended by the heirs, there was no change in the character of the property as Croker's homestead and no alienation of it, and it should descend to the heirs and widow of Croker as if no such transactions had been made.

Judge Call upheld the allegation that the contracts with McDonald did not constitute an alienation within the meaning of the Constitution of Florida.

Property Worth About $10,000,000.

The property involved in the suit just decided comprises about 11,000 feet of land just south of Palm Beach, lying between the ocean and Lake Worth. At present values this property is estimated at about $10,000,000.

Mrs. Croker said last Winter that when the litigation was settled she intended disposing of her property there. Half of the money derived from the sale, she said, would be used in the erection of three memorials to the late Richard F. Croker. One memorial, she said, would be in Palm Beach, another in New York and the third in Glencairn, Ireland.

The memorials in Palm Beach and New York, she said, would probably be in the form of libraries, in which she also planned to collect all of Mr. Croker's trophies. The memorial in Ireland, she added, would be probably in the form of a hospital.

CRAIG AID SUGGESTS A 'SINNOTT WEEK'

Kerrigan Would Have It Between "Hylan's Clean-Up" and "Enright's Hold-Up" Weeks.

ASSAILS FERRYBOAT BONDS

Declares the Maiden Lane Firm Has Virtual Monopoly Giving It $9,000 a Year.

Sinnott & Canty, the bonding and insurance firm headed by a brother of Mayor Hylan's secretary and son-in-law, has had a "practical monopoly" in furnishing bonds for the construction of municipal ferryboats, Deputy Controller Charles F. Kerrigan declared yesterday.

According to Mr. Kerrigan, Sinnott & Canty collected in premiums from contractors on municipal ferryboats which the Mayor named for officials and political leaders a total of $30,351, on which the firm's commissions amounted to $9,000. Mr. Kerrigan added that on the basis of ferry traffic last year it would take just six and a half days to make up the money collected by Sinnott & Canty before the ferryboats were launched. He suggested that a "Sinnott & Canty Week" on the municipal ferries would be necessary to make up this amount and added that this should precede the Mayor's annual "Clean-up Week" and follow Police Commissioner Enright's "Hold-Up Week."

Says It Takes 600,000 Fares.

Mr. Kerrigan's statement follows:

"Newly built municipal ferryboats have been subjected, before they were launched, to premiums paid to Sinnott & Canty of 80 Maiden Lane to an extent which requires the collection of 600,000 nickel fares to make up the costs of bonding by the Mayor's family bonding firm.

"Testimony given in the investigation by Controller Charles L. Craig's office into the activities of the Sinnott firm and their connection with the Mayor's office in City Hall discloses that Sinnott & Canty had a practical monopoly of the ferryboat bonding business. Only one boat builder did not place his bonds through Sinnott & Canty, and he put up Liberty bonds to escape the Sinnott & Canty tax.

"The Staten Island Shipbuilding Company and the Tebo Yacht Basin Company gave all their business to Sinnott & Canty. A representative of the Staten Island company testified that the firm paid bond premiums to Sinnott & Canty not only on their city contracts but also on their United States Government contracts for Federal ships. Extensive and costly repairs to municipal ferryboats also increased the collections of Sinnott & Canty, who obtained a percentage on the cost of the work.

"The premiums paid to Sinnott & Canty on bonds for the construction of ferryboats so far disclosed amounted to $30,351, as shown in the following table:

Contract	Amount of Contract	Premium.
STATEN IS. SHIPBUILDING COMPANY.
The W. R. Hearst	$1,585,881	$11,727
The Rodman Wanamaker
The George W. Loft
The Henry Bruckner
The William T. Collins
Unnamed Ferryboat	248,340	1,863
TEBO YACHT BASIN COMPANY.
The Murray Hulbert	745,020	5,586
The Edward Riegelmann
The Julius Miller
The John H. McCooey	248,340	1,863
Total premiums		$30,351

"The total number of passengers carried on all municipal ferries in 1924, according to figures in the Controller's office, was 33,716,308. That equals 92,373 a day. To collect enough fares to pay Sinnott & Canty, 607,020 passengers must be carried. At the rate of traffic last year it would take six and a half days to make up the money collected by Sinnott & Canty before the ferries were launched.

"A 'Sinnott & Canty week' on the municipal ferries, with none of the fares going to pay the costs of operation, is necessary in order to carry out Mayor Hylan's program: 'The Sinnotts must live.'

"It is suggested that this 'Sinnott & Canty week' should precede the Mayor's annual 'Clean-up week' and should follow Commissioner Enright's 'Hold-up week.'

Declares It Hits Taxpayers.

"The toll paid to the Sinnott firm, of course, simply increases the deficit in the operating costs of the municipal ferries, which last year amounted to $729,456, and which must be made up by the taxpayers and rentpayers of the entire city.

"Ten of the ferryboats—the John A. Lynch, the Henry Bruckner, the William T. Collins, the Murray Hulbert, the Edward Riegelman, the Julius Miller, the John H. McCooey and the Maurice E. Connolly, and two boats for which Mayor Hylan has not yet announced the names—were contracted for without public letting, at the request of the Commissioner of Plant and Structures endorsed by Mayor Hylan."

Mayor Hylan replied to Controller Craig's charge that the total in premiums collected by the Sinnott firm on city contracts had amounted to $1,000,000 by asking why he should engage in a controversy with "an irresponsible individual who has no regard for the truth?" The Mayor then added:

"Craig is aiding the transit gang in their bold attempt to secure control of the City Government for the purpose of exploiting the people to the extent of a billion dollars."

PARIS SWEPT BY HAIL.

Sewers Flooded, Pavements Torn Up and Telephone Service Interrupted.

PARIS, July 24.—Another disastrous storm swept over the Paris region today. Hailstones came down thickly for an hour and a half, flooding sewers, tearing up the pavement in several streets and flooding two telephone centrals, one of which was put out of action. Firemen had not succeeded in pumping out all the water at a late hour tonight.

Most governmental and embassy buildings have been deprived of telephone service by these accidents, and linesmen are busy in putting up emergency lines.

Wife and Colonel and Mrs Waldo in Party to Be Gone 12 Days.

When Commissioner Enright left Police Headquarters yesterday it was announced that he would leave for Canada this morning on the Furness Bermuda liner Fort Hamilton and would not be back for about twelve days. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Enright, Colonel and Mrs. Rhinelander Waldo, F. Enright and W. Brummerkopt.

Their trip will take them to Halifax, the Saguenay River and Quebec.

Dies to "Clear Path for Wife's Affections," Says Note Left by Man Who Hangs Himself

Special to The New York Times.

EGG HARBOR CITY, N. J., July 24.—Returning last night from a grocery where she had gone to make some purchases for supper Mrs. Dorothy Vandorsky found her husband, John T. Vandorsky, a bricklayer, hanging dead by a rope from a balustrade of the second floor stairway.

In his pocket were found two notes. One was addressed to a man living here, whose name the police would not disclose. It explained that Vandorsky's act was prompted by his desire to "make a clear path for his wife's affections." The second note, addressed to the police, assured them that he had died by his own hand and that no one else was responsible.

Neighbors of the Vanorskys said that they knew of no other man for whom it would have been necessary for Vandorsky to "make a clear path." They expressed the opinion that Vandorsky was mentally unbalanced.

About a week ago, they said, Vandorsky went to a physician in Hammonton to be treated for acid burns of the mouth and throat. At the time he explained that he had swallowed some acid "by mistake," but it is now believed that he was experimenting upon means of commiting suicide at that time.

Mrs. Vandorsky collapsed when she found her husband's body and was put under the care of a physician. Later she said that when she left home to go to the store her husband appeared in the best of spirits. They had been married about eight years and have two small children.

Vandorsky committed suicide by fastening one end of a window-sash cord about his throat and the other to the balustrade. Then he leaped over the railing through an airshaft. A doctor who examined him said his neck was not broken, but that he had died of strangulation.

FREIGHT CAR RAMS A BUILDING; 6 HURT

HURLS DEBRIS ON VICTIMS

Workers Among Piles of Groceries Are Bowled Over and Buried Without Warning.

A freight car being shunted on a side track of the Long Island Railroad in Glendale, Queens, yesterday jumped the rails at the end of a track, plunged fifty feet and butted through a six-inch brick wall of a neighboring warehouse, injuring six workers within. One of the injured is a woman. One man was sent to the hospital in a serious condition.

The injured were all employed by the H. C. Bohack Company, a chain grocery concern which has a warehouse at Metropolitan and Flushing Avenues, Brooklyn, by the sidetrack. The five men were shifting piles of groceries on the main floor and the woman, a clerk, was talking to one when the car suddenly came through the wall, scattering piles of goods and bowling over the workers.

The seriously injured man, who was sent to the Wyckoff Heights Hospital, was Rudolph Weisner of 693 Monroe Street, Brooklyn. He had severe cuts and possibly internal injuries. The others who left for home after treatment for cuts and bruises, were Miss Helen Gilholley of 684 Metropolitan Avenue, William Van Dustin, 38 Tuckerman Avenue; Ralph Steurengel of 84 Zeidler Avenue, all of Brooklyn, and Chris Cehroke of Jamaica Avenue, Flushing.

The car was at the end of a string being pushed on the switch by an electric engine in charge of Motorman Fleet. The switchman was John McCann. The end car jumped the track a few feet from the bumper. The coupling broke as it did so and the car glanced off the bumper and ran on alone across the space between it and the wall. It struck with a loud noise, tearing away the bricks and making a neat hole.

Cases were piled against the part of the wall where the car entered and Weisner was working near them. The groceries were thrown on top of him, nearly burying him. Falling bricks also struck him and other workers.

Policemen sent in calls for an ambulance and with workers from another part of the building extricated the injured from the débris.

BERLIN AGAIN PLANS TO AID RUHR MINES

BERLIN, July 24. — Once more the German Government is coming to the aid of German industry in the Ruhr. The last time this happened was when the Cabinet under the then Chancellor Stresemann pledged to the Ruhr industry in the Fall of 1923 to shoulder the burdens imposed upon them by the French in the form of the Düsseldorf agreements. This time the cause of the trouble is the superfluous production of coal with prices exceeding those in the world markets.

Chancellor Luther expressed his Government's readiness to assist the coal barons at a lengthy conference which he and the Ministers of Commerce and Labor held with these magnates this evening. The presence of Dr. Schacht, President of the Reichsbank, implies—though nothing to this effect is contained in the official communiqué issued late tonight—that the Reich's financial reserve again will be at the disposal of the industrialists, although doubtless to a more limited extent than was the case on the last occasion. That was last January, at which time they compensated the industrialists for their Düsseldorf deliveries to the amount of 700,000,000 gold marks.

The communiqué also omits all reference to the bitter social conflict that underlies the present crisis. It is true that the coal operators are having hard times, but equally apparent is it that they are using their commercial difficulties to make the workers bear the brunt of the economic struggle. In other words, what the industrialists are after is to get longer working hours out of the miners, without increasing wages. It is understood that they indicated to the Chancellor that the only sure means of reducing production costs to a point where competition abroad could be successful was by getting the miners to work an extra half hour daily.

Fifteen mines, employing 10,000 men, now are idle and the operators declare it will be necessary to lay off 36,000 from fifty other mines.

The miners will meet the Chancellor next Wednesday, and will point out that longer hours are unacceptable. While the majority of the miners layed off up to the present have been absorbed by the Braun coal fields and other industries, it is impossible for more to find employment should they be forced to join the ranks of the unemployed.

This evening's conference also discussed the entire economic and financial situation of German industry, especially raw materials and iron and it was agreed to use every means to build up German industry to a point where it will again be a commercial success.

French Cables Go Up, Polish Down.

The Western Union Telegraph Company announced yesterday that beginning Aug. 1 the cable rate to France will be 23 cents a word, an increase of one cent, due to a higher terminal charge by the French Government. The rate to Poland, beginning Aug. 1, will be 25 cents a word, a reduction from 32 cents.

BROADWAY HOLD-UP YIELDS $12,500 LOOT

ONE SUSPECT IS CAPTURED

Jack Silvestri, a plastering contractor, and his partner, Samuel Alperin, entered the six-story building at 200 West Seventy-second Street, at the southwest corner of Broadway, at noon yesterday. They took the elevator up to the fifth floor corridor leading to their offices.

In accordance with their regular practice they had been to the Colonial Bank, Columbus Avenue and Eighty-first Street, for the weekly payroll. Alperin had the money, $12,500 in notes of five, ten, twenty and fifty dollar denominations, in a cardboard box formerly used for envelopes. Neither man was armed. As they approached the Silvestri suite they met two young men, then faced two pistols.

"Where's an empty office here?" demanded one of the robbers, thrusting his weapon against Silvestri's ribs. The contractor pointed to the lavatory. Suddenly one of the men punched the contractor on the tip of the chin. The second hold-up man snatched the box of money from Alperin.

"Come on, you," said the first robber, menacing Silvestri with the gun, "into the lavatory."

Offices Near By Unaware.

Silvestri, dazed from the blow, preceded the man down the hall. Not a sound of the robbery had penetrated the other offices, where came the musketry of typewriters and the sound of persons telephoning.

"Put your face to the wall and don't move for ten minutes," ordered Silvestri's captor. He pushed the contractor's head forward until his face touched the white tiles. Silvestri's straw hat tilted back to cover the back of his head. This very likely saved his life for the robber suddenly dealt him a terrific blow with the butt of his pistol.

The force of the blow was great enough to break into three pieces the vulcanized rubber butt of the weapon, the police later finding the fragments on the floor. The hat broke the strength of the blow, but a hole the size of a quarter was torn in Silvestri's scalp.

Meanwhile the robber with the money ran down the stairs. Alperin darted into the office to telephone an alarm. The fleeing hold-up man was running out the door when the superintendent of the building, Frank Willford, halted him. He grasped the arm of the man and started to ask him where he was going.

The robber, a slight little man, took a second's look at Willford, a tall, heavily built man. Then he literally leaped up and struck Willford on the cheekbone. While the superintendent stood amazed the man fled out the door. Silvestri's captor bounded down the stairs at this juncture and his revolver backed up Willford.

Policeman Collars Suspect.

The Superintendent was in the street in a second, however, and his shouts aroused Policeman James Callahan of Traffic B, regulating the flow of vehicles at the busy intersection. Callahan saw a man jump to the running board of a taxicab at Seventy-first Street and Broadway. The man put his weapon against the chauffeur's back and told him to "speed it up." Callahan's hand closed on the fugitive's neck and his service revolver came up within an inch of his forehead before the chauffeur's foot could press the accelerator. Joseph McGuirk, the taxicab driver, wriggled out of his seat and tackled the fugitive like a football player.

Despite the pistol close to his head the prisoner tried to put up a fight. He was subdued and taken to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, where he described himself as Fred Bruno, a bricklayer, of 322 East 121st Street. Detectives failed to find the man's confederate.

At Police Headquarters the detectives found a record for Bruno which disclosed his right name as Matthew Santora. He was arrested in Mount Vernon on July 1, 1922, charged with stealing from a coin box in a telephone booth. On Jan. 20, 1923, he was charged with possession of burglar's tools and sentenced to the workhouse. On July 7, the same year, he was sent to the workhouse on a conviction for petty larceny. On Sept. 24, also in 1923, he received an indefinite sentence for burglary. Policemen characterized Santora as an "all-round crook." Detectives said they had the name of his companion in the Silvestri hold-up.

RED-RADICAL DEAL FAILS.

Berlin Extremists, Opposing Food Tariff, Develop Discord.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 24.—The first attempt to combine the strength of the Communists and the Socialists to fight the proposed tariffs on foodstuffs brought out several thousand demonstrators to the Lustgarten this afternoon, but the inability of the Communists to limit their speeches to the day's subjects or the Socialists to meet the extreme Lefts on an equal footing gave a repressed tone to the entire demonstration.

What the demonstration lacked in numbers was made up by masses of large red flags and numerous placards protesting against everything. The Socialists claim the Reds used the afternoon's occasion to spread their propaganda among Socialist workers. The parties opposed to protective tariffs on foodstuffs point out that food prices here now are equal to world prices, while wages are lower than in other countries, they say, and a tariff will artificially further increase the cost of living as well as industrial production and decrease exports and employment.

The tariff bill will be discussed by the Reichstag at the beginning of next week.

SIEGEL BAIL RAISED; PLEADS NOT GUILTY

COURT DENOUNCES PLOT

Judge McIntyre Lifts Bond to $25,000 After Browning Tells of Death Threats.

Philip Siegel, 21 years old, charged with attempting to extort $50,000 from Edward W. Browning, wealthy real estate broker, by threats of death to Browning and his adopted daughter, Dorothy Sunshine Browning, was arraigned for pleading yesterday before Judge John F. McIntyre in the Court of General Sessions. He entered a plea of not guilty and his bail was increased from $7,500 to $25,000 by Judge McIntyre.

The increase of bail, which sent Siegel to the Tombs to await trial, brought protests from his attorneys, Benjamin F. Schreiber and John Cauldwell Myers, both former Assistant District Attorneys. Assistant District Attorney William R. Maloney did not seek higher bail, but the Court acted upon the application of counsel for Mr. Browning, who was represented by Francis C. Dale.

Mr. Myers and Mr. Schreiber said they would apply to a Supreme Court Justice for a writ of habeas corpus to have the bail reviewed.

Browning went on the stand and told Judge McIntyre his story of the alleged blackmail plot which, the police say, Siegel confessed. Mr. Myers then entered the plea and asked that the bail of $7,500 be continued, adding that the District Attorney had consented to that amount.

"No, no," said Judge McIntyre, "I'm going to increase bail. If this complainant's story is true, it is the most infamous crime that has been attempted—part of a scheme that has been going on for some time. They were up to murder."

Judge McIntyre indicated that he would not handle the trial.

"I have the greatest abomination," he said, "for the type of person who would commit this kind of crime. I understand there has been a confession and I must presume the defendant to be guilty rather than innocent on the question of bail."

Mr. Myers declared he could prove that the confession had been obtained by duress, alleging that Siegel had been beaten and kicked.

"If that is true," said Judge McIntyre, "the police have committed against the public a crime greater than the crime by the defendant, even assuming he is guilty."

Judge McIntyre said that Mr. Myers should know from his own experience that defendants who had confessed frequently charged that the confession was extorted from them.

Mr. Maloney informed Judge McIntyre that he "would like to have it understood that I had nothing to do with the bail."

BANDITS WORK IN CROWD.

Kidnap and Rob Restaurant Man of $1,000—Throw Him Out of Auto.

Hyman Rosenthal was seized at 11 A. M. yesterday as he elbowed his way through the crowds near his restaurant at 321 Madison Street, flung into a sedan and beaten and robbed of $1,000 as his captors drove leisurely about the neighborhood. Rosenthal finally was thrown out of the car and the bandits drove off.

Rosenthal was on his way from the State Bank, at 376 Grand Street, to his restaurant. He had $1,000 in cash with which to pay his employes and settle a few debts to produce dealers. Three doors from his restaurant a sedan swung to the curb. A man at the wheel leveled a revolver at Rosenthal and two others leaped from the tonneau and covered him with weapons.

"Walk," said one of the bandits. Rosenthal obeyed.

"Get in," said the man, waving toward the car. As Rosenthal complied, his arms were pinioned, the curtains pulled down and the car started off amid a chorus of excited shouts and screams from scores of men and women who had witnessed the daring kidnapping. The car's trail was lost until at Goerck and Stanton Streets Policeman Mahoney of the Clinton Street Station found Rosenthal lying on the sidewalk, the centre of an excited group of persons trying to ascertain how he had received his injuries.

After treatment at the police station Rosenthal gave a good description of his captors. He said that about six weeks ago two armed men held up his restaurant after threatening twelve diners and escaped with $800 from the cash register, and that he believed they were of the same gang that kidnapped and robbed him.

BEAT AND ROB CIGAR CLERK.

Thugs Escape Amid Throngs Near Hudson Terminal.

Arnold Biel, 45 years old, of 1 Sunset Avenue, Lynbrook, L. I., put the day's receipts of several hundred dollars into the safe in the United Cigar Store at Barclay and Greenwich Streets at 6 o'clock last night. He was preparing to close the shop, when two men walked in. They produced pistols and ordered Biel into a telephone booth.

One took $20 from the cash register. Biel began to resist. The second thief struck him on the head with the butt of an automatic. Biel pitched forward on his face, knocked out. The two men ran out without trying to get at the safe and disappeared in Barclay Street. Ten minutes later Biel staggered to the sidewalk and fell.

Near the store is the Hudson Terminal and at the foot of Barclay Street is the ferry to Hoboken. The sidewalks were jammed and the sudden appearance of Biel, his face red with blood, caused screams. Men in the crowd ran to his assistance. He was taken to the Beach Street Station, where he was attended by Dr. Work of the Beekman Street Hospital.

WORKER DIES AFTER ATTACK

Believed to Have Been Victim of Mistake in Union Dispute.

Believed to have been assaulted by mistake in a union war, Isadore Korman, 31 years old, of 1,973 Daly Avenue, the Bronx, died in Fordham Hospital early today from a fractured skull. Korman, a clothing cutter, was a union member in good standing and there had been no trouble at the shop at which he had been working.

He was attacked late yesterday afternoon while walking on Twelfth Street, near Fourth Avenue, by two men, who jumped from an automobile and struck him from behind. The assailants fled as a crowd collected. The injured man was sent home in a taxicab and shortly after reaching there became unconscious, and his wife called an ambulance. Detectives waited at his bedside in the hope that he would be able to tell them of the attack, but he died without recovering consciousness.

$1,000 in Golf Equipment Stolen.

Special to The New York Times.

NETCONG, N. J., July 24.—Thieves forced the front door of the caddy house at the Hopatcong Country Club last night and stole 200 golf clubs and thirty dozen golf balls valued at about $1,000.

INVADE TOWN COUNCIL WITH W. C. T. U. APPEAL

Uninvited Visitors Pray, Then Tell Sussex (N. J.) Mayor Bootlegging Is Going On.

Special to The New York Times.

SUSSEX, N. J., July 24.—While the Town Council, with Mayor S. Frank Quince presiding, was in session this morning, debating matters of street improvement, the door opened and two members of the local chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union entered with the Rev. Thomas S. Davis, a Boston minister.

Before the Mayor or his councilmen could inquire regarding the nature of their visitors' business, the minister began to pray. He invoked divine blessing upon the President of the United States, upon the Governor of the sovereign State of New Jersey and upon its Legislature. Then he besought the Almighty to compel the Mayor and Council of the town of Sussex to enforce the prohibition laws and to stop the shipment of intoxicating liquors to that town.

The Mayor and his councillors sat silent until the prayer was ended. Then Mrs. Carrie Ackerly and Mrs. Frank G. Mesker, the W. C. T. U. represenatives, made themselves heard. They declared that intoxicants wre being used within the limits of the town of Sussex in direct violation of the Federal laws and demanded that the Mayor put a stop to "such goings on."

By this time Mayor Quince had recovered his voice. He referred the matter to the Council's counsel, Marshall Hunt, who advised the delegation that their complaint was a matter for judicial rather than for municipal action, and advised them to repeat their complaint to the nearest Judge.

LECTURER'S PROPERTY ATTACHED FOR $2,350

Advertising Firm Gets an Order Against Orlando Miller, Self-Styled 'Doctor' and Healer.

An attachment for $2,350 against the property of Orlando Edgar Miller, self-styled "doctor" and healer, who lectured in Carnegie Hall last December after the Plaza and Roosevelt Hotels had canceled his talk on "Personality" after previous incidents in his career had been made known, was granted by Supreme Court Justice Ingraham yesterday. The order was applied for by the advertising firm of Hewitt, Gannon & Co., of 52 Vanderbilt Avenue, on a claim for a balance alleged to be due on a bill for $8,176.

The advertising concern obtained the attachment on the ground that Miller is a resident of Hollywood, Cal. The petition stated that advertisements for his lectures on "The Fine Art of Living" and "Personality" were inserted in newspapers and periodicals in Boston, Buffalo and Detroit.

SPEEDY TRIAL FOR HOLD-UP.

Three Men Held as Garage Robbers Plead Not Guilty.

The three men arrested on Thursday, thirty minutes after the robbery of Sepi's Garage in Brooklyn, were held in $50,000 bail each yesterday by Judge Edward Brown in County Court, Brooklyn. They were ordered to appear for trial on Monday.

The men were Joseph Mongiewe of 218 Chrystie Street, Salvatore Dicupera of 200 Forsyth Street and John Doillie of 121 East Houston Street. Indictments charging robbery in the first degree were returned against them by the Grand Jury a few minutes before their arraignment. All pleaded not guilty.

The men are charged with robbing Alfonso Sepi in his garage at 110 Roebling Street, Brooklyn, at 8 A. M., on Thursday. They were caught at 8:30 A. M. and at 2 P. M. District Attorney Charles Dodd put their case in the hands of the Grand Jury. A check-up yesterday of the money and jewelry taken from Sepi disclosed that the total was $3,200 instead of $1,500. Only $500 in cash was recovered when policemen arrested the men in an automobile on the Manhattan Bridge.

JAILED ON HONEYMOON.

Man Who Said He Was Atlanta Golfer Accused of Defrauding Hotel.

Frank McKenzie, 26 years old, who said he was a professional golfer in Atlanta, was in the line-up of prisoners at Police Headquarters yesterday. He was arrested Thursday afternoon at the Hotel Astor, where he was spending his honeymoon with his bride of a week, on the request of the police of Buffalo, who want him for failure to pay a hotel bill.

McKenzie, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Buffalo, married Mary Ross, also of Atlanta, on the day he arrived in that city and the next day appeared at a country club with letters of introduction, which the police declared were forgeries. Before leaving for New York, according to the Buffalo police, McKenzie presented worthless checks in payment for two automobiles, a diamond ring and golf clubs. The goods were not delivered. Another Associated Press dispatch from Atlanta said that golfers there did not know McKenzie.

The prisoner said the hotel bill was trifling and that he left behind golf clubs which would more than meet it. He told Inspector John D. Coughlin that the charge brought by the hotel was, to say the least, indiscreet."

Gets Watch for Killing Robber.

The American Surety Company sent a watch yesterday to Ross E. Worley, bank cashier of Bothell, Wash., in recognition of his gravery in killing two hold-up men and wounding another recently. The company had issued hold-up and burglary policies in favor of the bank.

HOTEL PLAZA DINER SUICIDE AT TABLE

It was between 12:15 and 12:30 o'clock when he again stepped into the dining room. There were several couples there as he entrd but they were just concluding their meal and left as the young man seated himself at his table. Speritz attended him again and the man order the chicken and salad to be served. Spertz turned toward the kitchen calling Carroll Simmonds, a bus boy, as he went. Simmonds arranged the service at the young man's table and had turned away in search of some article when the young man drew the revolver from his pocket.

Simmonds turned back in time to see him put the weapon to his chest, over his heart, and pull the trigger. Instantly he slumped down in his chair and then slid slowly out of it to the floor.

Examination later showed that the revolver was brand new and that it had contained only two cartridges. One was still unexploded in the barrel of the weapon. The bullet from the other had gone through the youth's heart.

The body was taken to the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station. A more careful search made there failed to disclose any additional clue to the identity of the dead man.

SCOTT IS HEARTENED OVER SANITY STAY

Condemned Man Is Confident That His Life Will Be Spared After Hearing.

THIS IS SET FOR AUGUST 3

Defenders of Prisoner Take Breathing Spell to Begin Final Efforts Before Court.

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP).—Russell Scott, saved from the gallows for the second time in eight days, when, after 2 o'clock this morning, Judge David granted a stay till Aug. 3 to inquire into the condemned man's sanity, lost his comfortable death cell and mattress today. His move to regular quarters with less comfortable accommodations was, however, a willing one, and the prisoner expressed his belief that he would now be spared his life.

Late today the former Canadian financier, who had spent ten days in the death cell, twice coming within half a dozen hours of the death march, amended a statement he made at the time he was told of the stay to the effect that he was not insane by stating that no one could have spent the many months laboring under the strain he has endured and still remain normal.

Judge David, in fixing Monday, Aug. 3, as the time for the sanity hearing, said that he had no recourse but to grant the request for a sanity test, as the law is mandatory. The action, it was pointed out, is similar in every respect to that in the case of Gene Geary, gangster, who escaped the gallows three years ago, when his execution was stopped and a sanity hearing was held. He was found insane and committed to an asylum.

Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney, and George Gorman, his assistant, who prosecuted Scott, said they believe Scott is as sane now as when the crime was committed, and will not relent in their efforts to send him to the gallows.

His Defenders Take a Rest.

Those who have worked to save Scott's life, including Thomas Scott, his father; Mrs. Catherine Scott, his wife, who was racing here from Springfield to bid him farewell when he received the stay this morning, and Detroit and Windsor (Ontario) clubwomen, and his attorneys, today took a breathing spell while planning moves of the newest plan to prevent his execution.

Scott was visited during the day by William Scott Stewart, retained by Detroit clubwomen to help him and who saved him from the gallows today, and by his wife and father. Scott said he now felt confident his life would be spared.

Scott, when first advised of the action of Judge David, said:

"I am no more crazy than the Judge who granted a stay on that account."

Several hours later he told newspaper men:

"I do know that no man can spend nineteen months such as I have spent in jail and still be normal."

Clerk's Father Denies Liquor Party.

Jacon Maurer, father of the slain youth, declared today that the stories that the shooting was the result of a liquor party in the drug store where his son Joseph was employed were lies.

Maurer appeared at the State's Attorney's office in response to a telephone message saying he was wanted there, but that proved untrue. As to the hanging sentence against Scott, he said:

"I have never asked for revenge. I am an American citizen and believe in the verdict given by the Court. If twelve men say that he should be hanged, then he should be. I only want to see justice done. I feel heartily sorry for his father and for his noble wife, but nobody felt sorry for my boy. He was killed in cold blood."

A report from Port Huron, Mich., that Robert Scott had been there and was en route to Chicago, was found without foundation Mrs. Isobel Hurst of Detroit, declared today. She said Thomas Chawke, her Detroit attorney, had investigated and believed the report was originated by a woman inspired by sentimentality.

Says Scott Has a Psychosis.

Mr. Stewart indicated tonight that Scott's defense at the sanity hearing will be that he is the victim of "prison-psychosis" that his mind has become affected by the fifteen months he has spent in the Cook County Jail and by the harrowing experience of being taken twice to the death cell and seeing the death watch gather about him, only to be literally snatched from the noose a few hours later.

Almost the same alienists who testified for Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, will testify for Scott. This had been made possible, Mr. Stewart said, through the receipt of more funds from sympathizers of his client.

Bottle Yields Note to Scott.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 24 (AP).—A bottle was picked up in the St. Clair River today containing a note addressed to Russell T. Scott and purporting to be signed by his brother Robert.

The message said:

"Dear Russell: I'm in Detroit. Dad knows where I am. He knows that I'm a better boy than you are. Everything that I can do to help you I will do, but I did not send the messages to the attorneys. "ROBERT."

Charge a Chicago "Frame-Up."

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., July 24.—John W. Hewer, and other members of the "Save Scott's Life" Committee, who, for months, have been fighting to secure commutation of sentence and a new trial for Russell T. Scott, expressed the belief today that Scott was "framed" and that the place where the murder of which he was convicted and condemned was under protection of prominent Chicago politicians. Hewer also declared that the Cook County Sheriff's Office recently sent a spy to Windsor in an effort to mislead the Scott Committee into belief that the condemned man would be saved by Governor Small.

Scott's Mother Goes to Chicago.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 24 (AP).—Mrs. Rilla May Scott, mother of Russell Scott, left her home in Bay Village, a suburb, tonight for Chicago to help in the fight to clear her son of the murder charge. She explained that she had not gone before because Russell had requested her to stay away.

BOY DYING OF LOCKJAW.

Doctors Blame Firecrackers Which Exploded in His Hand.

Dominick Volsenze, 13 years old, of 694 Jefferson Street, West New York, is dying of lockjaw in the North Hudson Hospital. A firecracker which exploded prematurely in the boy's hand on July 4 is blamed by the doctors for his condition. Symptoms of tetanus were not discovered until last Sunday, when Dominick complained of feeling ill and his father summoned Dr. Max H. Miller, the family physician.

The only reason Dominick could give for his illness was that he had been swimming with his clothes on and that when he had returned home he had been too tired to take them off and had gone to sleep in them. The doctor questioned the boy further and learned of the firecracker episode.

At the hospital Dominick is being fed through a glass tube. Already 90,000 units of tetanus antitoxin have been administered him, but doctors say he cannot recover.

COOLIDGE TO AVOID ACTION ON COAL NOW

GIVES ANDREWS FREE HAND

Will Support His Dry Enforcement Plans Against Politicians — Is Opposed to Tariff Revision.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 24.—In his conference with newspaper men at White Court today President Coolidge defined the Administration's attitude on the coal strike, tariff revision by the next Congress and prohibition enforcement unhampered by political influence in a decisive manner.

President Coolidge, who favors American entrance into the World Court, declared his acceptance of the general proposal advanced by Senator Borah that the United States should not interfere in the affairs of Latin republics.

The coal situation, as the most far-reaching problem before him and one that contains economic and political angles, is the foremost question now under consideration. Mr. Coolidge indicated today that he was giving it earnest thought, but did not intend to interfere in the miners' and operators' dispute at this juncture, although he was prepared to exert the pressure of the Federal Government, representing public opinion, when the efforts of the disputants were exhausted. He feels that if the Government stepped in now, before the miners and operators had come to an absolute deadlock in their negotiations, it would do more harm than good.

The threatening coal strike not only has an important bearing upon the interests of the public but now is injecting itself into politics. It is feared by Pennsylvania Republican politicians that Governor Pinchot may take a hand in the situation before the Federal Administration, which, if it proves successful, will weigh against the Republican Party nationally and may elect Governor Pinchot Senator from Pennsylvania next year to succeed Senator Pepper. The latter is anxious to see the Federal Government become active as soon as conditions demand, so as to forestall any action Governor Pinchot may be considering.

Expect Pinchot to Enter Primary.

Reports received here from Pennsylvania are that Governor Pinchot intends to enter the primary against Senator Pepper and that his issue will be settlement of the coal strike. Such a development, and the possibility that Mr. Pepper may have opposition from the regular faction in his party, might bring about a duplication of the gubernatorial contest when Mr. Pinchot was elected in a three-cornered fight against the machine.

Senator Pepper is scheduled to come here on Aug. 1 to present the political and economic aspects of the strike to President Coolidge and advise him to be ready to act by the middle of August, by which time, if the Government hopes to prevent the miners stopping work on Sept. 1, it is held, an effective plan must be put into operation. The coal question and the World Court will be discussed, but President Coolidge has summoned Senator Pepper chiefly to get his advice on the plans of the Federal Government to prevent a strike.

As to prohibition enforcement, President Coolidge reiterated his view that General Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, should have a free hand, unhampered by political pressure, in the organization of the Government prohibition forces. The President has noted the troubles encountered by General Andrews in his reorganization plans, and while things have not come to such a pass as to require Executive interference with the political obstructionists, Mr. Coolidge is prepared to support General Andrews as against Senators and others who are now embarrassing him in his reorganization plans.

At present the situation has not reached a point where General Andrews needs another conference with the President. The latter, it was pointed out today, has told the General that he was to go forward in his plans unrestricted by outside influences. Reorganization of the prohibition unit to bring about the best results is now under way and better enforcement is expected when the coordinated plans are in operation.

President Coolidge doubts if there is much politics in prohibition enforcement under Major Haynes. It has been the policy in the past and will be in the future to engage men who could be relied upon to enforce the law. General Andrews is going along in that policy, it was said, and if it is found that his plans are interfered with by the politicians the Administration will support him against them, no matter how important they may be in the party councils.

Opposed to Tariff Revision.

President Coolidge does not know of any serious proposal to have tariff revision in the next Congress. He is opposed to it, and will not recommend it in his message. He feels that any changes necessary to meet emergency conditions can be made under the flexible clause in the present law. He feels that it is well to see how this tariff law works out and that it is proceeding well now, with exports and imports expanding.

The business of the country is adjusted to the present tariff law, it is pointed out, and President Coolidge is opposed to any charge, believing that any tinkering with the tariff would throw the whole country into a state of suspense and an unfortunate condition for business, which is proceeding now in a very satisfactory way, with its course well marked out.

Without approving of the full intent of Senator Borah's proposal contained in a recent magazine article, President Coolidge is in entire agreement that the United States should keep out of the affairs of Latin and South American countries. That is a fundamental American policy, Mr. Coolidge thinks, and one upon which there can be no dispute. This country, in the opinion of the President, has not interfered in South America except at the request of the duly authorized Governments. Even then, the President asserted, this country has hesitated to send armed forces into Latin republics. Such a policy always has been followed.

Mr. Coolidge has instructed the Shipping Board that if it wants an opinion on the law, because of the recent dispute over the sale of vessels for scrapping, it should formulate the question and send it to himself or the Attorney General. The latter official will then determine whether an opinion is necessary. The President believes the law on the subject is very clear.

While he has made no estimate, President Coolidge is not so hopeful that a reorganization of the Government departments would bring about an annual saving of $250,000,000, as estimated by Senator Curtis, while discussing taxation matters with Mr. Coolidge recently.

COL. GALLAGHER QUITS ARMY AFTER 45 YEARS

Won Praise as Hero of Martinique Relief and Chief Quartermaster of Siberian Expedition.

Colonel Hugh J. Gallagher of the Quartermaster Corps of the United States Army, hero of the relief expedition to the Island of Martinique in 1902, retired yesterday at the age of 64, after forty-five years of active service.

In the army Colonel Gallagher was known as "a man for emergencies." After the Martinique disaster he was sent to New Zealand and Australia by Major Gen. Leonard Wood to obtain a dependable supply of beef for the troops in the Philippines.

When the United States entered the World War he was at first made Quartermaster for the Southeastern Department of the army. But later he was selected as Chief Quartermaster of the Siberian Relief Expedition and won much commendation for his work there.

In a letter yesterday to Colonel Gallagher on the occasion of his retirement, Major Gen. William H. Hart, Quartermaster General of the Army, said: "You have made a record of forty-five years of patriotic and efficient service to the nation. I wish the story of your army service could be flashed before every officer starting upon his career. Your service has been loyal and faithful as well as efficient. You have considered duty first, and individual preferment second. Your loyalty has been such that nothing could stand between you and those whom you served.

"You have a record of which any officer may be proud: the Martinique earthquake catastrophe in the French West Indies, the Cuban campaign, the Boxer trouble in China, Australia, the equipping and supplying of World War division camps, in Siberia as Chief Quartermaster of the American forces, and, lastly, at Army Base, Brooklyn—in all of which service you have established high marks for generations of quartermasters following after to aim at.

"For the Quartermaster Corps, and myself personally, I want to congratulate you upon the service you have given and express our best wishes for your future welfare and happiness."

Colonel Frank H. Lawton, at present Quartermaster of the Second Corps Area, will succeed Colonel Gallagher in charge of the supply base at Fifty-eighth Street and First Avenue, Brooklyn.

SIMONS WON ONE POINT.

Decision on Appeal Permits His Suit to Proceed on Its Merits.

Messrs. House, Grossman & Vorhaus, attorneys for the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union, said yesterday that the decision of the Court of Appeals in the case of David Simons affected only the procedure in the case, and has no effect upon the merits of the case itself. Leo J. Rosen of the firm thus explained the decision:

"The action was brought by Simons against the International Union after he had voluntarily given up his membership under a written agreement in that union, and in New York Local 25, which lost its charter because of the illegal newspaper strike called by it. Simons sued for an injunction, and a preliminary injunction was granted him by Justice Giegerich, which on appeal last year was unanimously reversed by the Appellate Division. No further appeal was taken.

"Thereafter a motion was made by the defendant to dismiss the complaint upon the ground that it failed to state facts constituting a cause of action. Justice Crain, at Special Term, denied the motion, which on appeal was unanimously reversed by the Appellate Division. The Court of Appeals, however, reversed the Appellate Division and holds that the complaint does state a cause of action. This decision passes only on the complaint and has no effect upon the merits of the case itself.

"The case has never been placed upon a calendar for trial, or ever noticed for trial, and no verdict has been given in favor of either side. The defendant has not yet served an answer, so that any statement to the effect that Simons has won his fight for membership is absolutely untrue."

HUNGRY, RAIDED POOR BOX.

Police Find Man Kneeling in Church and Buy a Meal for Him.

Shortly after 2 A. M. yesterday, Mgr. F. J. O'Hara, pastor of St. James's Pro-Cathedral at Jay and Chapel Streets, Brooklyn, was awakened by the ringing of an alarm attached to the poor boxes of the church. He telephoned to Police Headquarters, and Detective James Diamond and several policemen from the Poplar Street station hurried to the church.

The men quickly surrounded the edifice, while Diamond made a search. On the Chapel Street side he found a window open and a pair of shoes on the ground beneath the window. Diamond and some of the policemen entered through the window and with revolvers in their hands went through the church. They found a man kneeling in prayer at the altar rail. The man made no resistance when placed under arrest.

At the station he said he was Anthony Egli, 27 years old, and that he had no home and was out of employment. He said that a week ago he was released from Snake Hill Penitentiary, New Jersey, after serving eighteen months for possession of burglar tools. Since then he said he had very little to eat and was starving. He admitted taking $1.52 from the poor box.

The policemen were so impressed with the man's story that they bought him a substantial meal. Later he was arraigned in Adams Street Police Court and held until his story is investigated.

CANCELS POLITICAL SATIRE.

Special to The New York Times.

SALEM, Mass., July 24.—Lest offense be given to the clientele which patronizes the Empire Theatre and includes many prominent Republicans, such as Senator W. M. Butler and Frank W. Stearns, the management has canceled "We Have With Us," a political satire, which was on the bill for next week, with Peggy Wood in the leading rôle.

The play, it is said, deals with certain political foibles. David Carb, the author, was asked to make changes in the script, but refused, and so the tryout of the play has been postponed indefinitely. Salem adjoins Swampscott, present home of the President.

A. H. Woods has an interest in the play and intended producing it in New York in the Fall if the tryout proved successful.

BISHOP AND LAWYER FINED; FACE PRISON

MUST GIVE UP PROPERTY

Archbishop Platon Wins Long Fight for Leadership—Attorney Criticizes Decision.

Bishop Adam Phillipovsky, who says he is the head of the Russian Orthodox Catholic Church, and Maurice B. Gluck, a lawyer, of 9 Church Street, were adjudged guilty of contempt of court yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Levy. The contempt consisted of ousting on July 1, with the aid of members of the Police Bomb Squad, Archbishop Platon Rodzestvensky from the Russian Orthodox Cathedral of St. Nicholas at 13-15 East Ninety-seventh Street.

Justice Levy fined the Bishop and the lawyer $250 each and ordered that, unless they turn over the Cathedral to Archbishop Platon and his followers within five hours after they are served with copies of the order, they shall be committed to jail for thirty days.

This is the latest development in a struggle of years for the leadership of the Russian Orthodox Catholic Church in America and for possession of its properties. As early as November, 1923, Archbishop Platon caused to be ejected from the church John F. Kedrovsky, a Russian priest, who said he came to take possession of all the Russian Church properties in the diocese of North America, then valued at about $3,000,000.

Mr. Gluck, late yesterday afternoon, said he had not been served with a copy of the order. Should he be served today, he added, he and the Bishop probably would have to spend tomorrow in jail.

Gluck Will Appeal.

"Can you imagine a Bishop spending Sunday in prison?" Mr. Gluck asked. "Of course I shall appeal at once. Justice Levy has more than once taken just such drastic steps as this."

Supreme Court Justice Ford some time ago, by decree, declared Archbishop Rodzestvensky Metropolitan in this country. Bishop Phillipovsky declared last May that he had been made Bishop and began court action to get possession of the church property.

A motion for summary judgment on the pleadings was pending in May, and a default was taken before Supreme Court Justice Richard P. Lydon. Thomas H. Mahoney, attorney for Archbishop Rodzestvensky, obtained an order June 15 from Supreme Court Justice Tierney for a temporary stay of all proceedings until his motion to open the default should be heard. The stay was continued by Justice Levy.

July 1, while the stay was still operative, Bishop Phillipovsky, Mr. Gluck, Captain Gegan of the Police Bomb Squad and several of his men forced their way into the cathedral and evicted Bishop Rodzestvensky. Following that action Mr. Mahoney asked that the Bishop and the attorney be adjudged guilty of contempt for disobeying the stay granted by Justice Tierney. When the case was argued before Justice Levy July 3 he criticized Mr. Gluck severely.

Justice Levy Scores Lawyer.

In his opinion yesterday Justice Levy outlined the story of the appearance at the church of Bishop Phillipovsky, Mr. Gluck and the police. He said the latter might be free from responsibility as they were present merely to preserve the peace. The opinion continues:

"Whatever excuse there may be for the conduct of Bishop Adam, a foreigner, probably unacquainted with the processes of our courts and likely acting by advice of counsel—although this is not claimed—it certainly can be of no avail to Attorney Gluck.

"His course of conduct is positively reprehensible. It may be said to be aggravated by the fact that after he had notice of the decision opening the default and vacating the judgment, he still failed to evince any intent to make proper reparation for his contumacious activities. On the contrary he boldly declared to the attorney for the moving party that, no matter what the decision might be, his client nevertheless would remain in possession of the property. Of such effrontery it is hard to conceive."

Mr. Gluck declared last night that the Justice could not order him to give up the church property as he does not possess it. He continued:

"Bishop Phillipovsky will never give up possession of the property on account of me, or to keep me out of jail. I would not let him and he could not if I would, not even if the Supreme Court decided against him. It is quite the vogue nowadays to tell people they can't run their own religions."

RUSH WORK ON WATER MAIN

Engineers Expect to Finish Repair of Fifth Avenue Break Today.

Repair work on the water main which burst Thursday afternoon at Fifth Avenue and Ninth Street was rushed yesterday, and city engineers said they expected the job to be finished this morning.

The Department of Water Supply kept twenty men working on it Thursday night. They located the break in a five-foot section, forty-eight inches in diameter, which was found to be cracked along the bottom. It was removed and replaced with a new piece of pipe.

A gas main nearby was removed at the same time by the Consolidated Gas Company. It will be replaced when work on the water main is finished.

City engineers said that the excavation would be kept open for about a week until a sewer which collapsed underneath the broken main is repaired.

CHAMPION FIGHTER FINED.

Berlenbach and Two Companions Pay $25 Each for Speeding.

Paul Berlenbach, light-heavyweight champion of the world; Lew Perfetti, another boxer, and Walter Camp, son of the late Walter Camp, the football expert, appeared before Magistrate Harry Miller in Queens yesterday charged with speeding. All were found guilty, and each was fined $20.

Magistrate Miller, in fining Berlenbach, smiled and said it would be wise in the future if Berlenbach confined his speed to the prize ring in defense of his crown.

Wards Island Gets Sewer Madman.

David Greenwood, the deranged man who escaped from his keepers while being transported from Bellevue to Wards Island on July 16 and ran up a sewer almost to Madison Avenue before he was caught and returned to Bellevue, was sent to Manhattan State Hospital on Wards Island yesterday. He was still suffering from injuries received in his attempted escape.

To Try Cornell Freshman Today.

ITHACA, N. Y., July 24 (AP).—Hamilton Ward Jr. of Buffalo, a Cornell University freshman, goes on trial here tomorrow for alleged disorderly conduct in an Ithaca theatre in May. Ward faces also the possibility of being defendant in a civil action for heavy damages by Henry A. Carey, Ithaca insurance man, whom Ward is alleged to have assaulted.

English Schoolboy 'Talks' With MacMillan and Relays Notes America Could Not Get

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—A young student named Goyder at Mill Hill school, Middlesex, this morning established a clear two-way communication with the MacMillan Arctic expedition as the ship Bowdoin, with Captain MacMillan aboard, was crossing the Arctic Circle.

Captain MacMillan wirelessed that he had been trying unsuccessfully to get in touch with a number of stations for the purpose of sending personal messages but found the Mill Hill, school wireless the clearest of all.

The first communication with the school was attempted Saturday when the MacMillan ship at Hopedale, Labrador, was held up for propeller trouble.

It was Goyder who was the first to obtain two-way communication by wireless between Britain and New Zealand.

Goyder uses a simple apparatus with a wave-length of 40 meters. He receives on a Reinartz circuit, the inventor of which is operating the wireless station aboard the Bowdoin.

MacMillan told Goyder he was in communication with the United States only briefly in the evening and not sufficiently long to transmit his messages. Among the messages which MacMillan requested Goyder to forward was one to U. G. Addison, 41 Putnam Street, Somerville, Mass., as follows:

"Message announcing Barbara Rose received July 19. I'm very pleased; all boys send congratulations. Love to all. signed, Dad."

Another reads: Frank G. Saxton, Chamber of Commerce, Toledo, Ohio: "Deeply appreciate kind messages from the Chamber. Kindest regards. MacMillan."

Others are: To Gilbert O. Grosvenor, National Geographic Society, Washington: "Glad to hear from you. Hope our coal trouble hasn't delayed your European trip. We miss you on board. Wish you were with us. MacMillan."

To Wallace Lovett, Standard Dairy Company, 26 Blackstone Street, Cambridge, Mass.: "Thanks for diaries and kind letter. Your interest much appreciated. MacMillan."

To Daniel L. Brainard, Army and Navy Club, Washington: "Appreciate all your good wishes as conveyed in letter received off Greenland Coast. MacMillan."

To Harold Orne, Rockland Street, Melrose Highlands, Washington: "Have had the time today to look at photos you so kindly sent me. Thanks very much. MacMillan."

To George W. Treat, E. H. Rollins & Sons, Devonshire Street, Boston: "Can't tell you how much I appreciate fine letter received off Greenland. Having trouble coal supply for Peary, but hope it will look better tomorrow."

WORKERS HIT BACK AT TAILORING FIRM

Ask That International Company Be Enjoined From Trying to Wreck Union.

CHARGE A 'CONSPIRACY'

Steuer Launches Attack During Argument on Concern's Petition for Restraining Picketers.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America retaliated yesterday against the International Tailoring Company, which is seeking an injunction to restrain members of the union from picketing and causing alleged interference with the company's business. They asked Supreme Court Justice Churchill for a counter-injunction to prevent the tailoring company from carrying out an alleged conspiracy to wreck the union. This was asked during the argument by Max D. Steuer for the union on the application of the International Tailoring Company to continue a temporary injunction obtained against the union last week.

The plant of the International Company at Twelfth Street and Fourth Avenue has been picketed since the end of June, when the Amalgamated workers struck because the Chicago International Tailoring Company broke with the union. The temporary injunction was granted on affidavits alleging violence by pickets and union members.

Monroe Goldwater, attorney for the International Tailoring Company, asked Justice Churchill for permission to submit new affidavits on the difficulties of his client with the union, but Mr. Steuer objected that the question of continuing the temporary injunction should be determined on the affidavits already filed. Justice Churchill reserved decision on this application, and also on the motion to continue the injunction and the counter-motion of the union for a restraining order against the manufacturers.

It was alleged by the union in its counter-petition that the Chicago company broke off relations with the Amalgamated in June during the dull season, when it would be most advantageous to them, and do most harm to the union, and "conducted sham negotiations for the renewal of the agreement with the defendant until its plans and purposes were ripe for consummation."

The Amalgamated in addition to asking an injunction on the ground that the plaintiff is conducting a common law conspiracy to ruin the union by causing members to desert, blacklisting them, and causing them to be arrested on false charges, asks $250,000 damages for the loss alleged to have been sustained by the actions of the company. In the course of the argument, Justice Churchill directed the attorneys to limit their remarks to the question of undue violence in picketing.

Mr. Steuer stressed an affidavit by Israel Mendelson, who had been employed as a cutter in the International plant, in which Mendelson stated that the International Tailoring Company sent out notices in June that the Amalgamated was ruining its business and that it was only a question of time when it would be necessary to move the plant in order to prevent "utter ruin." Mendelson asserted that the company paid a Federal income tax of $64,237 last year, indicating, he said, that the net profits were $500,000.

The affidavit of Mendelson also declared that in 1920, when the agreement was first made with the Amalgamated, the International had a capital and surplus of $1,363,385, and that in December last the capital and surplus had increased to $3,093,920. For this reason, Mr. Steuer argued, the International Tailoring Company had not been damaged as a result of its contract with the Amalgamated.

HOPS WITH BROKEN LEG.

Woman, Struck by Truck, Stands and Waits for Ambulance.

Mrs. Lottie Lambert, 45 years old, of 17 Van Buren Street, Brooklyn, showed remarkable fortitude when, after being knocked down by a truck at the south entrance to the Queensborough Bridge, at Hunter Street, Long Island City, she got up unaided and hopped on one foot to an elevated pillar, where she steadied herself although suffering from a fracture of the right leg, as was revealed when she was taken to St. John's Hospital. She refused to take an anesthetic while surgeons set the fracture, which was below the knee.

Policeman Katz was regulating traffic nearby when he heard the shouts of several men who had seen Mrs. Lambert knocked down. As he rushed toward her, the woman, with blood streaming down her face, hopped to the elevated upright.

MINISTER ADMITS FRAUD.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 24 (AP).—Special Officer William E. Gray today brought back the Rev. R. Carl Ziegler, charged with embezzling funds from the Ku Klux Klan of New Jersey, and Miss Margaret Roberts, both of Trenton, who disappeared several weeks ago. They were arrested in El Paso, Texas, where they were traced by William Chamberlain, Miss Roberts's fiance.

Ziegler pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement before Justice E. C. Wainwright of Red Bank. In default of $10,000 bail he was committed to the Freehold Jail. The girl was not held and went with Chamberlain to Elkwood Park, the New Jersey Klan headquarters, where a reconciliation was said to have been effected.

$10,000 PRIZE CHOW ARRIVES ON LINER

DOG GOING TO BALTIMORE

Bowman Among the Passengers on the Aquitania—Says Americans Fill Foreign Hotels.

When the Cunard liner Aquitania was made fast at her pier yesterday at the foot of West Thirteenth Street and the gangways run out, the attention of every one, including the customs officials and longshoremen, was attracted to Champion Choonan Brilliantine, the $10,000 chow dog, said to be the handsomest of that species ever seen in Europe or in the United States.

With a magnificent ruddy mane tinged with gold and a face like that of the benevolent-looking red lions one sees in picture books the champion chow, which has carried off all prizes in England, walked down to the pier beside Mrs. William S. Beyer of Baltimore, who said she had brought the dog over for his owner, Mrs. H. Earle Hoover of Glencoe, Ill. The dog was born at Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England, sixteen months ago and won his first prize when he was three months old, Mrs. Beyer said. The duty paid on the dog was $1,400. After being inspected by the customs officials and admired by the crowd the famous chow was stowed away in a big square box like a miniature seashore bungalow and shipped away in charge of an attendant.

There were several other prize dogs on the liner, including three fine St. Bernards brought direct from the monastery on Mount St. Bernard, Switzerland, by D. H. Lawrence. One of the dogs was Meggi II, which has won several prizes, the owner said. There were other pedigree chows, spaniels and the usual number of police dogs.

One of the interesting passengers was the Zamindar of Palayampatti, who comes from Southern India, between Madras and Tanjore, one of the hottest sections of that country. It was his first trip to the United States, he said. He plans to visit the principal cities of the East and then go to Canada. The Zamindar wore a blue serge lounge suit with a turban of rose silk and gold brocade.

The new capital at Delhi is a fine city, the Zamindar said, and well worth seeing. Conditions in India were quiet when he left two months ago. When asked if he was fond of going out into the jungle to shoot tigers, the Hindu chieftain replied, smilingly, "No thanks, I prefer to play golf."

Another passenger was John McKay Bowman, head of the Biltmore group of hotels in New York, who returned from a short trip to London and Paris. He said that Americans were going over to Europe and filling the foreign hotels because they liked to have wine or other liquors with their meals. He admired the work being done by United States Attorney Buckner, and said that the strict enforcement of the Volstead act here will convince the people of the United States of the fallacy of the act.

Pat Malloy, the refrigerator attendant on the Aquitania, was operated upon for appendicitis last Monday morning, and was out of danger and resting comfortably when the liner arrived here. The operation was performed by Dr. B. Sydney Jones, senior surgeon of the ship, assisted by Dr. R. T. Congdon of Wenatchee, Wash., and Dr. Bon O. Adams of Riverside, Cal. The ship was not stopped or slowed down while the operation was being performed, Dr. Jones said, as it was not considered necessary. The weather was fine and the sea smooth.

There were 1,063 passengers on the liner, 514 of whom were in the first class.

Persistent Thief Gets 6 Months.

William Gross of 204A Thirty-first Street, Brooklyn, whose daily thefts for nearly two years and a half put the grocery store of Anthony and Rosina Palumbo at 180 Thirty-first Street more than $6,000 in debt, according to the owners, was sentenced yesterday to serve six months in the workhouse by Justices Salmon, Edwards and Herbert in the Court of Special Sessions.

of Sutherland, went for 800 guineas, and a study of a portico of a church with a few crayon lines intended to outline the figure of Lord Ribblesdale, but merely sketched, fetched the lowest price of the day, 55 guineas, but other prices were much higher.

Collector Agnew bought "A Boat With Golden Sail" for £7,350; Mr. Martin took "Ladies in a Garden" for £6,930; "Sketch of Carmencita" fetched £5,040; "Chalets in a Valley," £4,410; "Church of the Gesuiti," £3,570; "Entrance to Santa Maria," £3,360; "A Torrent in Norway," £2,835.

Most Expensive Man by Stream.

The Evening News remarks of the "Man Seated by a Stream," which went for 850 guineas in a few seconds, that it "surely is the most expensive man who ever sat by a stream."

Prices went so high that it is presumed some dealers were buying on commission. Experts declared it quite impossible for them to purchase at such rates as speculation, but the great reputation that Sargent had in his lifetime and the knowledge that this is absolutely a complete sale of all his work left in his studio made art lovers all over the world anxious to obtain at least one specimen of his brush willing to pay a fancy price for the pictures they preferred.

Some Sketches Coming Here.

American buyers were largely represented at the sale. It was presumed, for instance, that seven purchases by Knoedler and Messrs. Stevens and Brown were destined to cross the Atlantic.

But the question put several times during the afternoon was: "Who is Marshall?"

Marshall, it is stated, was buying for galleries and private clients in America. He was well hidden among the crowd of dealers, but was one of the most active bidders, his captures including "A View in the Simpson Valley," £3,150; "Lady of an Alpine Pool," £2,625; "Head of Mmme. Duse," £1,102, and "An Italian Sailor," £2,625.

Knoedler's purchases included "Mount Cervin," £1,050; "Cypress Trees at San Vigilio," £3,150, and "A Sketch of a Balustrade," £1,050.

MINERS STILL PRESS CHECK-OFF DEMAND

Deduction of Union Dues by Employers Would Avert Strikes, They Say.

LABOR HEAD PLEDGES AID

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 24.—Continuing where they left off yesterday, the miners elucidated in more detail today their reasons for asking the anthracite operators to include in a new wage agreement the check-off of union dues and assessments from the coal diggers' pay envelopes. Today's session was the second devoted solely to this subject. More time has been spent on the check-off than on any other point which has become before the joint negotiation committee, which seeks to conclude a new contract for 155,000 mine workers to replace the one expiring Aug. 31.

The miners are making a more determined drive than ever before for the check-off. The operators have signified their intention of listening with open minds to every argument that the miners can advance. At the same time they have not receded from their determination announced at the opening of the conferences not to grant the check-off.

It was asserted by the employers that much time is lost at the beginning of every month because of the failure of some employe to wear the new monthly buttons indicating that they have paid their union dues. When men who are in arrears to the union attempt to go to work, local walk-outs, known as "button strikes," are called.

By having the employer deduct the monthly dues from the mine workers' pay envelopes, the union officials declared that lost time and "button strikes" would be eliminated.

The miners may wind up their case next week or the week following. Nothing happened today to indicate that the present conversations will conclude before the latter part of August, when little time will remain for State and Federal agencies to prevent a suspension of anthracite production on Sept. 1.

For the third time an adjournment was taken over the week-end until Tuesday.

Replying today to the assertions of the operators that the miners have received a higher percentage of wage increases in the last ten years than have the railroad workers or the employes in many other industries, International President Philip Murray of the miners' union said:

"The wage level of 1914 was as low as $1.50 per day, while the maximum wage for skilled tradesmen such as carpenters, blacksmiths, electricians, structural iron workers, hoisting engineers, &c., has always been much lower than that paid in other industries for the same class of work.

"The Bureau of Labor Statistics in its most recent report shows that the cost of living from May, 1924, to May, 1925, in fifty-one American cities has increased 7.2 per cent., while the city of Scranton, in the heart of our coal mining belt, during this period, according to the same report, has increased 7.6 per cent.

"We fully expect to demonstrate before the close of the present negotiations that the increased cost of living since our agreement of 1923 exceeds by substantial amount the increased wages that we are demanding in this joint conference."

James A. Maurer, President of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor arrived here today on behalf of his organization to which he will report on the coal negotiations.

"The Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor is solidly behind the anthracite miners, members of an affiliated union, in the present negotiations with the mine owners," he said. "If, unfortunately, the present discussions result in disagreement and a suspension follows, the 500,000 members of our organization will be prepared to offer every moral and material assistance and cooperation, if and when they become necessary."

WON'T ALTER COAL RATES.

Commerce Board Denies Reduction to Northern Producers.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission today refused to alter in any respect existing rail rates on coal moving from Eastern mines to Lake Erie ports for transshipment to the North and West.

Complaints of mine operators in Pennsylvania and Ohio that charges applying to coal from their mines are too high as compared with rates on the product from West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia were dismissed, though the seriousness of the issues presented was indicated by a wide-open split among commission members over the decision.

While the controversy was chiefly between the coal operators, with the Southern districts winning out completely over the Northern, the intervention of many Western State Railroad Commissions and municipalities also was successful.

Commissioner Hall, who wrote the majority decision, pointed out that the consuming interests drawn into the contest had without exception favored the maintenance of the existing differential on the lake cargo coal rates, as did most of the railroads concerned.

Cappellini Re-Elected.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 24 (AP).—Rinaldo Cappellini, district President of the United Mine Workers, was re-elected President of District 1 over William J. Brennan by a majority of 18,408, according to the report of the tellers to the biennial convention today.

OFT TOLD TALES OF WAIFS UNTRUE

REALLY LOST BOY CLAIMED

Negro Pair Give Address in Stanley, N. C., but are Calm When They Hear It Does Not Exist.

The Children's Society is sheltering four small youngsters, two brothers and two sisters, who are officially registered as "lost." Agents of the society are by no means sure, however, that this description is correct. They are beginning to wonder if the same instinct which leads some small boys and girls to wander away from home, while other youngsters would not think of leaving their doorsteps, does not influence the wanderers to pretend ignorance of home locations which is far from real.

The cases of Betty and Anna Tudo, 11 and 13 years old respectively, and of James and Arthur Marsh, 7 and 11 years old, to use the names the children insist are their, have almost persuaded them that their surmise is right.

James and Arthur are negroes and insist that they were brought to this city in the week of July 4 from their home in Stanley, N. C., by an uncle, James Marsh, from whom they became separated on last July 12. Late in the evening of that day Policeman Heney found them at Houston and West Streets and took them to the Charles Street Station. Their story was so plausibly told that the police wired to Stanley to notify their parents. They were astounded when Postmaster James E. Wallace wired back that there was no such street in Stanley as Mason Street, where the children insisted they lived at No. 232, and that no negro family by the name of Marsh was known in the town. The children were not disturbed, however. They merely insisted that their story was true and went uncomplainingly to the Children's Society, which, so far, has had no better luck than the police in getting the youngsters to alter their tale.

Girls Positive Also.

The little Tudo girls are just as positive in the story they tell despite the fact that no single feature of it can be corroborated. They were found fast asleep beneath the cellar stairs of the factory at 419 First Avenue early yesterday morning after neighbors, who had heard noises presumably made by the youngsters as they descended to their sleeping place, had notified Policeman Fackner that burglars seemed to be at work. Fackner entered the cellar flashing his pocket searchlight and holding his revolver ready in his hand. He stumbled over the children, whom he took to the East Twenty-second Street Station, where Lieutenant Foley, himself the father of several, questioned them.

They live with their father, four step-sisters and a step-brother at 85 New Chambers Street, they said, and had decided to run away Wednesday night after they had stayed in the street until 10 o'clock playing, because they feared that their elder step-sister, who was severe, would punish them. Since then, they said, they had slept in cellars. They stuck to their story despite the fact that no such family could be found at the New Chambers Street address, and they insisted also that they went to Public School 36, in John Street, even after they were assured that this school was in Ninth and not John Street.

There was one small boy who, the police were sure, was not shamming. Policeman Foster found him sitting on a traffic safety isle at Court and Fulton Streets, Brooklyn, and he said his name was "Joey" and he was "learning to be a policeman," when the officer questioned him. Late last evening searching parties organized by his eleven-year-old sister Angelina found the youngster and took him home. His name is really Salvator Caizzo, he is 5 years old and he lives with his parents at 129 Columbia Avenue, Brooklyn, where his father, Louis, keeps a grocery store from whence the boy wandered yesterday. It appears his brother Joe is a professional boxer and the younger lad is so fond of the big brother than he continually calls himself "Joey."

Probation officers have been assigned to try to find the parents of the other "lost" youngsters.

SAYS TAXI DRIVER BEAT HER.

Woman Charges He Threw Her From Cab After Attempting Assault.

Detectives of the Classon Avenue station in Brooklyn are searching for a taxicab chauffeur who is charged by Miss Rose Kravitz, 23 years of age, of 294 Marcy Avenue, with throwing her to the street at Flushing and Franklin Avenues after beating her with his fists. Miss Kravitz is in Beth Moses Hospital suffering from cuts and bruises.

Shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday morning, Eugene O'Reilly of 902 Madison Street, while operating his automobile saw the girl lying in the street unconscious. He picked her up and drove her to the Clymer Street Police Station, where, after treatment by an ambulance surgeon, she regained consciousness.

Miss Kravitz told the police that she had engaged the taxi driver at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge to take her home. At Adelphi Street and Flushing Avenue, according to Miss Kravitz, the chauffeur entered the back of the car and tried to assault her. She fought him off, she said, and he resumed the ride toward her home, but tried to assault her again and finally threw her to the curb at the corner where she was later found.

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, July 25—Some styles, like a cat, have nine lives. Drown them; shoot them; hang them; quarter them; smother them, and, still, they turn up grinning. A tour of country clubs and the haunts where the best-turned-out men congregate shows that good old white flannel trousers are still the favored fashion. Yes, colors are quite correct, but plain white looks refreshingly cool on a grilling day. Wear your white flannels with a double-breasted blue coat or with a sporting jacket of tan gabardine cloth. Exclusive, but not expensive.

CIPPICO CALLS WAR 'A CRUEL NECESSITY'

Italian Delegate to Geneva, Lecturing at Politics Institute, Scores Peace Schemes.

DEFENDS FASCIST PROGRAM

Italy, He Declares, Will Not Be Misled by Anti-War or Disarmament Propaganda.

GARFIELD OPENS SESSION

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 24.—In the first of a series of six lectures on "The Mediterranean Area and Italy" at the Institute of Politics tonight, Count Antonio Cippico, Italian Senator and Fascist, defended war as "a cruel necessity" when a nation takes arms "to defend its own right to exist, to remedy the defects of its geographical, political or economic situation in the world or to make good its own civilization as opposed to the inferior civilization of other people."

Delivered before a distinguished audience, including the Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacome Dimartino, accompanied by his wife, and others from the embassy at Washington, Count Cippico's address was regarded as especially significant because of Italy's overpopulation problem, her dissatisfaction with the division of the German colonies between France and England by the peace treaty and her reported desire to expand into North Africa for an outlet for her surplus population and for supplies of raw materials.

Count Cippico, a stanch supporter of Mussolini, is the first official spokesman of Fascism and new nationalistic Italy to be heard at any session of the institute, which has now entered upon its fifth annual Summer meeting. He is an Italian delegate to the League of Nations and until recently was head of the Italian Literature Department at London University. Descended from an ancient Dalmatian family, he was born an Austrian subject, but threw in his lot with Italy in 1915 and fought in the Italian Army.

The Italian spokesman had nothing but scorn in his address for pacifism and all "fanatical and utopian schemes" for universal peace. He declared that war could never be abolished by the mere wish to do so as long as the present economic struggle among the nations existed. If the world wants peace, he said, it must find some just and equitable solution for the problems which arise out of the conflicting interests of the various nations.

Says Italy Has No Illusions.

Italy, he said, has no illusions about peace and war. Desiring a peaceful solution of her problems, he said, she nevertheless has her feet firmly planted on the ground and her eyes fixed on realities, and will not be misled by anti-war or disarmament propaganda.

"It seems to me utterly useless," Count Cippico said, "given the actual economic world struggle, to attempt the complete abolition of war either by popular movements or by congresses tending to total or partial disarmament. To think it feasible, from one day to another, to establish universal peace among men by the sheer strength of instinctive aspirations, be they of the noblest, of individuals or societies, is to lose one's self in a blind utopian labyrinth.

"The obdurate and fanatical zealots of such movements of public opinion, besides deceiving themselves and misleading international collectivities, are doomed to bitter disillusionment, and more often than it is realized they become the unconscious causes of war; for uncompromising fanaticism, if at the service of any religion whatsoever, is a hysterical phenomenon which many times in history has proved the determining cause of vast fratricidal strife among nations.

"If the League of Nations, or any other similar society, would hope one day to attain to that ideal of peace for which it has been created, it must, above all, aim at furthering the knowledge of international affairs among nations, besides improving the spiritual, intellectual and economic conditions of humanity.

"A better and more contented humanity, a collectivity no longer ignorant of the problems of its own nation and of others, must surely try its very best to solve those problems and conflicting interests, which daily bring one nation into collision with the other without recurring to arms and the consequent destruction of wealth.

Foresees International Policy.

"On that day the League of Nations will have fulfilled its highest tax. Those national problems which are based on political, economical, religious, philosophical and civil interests, will be harmonized into one international unitarian policy. Egoistic aims of single States will yield to the instinctive international necessity of justice, peace and civil progress, once the full knowledge of the interdepending world problems will no longer be the privilege of the few.

"Until that day dawns, however, it is necessary that we should consider the various problems of foreign politics in all their actual and clashing historical reality. Woe to the man who seeks to veil them behind the mist of his own fanatical aspirations. Woe to the man who dares to erect on the clouds the edifice of his own conception of international relations.

"We, Italians of the old and the new Italy, a race with three thousand years of laborious civilizations pass even today for a people inclined towards real politik. Few other nations have given, or are still giving, to the world as many idealists, mystics and dreamers as Italy. From St. Thomas Aquinas to St. Francis of Assisi, from Tommazo Companella to Giuseppe Mazzini, the way of our history is led by men, true torchbearers, who on earth have followed the quest of the ideal.

"But, as Italian skies are luminous, as the geographical aspect of the Mediterranean peninsula has almost the clear-cut profile of a statuary high relief carved by a god on any azure background, as the Italian language directly springs from the precise and sculptural language of Rome, so the Italians look upon the facts of contemporary history from an almost objective standpoint, with feet firmly planted on the solid earth and with eyes ever turned towards the stars.

"Other nations may prefer, at least in words, to contemplate the life and the problems of nations under their political aspect from a quite different angle, building their edifice of international systems on sand.

"Our greatest poet, Dante Alighieri, taught the Italians to think, to act, and to build up from earth to heaven, and not from the divine down to the human, as some other nations are only too wont to do."

Retains Old Roman Idea.

The Italy of today, Count Cippico went on, retains the idea that dominated the old Roman Empire, and which remained deep rooted in the people after the fall of Rome, and in dealing with international problems, he said, one must keep in mind the idea, or will, which characterizes a nation, as well as its geographical situation and demographic force.

"If we succeed in time in foreseeing and, as far as possible by means of justice, in satisfying the vital interests of the various nations which stand to each other in relations of political and economic interdependency," the Count continued, "we shall be able to limit conflicts among them, and to promote the growth of a true human brotherhood, that instinctive sentiment which ought to distinguish the civilized world from uncivilized and barbarous mankind."

Count Cippico commented on the anomalous condition that, while all parts of the world were being brought closer together by means of modern scientific communication—airplanes, radio, &c.—the boundaries which separate States and nations are becoming "more impervious and formidable."

"This," he said, "is the chief problem we have to face today in international relations. There is a mysterious factor which, notwithstanding the many fine speeches that have been recently made concerning the admirable utopian dream of the United States of Europe, or, better still, of the United States of the world, erects ever new and impenetrable barriers, either ethical, national or economic. This factor has been too easily defined as imperialism or nationalism, based on the formidable egoistic aims of States, on diversities of race, language, religion and degree of civilization. This is often, however, nothing but the cruel necessity for each nation and State to defend its own right to exist, to remedy the defects of its respective geographical, political or economic situation in the world, to make good its own individual civilization as opposed to the inferior civilization of other peoples.

"War an Element of Nature."

"In order to judge impartially of these complex international problems we have, first of all, to examine the geographical reality as it is, which means the political and economic reality as well, of each nation and of each State.

"War has been defined as an element of nature, just as cyclone, lightning and earthquake. Biology is based on a perpetual struggle; chemistry on continuous reactions. It is in vain, therefore, to condemn that strife or violent reaction which, after all, is life itself, and the very cause, perhaps, of every created thing.

"Let us, then, confine within bounds, as far as it lies in our power, the everlasting strife of humanity, examining the various causes of war and handling them, if possible, with the scientific method of the biologist."

The Italian spokesman made it plain that his lecture course as a whole would be devoted to stating the problem of Italy, with her 50,000,000 population, her lack of colonies, raw materials and foreign markets, and to explaining the Fascist policy that it is absolutely necessary for Italy to expand in order to find room for her surplus population.

Defends Fascist Program.

In his effort to convince Americans of the justice of the Fascist program, Count Cippico outlined tonight the historic basis of Italy's claim to dominate the Mediterranean. He went back to ancient days, when Rome defeated Carthage, pointing out that this victory saved Western civilization and religion from Asiatic domination, and that it gave to Europe both Roman law and Christian religion. He recalled the centuries when the Mediterranean was a Roman sea, with Northern Africa a province of Rome, until the Moslems swept down from the east in the fifteenth century and seized Northern Africa, which they held until the last century.

Special interest was displayed in this part of Count Cippico's address because of the recent uprising of the Riff tribes of Northern Africa under Abd-el-Krim against the French and Spanish in Morocco, and because of Mussolini's note to France some time ago intimating Italy's desire for a share in Northern Africa.

An indication of Italian feeling against France and England over Mediterranean control was continued in Count Cippico's conclusion.

"During the last four centuries," said the Count, "the Mediterranean has ceased to be the principal highway of the nations; not so much, however, but that Spain and France, and later England, have struggled for dominion over it, inch by inch, in long and formidable wars and cunning diplomatic contests, for this sea, this inexhaustible crucible of so many races, religions and civilizations, will always respond to its great imperial destiny. The nation that has hegemonic power over it, holding the keys of it, or its coasts, has imperial security, even though its shores may not be bathed by its waves, as is happening, indeed, today."

Institute Formally Opened.

Formal opening exercises of the institute were held this morning, when Dr. Harry A. Garfield, Chairman of the Institute and President of Williams College, delivered an address of welcome to the members and speakers.

"The Institute of Politics does not seek by any form of propaganda—certainly not in the modern sense of the term—to father any movement or serve as an advocate of any cause, however worthy," said Dr. Garfield. "The object of the institute is enlightenment.

"The Institute of Politics seeks to bring together in this place those who seek to understand one another, and, if possible, to trace to their beginnings those experiences and influences that have created present conditions. We are not seeking to inform members for their own sakes but in the interest of the common welfare. They are invited to attend not that they may get but that they may give—give freely of their store of knowledge and experience to the end that public opinion may be informed and enlightened.

"The object of the institute is humanistic. We are more interested in promoting the welfare of mankind than in conserving its possessions; yet we recognize that the things men possess are useful and necessary to their well-being, even to their spiritual progress.

Seeks to Let In Light.

"Letting in the light is a simple process, so simple that it is not easily perceived. During the first session of the institute there were many who failed to understand why our conferences stopped short of action. What is the use of discussing ideas, of exchanging information, if we are to do nothing? Why not, at least, adopt a resolution, declare a purpose? That would defeat the very objective we are after. 'Let there be light' required no declaration of purpose. 'Let there be light,' and there was light! So, likewise, the creative mind of man may enlighten the world with knowledge and understanding. It is the greatest of our God-given powers, and we are assembled here that we may exercise them without compulsion and without the need of compromise.

"The object of the institute is humanistic—it is also vital. Unless somewhere men meet on a common ground to discuss differences in order that common purposes may be discovered, there is no hope of peace in the world. We are seeking primarily to inform ourselves, not to convince others, to see, each with his own eye, below the restless surface of human desires into the depths of human needs.

"Letting in the light is not always welcome, even to those who claim to act in the interests of mankind. It can hardly be denied that in the present state of civilization some things must still be carried on behind closed doors, but immense progress has been made since the war in opening up to public view many transactions which aforetime were regarded as private. We have discovered that many things formerly regarded as justifiable causes of war can be avoided by open and informal discussion between official and unofficial representatives of the nations.

"But we hardly yet appreciate the value of the unofficial conference. It is an extension of the parliamentary idea, an advance in the field of government. Conferences like this and the many others that are now held in this country and throughout the world for the purpose of enlightening public opinion are assemblies precedent to the official parliaments of nations. And because they are unofficial, because they do not attempt to frame programs or adopt resolutions, because, in short, they are places of conference and good-will, there come to them without fear of embarrassment officials from foreign countries and from the departments of our own Government, officials who, speaking in their private capacities, contribute in most most important ways to the understanding of the members of the institute and to the enlightment of the citizenship of our country."

Tells of British Institute.

Lionel Curtis, editor of the Round Table Magazine, London, also spoke at the opening exercises, describing the British Institute of International Affairs, of which he was a founder. The British Institute is similar in purpose to the Institute of Politics.

Mr. Curtis said that the British Institute grew out of the Association of Experts in Paris during the peace conference, in order to provide a permanent place where the small group of writers and lectures who mold British public opinion in foreign affairs might meet regularly and discuss contemporary events. He said that Thomas Lamont financed one of the first achievements of the British group, the publication of a history of the peace conference, written by the British and American experts and edited by the British, the last of six volumes appearing in 1924. This work, he said, had been invaluable to British publicist as a reference book for source material.

Mr. Curtis suggested that other nations establish organizations like the British and American Institutes, with connecting telephone exchanges, so that the people who influence public opinion in each country on foreign affairs could always obtain the latest and most accurate information from experts in any other country where a crisis arises. A cure for war will come only from greater knowledge and enlightment, he said, and not from any superman or superinstitution.

Italy Makes Columbus Day One of Her National Holidays

ROME, July 24.—The Cabinet Council has decided to proclaim Oct. 12, the anniversary of the discovery of America, a national holiday.

The measure is universally interpreted as a new act of deference by the Fascist Government toward the United States, with which Italy has had long standing spiritual bonds, and now is united by the brotherhood of war.

At the same time the Cabinet Council decided to re-establish the import duty on wheat, fixing it at seven lire and a half per quintal. Italy nearly always has had an import duty on wheat, as foreign wheat can be imported cheaper than it can be produced locally. The duty was only repealed last year, owing to a poor harvest here.

DR. NEUHAUS BLAMES LOANS

German Minister Says They Caused Unfavorable Trade Balance.

BERLIN, July 24.—The influx of foreign loans into Germany is blamed by Dr. Neuhaus, the German Minister of Commerce, for the Reich's unfavorable balance of foreign trade. In an interview given to a Provincial newspaper the Minister declares that the flow of capital from abroad and mounting imports are synonymous. He states:

"Foreign credits are useful to our internal commerce in the last analysis only through importation of goods. This is not always understood by our economists. It is impossible to seek loans abroad on the one hand and remove an unfavorable trade balance on the other.

"While there has been a diminution of foreign credits since Spring, the tide is rising again. Simultaneously, however, high prices prevailing here have resulted in the importation of cheaper foreign merchandise. The result is that the reserves of foreign currencies in the Reichsbank have had to be called on to pay for these imports. This again has led to a standstill in many branches of business and to renewed credit difficulties. The banks have needed all the cash they could find and money has become tight.

"Now there are signs, particularly in municipal loans, that foreign capital is again finding its way into Germany.

"The above explanation seems to me to make it clear why during the first five months of this year imports exceeded exports by 1,950,000,000 marks. The excess increased proportionately during the month of June, during which imports totaled about 1,000,000,000 marks and exports 685,000,000 marks."

AGREE TO DISCUSS BRITISH COAL CRISIS

Owners and Miners Consent to Conference, Easing Apprehension of Strike Next Week.

NEWSPAPERS PESSIMISTIC

London Times Says This Crisis Is Unlike All Previous Ones—Archbishop Asks Prayers.

LONDON, July 24.—The coal mining crisis took a somewhat better turn today when representatives of the operators and the men met for the first time and made arrangements to meet again next Wednesday. The Government's mediator was the First Lord of the Admiralty, W. C. Bridgeman, and he is hopeful that at next week's meeting there will be a compromise which will avert the strike threatened for July 31.

The Archbishop of Canterbury today issued an appeal in which he said:

"It is not seldom in the past fifty years that the people of this country have been confronted by the prospect of widespread industrial strife. But never, so far as I can judge, has the danger been so grave and so urgent as today. The wisest thinkers warn us that at this moment there is an almost unparalleled crisis in our national life. Christian people throughout the land have been for some time praying in regard to the grave problems and anxieties arising from the present condition of the mining industry. But none the less I ask that a special prayer to be offered in all churches by our Christian people generally for guidance and help to face these great dangers and perplexities."

Baldwin Also to Meet Men.

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—Although the Miners' Federation has announced a strike of colliers on July 31, and only a bare week now remains for a possible cessation in coal production, the situation tonight appeared more hopeful for a bridging of the chasm of dissension between the miners and the coal mine owners.

Mediation in the situation by W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, has been so effective that today he persuaded the disputants to meet together in a conference on Wednesday in an endeavor to smooth out their troubles. In addition, Premier Baldwin has agreed to meet on Monday a special committee of the Trades Union Congress, which has full command of the miners' case in the impending struggle.

Neither side to the dispute has retreated in the slightest from its previous position. Therefore, the same deadlock may be encountered when Wednesday's conference meets. But it is thought that the strong Government influence is not unlikely to be without effect in whatever negotiations may ensue.

Another hopeful sign tonight was that the mine owners had agreed that, in the event the negotiations with the miners are still in progress at the end of the month they will carry on the existing wage agreement from day to day until a new agreement is negotiated, thus in practice postponing the posting of lockout notices. It is not known as yet whether the miners will agree to continue work on these conditions, and doubtless much will depend on what develops at Wednesday's conference between them and the owners.

At a meeting of the Trades Union Congress today, called to consider both the miners' and textile disputes, Herbert Smith, President of the Miners' Federation, said that if coal was sent from Germany during a strike he could trust the transport workers and the railway men to refuse to handle it.

Seeking Coal Supplies Abroad.

The question of emergency supplies in the event of a cessation of mining already is engaging the attention of the trade. It is said dealers have started preliminary negotiations to obtain supplies from France and Germany to tide the country over any possible shortage until possible additional cargoes arrive from Australia.

American dealers, who, together with the Washington Government, are keenly watching every move in the coal situation here, also are making inquiries on this side looking to possible purchases abroad in the event the threatened coal strike in the United States materializes. Should British and American strikes come simultaneously, there is apprehension that a coal famine will develop if the shut-down is protracted, as it is believed it would be impossible for the Continent of Europe to meet double demands for fuel.

If it is found impossible to avert a strike in this country, one of the disagreeable phases which accompanied the 1921 strike will be absent, namely, the safety of idle mines from flooding. Various unions connected with the mining industry met today and agreed that safety men, such as pumpers, would be permitted to continue work during shut-downs, but on the single condition that the July wage scale should continue to be paid to them. The question of the number of men to be placed in the mines was left for settlement by the leaders of the various districts.

London Times Is Pessimistic.

In some quarters hope persists that a settlement will be reached to avert the strike, but there are gloomy forebodings in most quarters. The London Times refuses to be comforted by the talk of resumed negotiations, describing them as "amiable delusions resting upon vague recollections of former disputes under totally different circumstances."

It ridicules the suggestions for the two sides to the dispute getting together, since "the more they go together the less they agree, because the differences between them are irreconcilable and both are determined to have their own way."

The cause of the trouble, according to The Times, is that the coal industry is a sick industry and cannot be cured by a victory by either side. The paper scouts the idea that the country will gather that this is a temporary trouble, as it lived through previous coal strikes.

"It is time for the public to wake up," it says, "and understand that the present circumstances are entirely different from those obtaining in former cases. The country is threatened with a disaster wholly unprecedented in its history, and one from which it would not recover for a generation, if ever."

Doctors, Counsel, Judge Score Modern Youth and Lack of Restraint, in London Divorce

By T. R. YBARRA.

LONDON, July 24.—"The chaperon is rapidly becoming as extinct as the dodo," remarked a British lawyer at today's session of London's current court sensation—the divorce case of Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Raper, which is daily packing the court room with curious spectators of both sexes.

The lawyer made the remark during one of those informal chats so often enlivening British trials, which invariably remind Americans of American court procedure, because they are so different.

The Judge joined in the lawyer's reflections, remarking that he did not know anything about fast modern life because he never had spent one hour in London unless forced to do so.

"Then you are unqualified to do justice in this case," objected Mrs. Raper's counsel.

Today's session included testimony by noted London neurologists, who also contributed philosophical reflections on modern life. One, Sir William Arbuthnot Hale, described the typical modern female as "highly strung, nervous, suffering from the overstrain of looking for pleasure and excitement."

Another, Dr. Bellfrage, remarked:

"In these days, when we have so many unhappy marriages, one's whole time would be taken up with matrimonial disputes if one got mixed up with the relations of husband and wife. I endeavor to skate over the subject as lightly as possible, and I do not take sides one way or the other. I think that is the policy every busy doctor adopts."

Apropos of his statement that the man and woman in the case were not suited to each other, the doctor said:

"I think everybody forms his own opinion on that at a wedding. It is one of the most interesting points in a wedding."

That raised loud laughter in the court room. Mr. Justice Hill, the Judge trying the case, carefully sought to give the impression that he did not belong to any such jovial set as that of Mr. and Mrs. Raper, announcing that all he knew about the pranks of such circles he derived from evidence which he was forced to hear in divorce cases. It was at this point that the Judge announced he had never spent sixty consecutive minutes in London except under compulsion. Then Mrs. Raper's counsel resumed his philosophical reflections.

"I should doubt that there is more immorality now than in the days of our ancestors," he said. "What I do think is that it is more easily found out. You have got a great deal creeping into this country from the United States and other countries. You have the frank companionship of man and woman which in the end leans toward immorality. The chaperon has almost disappeared and can be classed with the dodo."

The Judge adjourned the trial over the week-end.

PETAIN TO COMMAND FRENCH IN MOROCCO

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 25.—At a Cabinet meeting today the Government practically reached the decision to appoint Marshal Petain Resident General and Commander-in-Chief in Morocco until the end of the war. As no communiqué has been issued to make such action public the final decision may not have been reached yet, but it was learned that the Government was influenced to make such a change by the first report from Marshall Petain himself.

In this report Marshal Petain is said to have pointed out the necessity that a single person should be the representative of the French Government accredited to the Sultan of Morocco and the Commander-in-Chief of military operations, but did not name the person he thought best fitted to undertake the task. The Cabinet, therefore, thought that the Commander-in-Chief of the French Army, who was already on the spot and had familiarized himself with the situation from every aspect, was the logical person for the job, and it is believed it is awaiting Marshal Petain's acceptance to add the dual Moroccan task to his present high command.

When General Naulin was appointed it was understood that he would hold full military authority, but would nevertheless get instructions from Marshal Lyautey on the general policy to be adopted. Premier Painleve asked Marshal Petain's advice several days after General Naulin's appointment, and the result of his conference was requested for Marshal Petain to investigate the situation thoroughly and personally with the promise that his advice would be adopted in all particulars by the Government.

Marshal Petain saw after a few days in Morocco that the war was not only a fight against an armed enemy but a fight against many disintegrating forces in the interior of Morocco and which are so delicate and intricate that French prestige is hanging by a string. The Commander-in-Chief felt that the only way to meet the situation was to group all authority into a single supreme hand.

In the course of the Cabinet meeting the possibility of appointing Marshal Lyautey Commander-in-Chief, as he was already Resident General, was naturally discussed, but the question of Marshal Lyautey's health was a hindrance for a favorable decision. He has been greatly fatigued recently by many difficulties and severely weakened by the after-results of an operation for bilious trouble only a year ago and which necessitates renewed treatment.

BRITISH TAKE TIME ON RUBBER PROTEST

PRICE RISE IS 250 PER CENT.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—The British Government is understood to be giving close attention to the American protest against the price of British rubber, delivered on Tuesday by Ambassador Houghton to Foreign Minister Chamberlain. No decision has been reached because of the feeling that the Foreign Office must refer the issue to other departments of the Government before going further.

Opinions are very much divided here. On one hand are those who think that in the fact of what they call the egotistic attitude of the Washington Government in demanding full payment of the war debts from debtor nations, they are justified in using all their resources, or all the manipulation of their resources, to meet the bill with the least possible burden to themselves. The United States is using 70 per cent. of the world's rubber supply, of which the British colonies produce more than one-half. Naturally, the United States is hard hit by the restriction-of-production scheme of the London Government, which has driven the price from 1s 3d a pound to well over 4s.

As Secretary Hoover recently stated, the increased tribute the United States pays to British rubber fields amounts to more than the British pay us annually on account of their war debt.

Two years ago our bill for British rubber was under $200,000,000 annually. It will run this year above $400,000,000, an increase of more than $200,000,000, while the annual British war debt payment is around $160,000,000.

As the Parliamentary debates have shown, a good many Englishmen think this is fine business. On the other hand, there are those Englishmen, especially manufacturers of automobile tires, who point out that the restriction policy will soon mean dearer tires for English automobiles. So the joke is not entirely on Americans.

There also are those who doubt the wisdom of rigging the price of British rubber for the United States, on the ground that if we resorted to a similar policy on cotton—which England needs quite as much as we need rubber—the tables may be turned.

However, it is officially denied that in his talk with Mr. Houghton Mr. Chamberlain mentioned cotton, and this despite the fact one hears it said that the action of the American authorities in urging cotton growers to go in for other crops really amounts to a restrictive measure.

Anyhow, the fact remains that the Washington Government has told the British Government that it does not look favorably upon the operation of the Stephenson scheme for restriction of production, which costs the United States now annually more than we get from the British war debt payments.

For more than the past month the British rubber companies have been constantly reporting increased earnings.

"There have been two announcements by tire manufacturers in this country of increases in tire prices, while further substantial increases are threatened, and are inevitable unless drastic revision of the present restriction on supplies can be obtained."

WANTS GOLD POLICY REVERSED IN BRITAIN

J. M. Keynes Declares That This Would Permit Outflow of 'Bad' American Money.

BLAMES OUR 'PERVERSITY'

He Says Prices Here 'Ought to Have Risen' and Suggests Unions Take 'Money-Wage' Cut.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—J. M. Keynes, in his final article in The Evening Standard, suggesting some remedy for the grievous state of affairs which he says he finds as a result of the Government's gold standard policy, puts a large part of the blame for the sorry condition of England on the perverseness of the United States in not raising her money prices.

"Many authorities," he says, "agreed that England, in her return to the gold policy, was gambling on rising prices in the United States. The rise has not taken place. Moreover, the policy of the Bank of England has been calculated to steady prices in the United States rather than to raise them. The fact is, rather, that American banks can lend their funds in London at a high rate of interest tends to keep money rates in New York higher than they would be otherwise, and draw to London instead of New York the oddments of surplus gold of the world market.

"Thus our policy has been to relieve New York of pressures of cheap money and additional gold which would tend otherwise to force their prices upwards. The abnormal difference between the money rate in London and New York is preventing the gold standard from working, even according to its own principles."

Wants Policy Revised.

Prices, according to his theory, ought to have risen in the United States, but they have not, so Mr. Keynes suggests the Bank of England should reverse its policy.

"Let it reduce the rate and cease to restrict credit," he says. "If as result of this 'bad' American money, which is a menace to the London money market, begins to flow back again, let us pay off in gold or, if necessary, by using dollar credits which the Treasury and the Bank of England have arranged in New York. It would be better to pay in gold because it would be cheaper and the flow of actual gold would have more effect on the American price level. If we modified the rules now to render useless three-quarters of our stocks of gold we could see with equanimity a loss of £60,000,000 or £70,000,000 in gold, which would make a great difference to conditions elsewhere. There are no objective American balances which can leave us any moment in order to use them to buy old, idle and demobilized gold. Gold could not flow out at this scale unless at the same time the bank was abandoning restriction of credit and replacing gold by some other asset such as Treasury bills."

If this policy is open to criticism it is staking too much on the expectation of higher prices in America.

Urges Collaboration With Unions.

Mr. Keynes suggests that Baldwin should face the facts frankly in collaboration with trade-union leaders.

"He should call them together to explain that the effect of restoring the gold standard was to raise the value of sterling 10 per cent," says Mr. Keynes, "and to tell them it would be necessary for the export trade to reduce money wages by the same amount, which would not mean any reduction in real wages. Let him tell them he can either force wages down by economic pressure, which inevitably would result in much hardship, or do it by consent. Let him ask them to assent to a cut of 5 per cent. to begin with and see whether that does not produce the required cut in the cost of living, leaving real wages undisturbed."

Mr. Keynes admits this may not be practical politics, but he advances the suggestion because, he says, he is sure the present policy of forcing adjustments of wages by restricting credit just at a moment when industry needs relaxation would never be agreed to if the nation understood what it was really doing.

India Orders Our Cotton Fumigated.

SIMLA, July 24.—The danger of introduction of the boll weevil from the United States has been engaging the attention of experts on the Central Cotton Committee, and the Government will announce that importation of American cotton will be prohibited unless it is fumigated. Bombay will be the only port where importation will be allowed and fumigation will be carried out there on special barges. The arrangement will go into effect Oct. 1, and as fumigation is impossible during the monsoon season, importation will be restricted to the period from Nov. 1 to May 31.

CLIMAX IS NEARING IN MOROCCAN WAR

continue, but the basic fact is that their physical condition must not be forgotten.

Obviously this situation favors an immediate offensive by Abd-el-Krim. His immediate aim is to upset any plans of Marshal Petain and General Naulin for attack by preventing them using these fresh divisions offensively and forcing them to be absorbed—as were the previous reinforcements—in purely defensive tactics. He may hope to gain this, first by engaging the troops now on the front so seriously that even if the line does not break through the new divisions will be needed immediately to replace the old.

Second, by breaking through in the first instance and cutting the Algeria-Fez road near Taza, or dangerously threatening Fez or Ouezzan.

Third, by bringing such pressure on the tribes already wavering as to spread rebellion, thus getting reinforcements sufficient to counteract those of the French. This is a noteworthy feature of this war. Abd-del Krim gets all his reinforcements in this manner from the front itself, instead of having to bring them from the rear in the orthodox manner.

Abd-el Krim seems to be preparing to strike. He has been withdrawing his best troops—the Riffian regulars—from much of the line, especially in the extreme east and west, and concentrating them nobody knows where. Similar tactics preceded his great offensive on Taza.

The question is where the blow will fall. The probability is either Ouezzan or Taza. He is covering his intentions by keeping up severe fighting all along the front with the rebel tribes, whose forces he has left on the lines under Riffian officers.

It remains to be seen, of course, whether his troops are in a position to launch a serious offensive just now. They have suffered heavy losses.

Riffian Regulars in Flight.

FEZ, Morocco, July 24 (AP).—Information reaching the general staff here is to the effect that, having abandoned the dissident tribes to their fate, Abd-el-Krim's regulars are in full flight toward the north.

It is asserted that the French concentration of troops on the Taza and Ouezzan sectors, evidently in preparation for a most powerful offensive, appears to have struck terror to the hearts of the Moorish chieftain's shock troops and that the tribesmen who, under duress, joined his colors are prepared to make their submission to the French.

Abd-el-Krim is reported as losing ground with the tribesmen, both militarily and politically. It is declared that the impression made upon the Moroccans by the French infantry battalions, with armored cars, machine guns and tanks, moving to the front has caused the Moors to refer to an old Arab proverb, "Kiss the hand thou canst not bite," and that offers of submission are reaching Marshal Lyautey, whom the Moors continue to recognize as the supreme leader of the French in Morocco, notwithstanding the presence of Marshal Petain in the Riff, with increasing frequency.

Reports say that the morale of the dissident tribes has been further shaken by French aviators dropping bombs behind their lines. Letters have been received in Fez addressed to "Abd-el-Krim, Sultan of Morocco, and conqueror of Fez." These missives have been endorsed by the French postal service authorities with the words "Abd-el-Krim's entry into Fez has been postponed indefinitely. His present address for the moment is Adjir."

Aviators returning today from scouting expeditions report that Abd-el-Krim's regulars are trekking northward toward the Mediterranean Sea, but that they appear to be decided to make a stand on the southern slope of the Atlas Mountains on the line running from Ouezzan north to El Bibane and through the Beni Brahim tribesmen country and Belkadi, Taberrant and Tafraout to the Algerian frontier. Abd-el-Krim's faithfuls are organizing defensively, with their backs to the Atlas Mountains.

General Naulin returned to Fez this evening from Taza and conferred with Marshal Pétain, whose presence in the Riff is said to have been greatly instrumental in bringing the Moors to a realization that France is in earnest in its efforts to put down the rebellion.

Artillery Shells Retreating Riffs.

PARIS, July 24 (AP).—Vigorously shelled by pursuing French artillery, the rebellious Riffian tribesmen in Morocco are hastening their retreat from the Ain Aicha and Ain Matouf regions, on the centre of the line, taking with them the civil populations of villages and their flocks.

The situation is described as considerably improved all along the line, with the effect of French successes and the spectacle of energetic action by the French forces under the guidance of new military leaders becoming more manifest. Many of the tribes which are being worked on by Abd-el-Krim are turning a deaf ear to the exhortations to come over to the rebel chief.

Alhucemas Attack to Go On.

GIBRALTAR, July 24 (AP).—Preparations for the announced operations by the combined Spanish and French forces against the seaport of Alhucemas have not been interrupted, although there has been a postponement of putting the plan into effect while the Franco-Spanish conference on Morocco still is in progress at Madrid. Alhucemas lies on the Mediterranean Coast of Morocco, near Adjir, headquarters of Abd-el-Krim.

All the troops which have been disembarked in North Africa to participate in the attempt at a landing in front of rebel headquarters are manoeuvring regularly every day in the vicinity of Restinga, which lies on the coast south of Melilla and between Marchica and the Mediterranean. There they can carry out their practice work beyond the prying eyes of civilians or spies. The armored vessels which are to be utilized in the landing operation at Alhucemas are anchored in the port of Melilla, awaiting orders from the high command.

Leading military officers in Melilla are unanimously of the opinion that a maritime blockade against the rebel Moors will prove ineffective owing to the long coast line, which will necessitate the mobilization of all available small craft of the Spanish and French navies and then leave holes through which gun runners will be able to pass, especially as the prevailing winds render lying off the coast extremely difficult.

The viewpoint of the military men, however, is considered by the seamen as biased. They regard the opposition of the military branch as arising from professional jealousy. One of the foremost generals in Morocco is said to have informed General Primo de Rivera that the only possible way to bring about the submission of Abd-el-Krim was to march by land directly to the seat of the rebellion. This general is also said to have expressed the view that any peace patched up now with the rebels would not be lasting, as Abd-el-Krim, while having influence among the tribesmen in connection with a general uprising against the Spaniards and the French and with ability to sign peace terms, could not control the unruly elements which live continuously upon rapine.

RABAT, French Morocco, July 24 (AP).—Marshal Petain of France and General Primo de Rivera will meet Monday at Ceuta or Tetuan to confer regarding joint Franco-Spanish military operations against the Riffians.

PARIS SEES PEACE NEARER.

Abd-el-Krim's Terms Are Almost Satisfactory to the French.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 24.—Though in official quarters it is maintained that no attention is being paid to Abd-el-Krim's peace terms as published in the press, there are indications that peace may not be very far off.

Curiously, the difficulty comes now from Spain rather than from the Riff leader. The proposals published yesterday through the intermediary of Captain Gordon Canning of the British Army who had been in close relation with Abd-el-Krim, come very near to being entirely satisfactory to the French Government. But from Madrid comes the report of difficulties between the delegations of the two countries.

More than ten days ago Abd-el-Krim was informed by Señor Echevarrieta that he could learn any time he wanted what the Franco-Spanish terms were. These terms are not yet, however, definitely settled, and it is understood that Primo de Rivera's Government is showing itself much less disposed to seek peace now that the French are fighting the Riffians than when the Spaniards were alone.

The French Government itself is eager to seize the opportunity which it believes will soon be presented. Marshal Pétain has played almost as big a rôle in preparing a peace move as he has done in getting ready for a more energetic conduct of the war.

The recent French successes and the arrival of strong reinforcements have had a strong effect in dissuading the tribes from following the banner of Abd-el-Krim, but, as well as relying on his soldiers, it is believed that the Marshal has used other means of persuading the Riff leader that it was not in his interest to seek to conquer the whole of Morocco.

Along the French front there is little fighting, and it is reported that the Riffians have turned their forces toward the Spanish front, as if with the intention of pushing their claims there.

It is the French Government's intention to avoid anything like an armistice and peace conference. It wishes the peace terms to be handed to Abd-el-Krim and to have him take them or leave them.

The trouble in Madrid now is getting these terms into a shape that will be certain to be accepted.

URGES LEGAL TESTS FOR AUTO DRIVERS

Conference on Street and Highway Safety Suggests Means to Curb Accidents.

ASK UNIFORM SPEED LIMIT

Dr. Bingham Condemns Misleading Road Signs and Colored Traffic Signals.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 24.—If proposals of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, in session here, become legally effective, a series of special tests will be prepared by well-known psychologists which prospective motor car drivers must pass successfully to obtain licenses. In this way, it was suggested, the "prone-to-accident" group may be eliminated and this group, in the opinion of the speakers, is very large. Dr. Walter F. Bingham of New York City, Chairman of the Committee on Causes of Accidents, going so far as to say that, in a survey of 20,551 automobile accidents, investigation had shown 91½ per cent. had been due to recklessness, incompetent or carelessness of drivers. There were nearly three-quarters of a million accidents last year.

Uniform speed limits were also proposed which would permit thirty-five miles an hour in the open country, twenty miles an hour in residence districts, fifteen miles in business districts, ten miles passing schools and crossing railroad intersections and four miles crossing sidewalks to or from alleys and private driveways. One purpose of the conference is to standardize laws and practice in regard to motor cars all over the country so that confusion may not arise because of conflicting regulations.

Dr Bingham called attention to one feature of the situation to which motorists in the audience gave hearty support. He said that there was too much dishonesty in highways signs.

"Posting of danger signs at mild curves and similar points on the highway," he said, "where there is really no special danger has bred in many drivers the habit of ignoring danger signs in general. The misuse of danger signs teaches the motorists to have small respect for other speed limit signs. It pays to tell the truth, and nothing but the truth, when informing the motorist about conditions on the road.

"About 4 per cent. of automobile drivers are color blind. Even a man with perfect vision, looking from the corner of his eye, is misled. This should make highway engineers more skeptical of the uselessness of signs and signals that rely on color alone to deliver their messages Railway officials learned this through costly wrecks. Their modern semaphores make use of position and number as well as color and so should highway signals."

Dr. Bingham said that many accidents were caused by too great insistence on their rights on the part of some drivers, and he quoted this verse to emphasize his point:

"Here's to the memory of Solomon Gay,
Who died disputing the right of way.
He was right, of course, dead right—all along,
But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

Many accidents, said Dr. Bingham, could be avoided if the driver having the right of way would relinquish it when he saw the danger of insisting on his right.

James L. Madden, representing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, complained that many policemen entrusted with the direction of traffic were not especially trained for their work and he declared that traffic should be controlled only by trained expert men.

LAW STUDENT GETS 5 YEARS

G. W. Gill Pleads Guilty in Death of Another Student.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 24 (AP).—George Wray Gill, Loyola University law student, was sentenced to serve from five to seven years in prison and to pay a fine of $1 and costs today, after pleading guilty to manslaughter in connection with the death of Robert Read, Centenary College student. Read died several weeks ago in a fight with Gill.

Gill told officers that Read had insulted Mrs. Gill, with whom he had been keeping company before she and Gill were married, and that they met at a pleasure resort and fought.

They toppled out of their boats on the lake and struggled in waist-deep water until Read went down.

Mrs. Gill was arrested on charges of having aided her husband. She was released on bond.

DR. COOK'S HEALTH BAD.

Prison Warden Doubts He Will Live to Finish His Term.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24 (AP).—W. I. Biddle, warden of the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., who is visiting here, said today that Dr. Frederick Cook, self-proclaimed discoverer of the North Pole, who is an inmate of the prison, is in such a bad mental and physical state that he may never finish his term.

Cook is serving a sentence of from one to fourteen years for oil stock frauds. He has become an expert at needlework.

MAID BRINGS SUIT FOR $75,000 DAMAGES

Accuses F. D. Brown and Wife of Assault in Connection With $10,000 Jewel Loss.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 24.—Damages of $75,000 for assault, false imprisonment and slander are demanded of Frank Donaldson Brown of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, Vice President of the General Motors Corporation, by Birdie Maloney, 26 years old, for five years personal maid for Mrs. Brown, in an action which came before Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins on motion here today.

The maid in her suit, which is against Brown and his wife, alleges that early in June this year she was locked in the bathroom of the Brown home by Brown and his wife and accused of having stolen $10,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Brown. Through her attorney, Edward Carey Cohn of 1,440 Broadway, New York, she charges that a private detective was called to the home, who proved her innocence, but not until after she had been assaulted and slandered by the Browns.

John Smith, attorney for the Browns, who also is counsel for the General Motors Corporation, brought the motion before Justice Tompkins here to separate the causes of action. Decision was reserved.

Counsel for Miss Maloney explained to Justice Tompkins that in December, 1924, jewels valued at $10 000 were stolen from the Brown home, where Miss Maloney was employed. Investigation failed to disclose the whereabouts of the gems. Early in June, while Miss Maloney was performing her duties, her counsel said, Mr. and Mrs. Brown appeared before her and demanded that she return the jewels. When she protested her innocence, she said, the Browns thrust her into a bathroom until a detective was called. When no evidence of guilt was found against her she was released without an apology, according to counsel.

No comment would be made by Attorney Smith following the hearing. The Browns were not present. It was said that they would sail on the Majestic tomorrow for a tour of Europe.

SEES EUROPE ENTERING UPON NEW ERA OF ART

A. C. Bossom Compares Wave of Creative Genius With Spirit That Built Maya Architecture.

Europe is entering upon a great new creative period in art, architecture and crafts, according to Alfred C. Bossom, an architect and Chairman of the Foreign Exhibits Committee of the New York Architectural League, who arrived here yesterday on the Aquitania.

New buildings, paintings, jewelry and manufactured articles all bear witness to the dawn of a new artistic era, according to Mr. Bossom, who compared the feeling displayed by the present wave of creative genius in Europe with the inspiration which built the Maya architecture in the New World.

"This important movement is gaining impetus from the Exposition Internationale des Arts Decoratifs et Industries Modernes now in progress in Paris," he said.

"The first impression one gets in visiting the Paris Exposition is that of shock. All conventions have been scrapped. Everything shows a vital creative impulse. Slavish copyists of the periods are stunned by what they see.

"All the buildings show great breadth and simplicity of outline, with mere ornament subordinated. Composition and beauty of form come first. Simplicity, strength and originality are everywhere. The handling of large masses of materials and the breaking away from all the detail and Slavish adherence to time-worn formulae, strike the observer at every point.

"The United States was not represented at this splendid Exposition, but for all that she will soon feel its reflex. In fact, there were so many Americans over there as observers, official and unofficial, that Paris seemed like New York by the Seine. Everybody was talking of the effect the Exposition would have on this side of the Atlantic. We certainly will feel the reflex of this new spirit in art, architecture, in fashion and in decoration. No doubt many of the objects from the Exposition will appear here before long.

MORE MILLS CUT WAGES.

Goff's Falls (N. H.) Plant Follows Others—Slashes in Lawrence.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 24 (AP).—The Devonshire Mills at Goff's Falls has posted notices of a 10 per cent. wage cut, effective Aug. 5.

Last Fall when the Amoskeag Mills made a wage reduction the Devonshire did not, but the present cut is in line with similar reductions by American Woolen and other textile mills.

The plant will shut down tonight for a week for the usual vacation period. There are 150 operatives.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 24 (AP).—Two more mills and one machine shop have announced wage cuts, effective July 27. The mills are the Brightwood of North Andover, employing 450, and the Bolton of Methuen, where 100 are employed. The machine shop is that of the John W. Bolton & Son Co., proprietors of the Eagle Knife & Bar Co. One hundred are employed here.

Sentenced for Robbing Police Head.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 24.—Daniel Jykkla, alias Daniel Johnson, who was arrested in Mount Vernon recently after a spectacular battle with Motorcycle Officer Herbison, was sentenced today by County Judge William F. Bleakley to two and a half to five years in Sing Sing for robbing the home of Police Commissioner Daniel Gibbons in Purchase on Dec. 21 last.

Judge Bleakley deferred sentence on indictments charging Jykkla with two other robberies to which the prisoner pleaded guilty.

tonight at a dinner tendered to Admiral Robert E. Coontz and his staff by the Commercial Travelers' Club.

Assistant Minister of Defense Crawford declared that Australia had an interest in the United States, not because of its wealth and power, but "because, despite the difference in age and population, our countries have so much in common." Each country, he pointed out, is molding its policies on somewhat parallel lines.

"We admire you for your great accomplishments," he said. "We love you for your splendid personal qualities. And we rejoice that you have given us an opportunity to see so many of you face to face."

Admiral Coontz, responding, said that the visiting Americans had been "stirred by your warm welcome." He predicted a glorious future for Australia.

Discussing the policies of the United States, he said that America did not seek to surpass other nations, but only desired to live in amity and security with all the world.

The address of the Admiral was greeted with cheers.

Fleet Crews Swamp Sydney Bars.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 24 (AP).—Thirsty "gobs" from the contingent of the American fleet here swamped Sydney bars today, but did not order water. Despite unlimited opportunity, however, little actual drunkenness was reported.

The public, however, is getting some amusement over the reaction of the American sailors to Australia's lack of prohibitory liquor laws. Posters on conspicuous walls announce:

"Beer is thicker than water, Mister Gob."

Some 800,000 persons witnessed the arrival of the Sydney section of the fleet yesterday and its official reception today. Sydney is packed with visitors from all parts of Australia.

Admiral S. S. Robison, commanding the battle fleet, and head of the contingent visiting here, was received today by the President and the Speaker of the House of Parliament of New South Wales.

POLICE KEEP HANDS OFF WORKERS' RALLY

IMPERIALISM IS DENOUNCED

Speakers Assail Policy Toward China and Declare for the Soviets —Internationale Is Sung.

The Workers' Party of America and the Young Workers' League succeeded last evening in their second attempt to hold a demonstration in behalf of the Chinese laboring classes and against what they called the "imperialistic robbers' policy" of the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan in China. Their first attempt on July 17 resulted in police interference and two arrests and convictions for disorderly conduct.

Members of the Bomb Squad in plain clothes were scattered through the crowd of about 800 that gathered in Seventeenth Street just west of Broadway and Captain William H. Ward of the East Twenty-second Street Station was on hand with six patrolmen. The Police Department had a stenographer taking the speeches. Imperialism and capitalism were denounced, Soviet Russia was lauded and every mention of communism cheered. The flag-draped speakers' stand—the same step-ladder used at the first attempted demonstration—again bore the sign, "Hands Off China!", "Stand by Soviet Russia!"

Resolutions declaring the Workers' solidarity with the Chinese laboring classes and with Soviet Russia were adopted by a roar of "ayes," and when the orators had finished the throng marched through Union Square singing the Internationale. One of the speakers, I. Amter, a lecturer and writer, denounced the action of the police in dispersing the first attempted demonstration, but Captain Ward, on the outskirts of the crowd said:

"Oh, let 'em alone, they're not saying anything."

"American imperialism is preparing for new wars," the resolution said in part. "Mobilization of the fleet in the Pacific, mobilization of the workers on Defense Day, the ceaseless propaganda in the press, schools and churches, the unlimited use of the radio to produce a war psychology, indicate clearly the United States capitalist Government is preparing for war to determine the mastery of the Far East.

"This meeting of workers declares its solidarity with the struggling Chinese people and calls upon the workers of the United States, and especially the organized workers, to line up with the Chinese people against the bankers of Wall Street. This meeting expresses its complete solidarity with the government of the workers and peasants of Soviet Russia and applauds it for its support of the Chinese people in their struggle against the plundering, imperialistic powers, and especially we say to the United States capitalist Government: 'Hands off China!'"

Charles Krumbein, a district organizer of the Workers' Party in America, was Chairman of the meeting and among the speakers were Professor Jefferson D. H. Lamb, a Yale graduate and teacher of philosophy and sociology at the Southern Chinese University in Shanghai, and Miss Rebecca Grecht, a communist. Miss Grecht prophesied a revolution that will mean the end of capitalism throughout the world.

LABOR BARS MEETING BY REDS IN CHICAGO

Cancel Permit for Use of Union Hall — Protest Planned on Garment Workers' Officers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Edward Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, today blocked a move made "Reds" within the ranks of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to hold a protest mass meeting in the Ashland Auditorium, ostensibly called to urge the resignations of Morris Sigman and Meyer Perlstein, president and vice president of the union.

The Ashland Auditorium is owned and controlled by the street car men's union, an organization affiliated with the Chicago Federation of Labor. When Nockels informed officials of the street car men's union of the nature of the meeting, the permit for the hall was promptly cancelled. The committee in charge of the scheduled meeting then entered the Workers Lyceum.

The meeting is called, asserted Nockels, to demand the ousting of both international officials of the garment workers' union because of their efforts to rid their organization of the followers of Soviet dictators.

"We denounced the underground workings of the 'Reds' at a meeting of the Executive Council of the federation on July 8," he asserted, "and immediately sent out a letter to all local unions warning them of the insidious manner in which the 'Reds' cover up their trails. We warned them not to be deceived by the letter head of 'Labor Defense Council,' which bears the address of the Federation Building.

"They are not and never have been in any way connected with the labor movement nor is their party organ, The Daily Workers. To the unsuspecting the 'Reds' use the address of the Chicago Federation of Labor to establish a connection. We denounce their schemes because they are sailing under false colors. They dare not come out in the open and use their correct title, 'Communists,' as the American agents of the Third International."

In retaliation, John Johnstone, an executive member of the Workers Party, who was appointed on a committee to arrange the protest meeting, declared that for several years Nockels openly espoused the communist cause in the labor movement.

Substitutes Buses for Street Cars.

MERIDAN, Miss., July 24 (AP).—Meridian voted yesterday to substitute motor buses for street cars in a special election held on the proposition by a vote of 1,157 to 316.

2 DIE IN WHITE PLAINS OF INFANT PARALYSIS

Deaths Stir Report of Epidemic, Which Is Denied—Another Case Under Treatment.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 24.—Health Officer E. G. Ramsdell denied this afternoon that an epidemic of infantile paralysis had appeared in this city, although he admitted that there had been two deaths since Sunday, and that a mild case was being treated here now. A report had said there were five cases now in White Plains.

The deaths were those of Elizabeth, 5 years old, and Ada Gertrude Osann, 14 years old, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Osann, of 55 Greenridge Avenue. Both suffered from a form of infantile paralysis that affected the muscles of the larynx and throat. The younger child died suddenly Sunday night, while the other died last night. Two brothers, aged 4 and 7, survive.

The case now reported is that of a child who moved here from New York on Monday, and who has a mild case affecting the muscles of the right foot. Dr. Ramsdell said he was near recovery.

"There is no epidemic," he said, "and there has not been. The cases of the Osann children were unusual, and I do not know how they could have contracted the disease. There is no connection between their case and this other one. These are the first cases here this year."

Inquiries in other parts of the county failed to disclose any reported cases of the disease, although New Rochelle has had some cases which later turned out to be dysentery of a peculiar type.

DOG IN PAWN FOR $4.75 EATS WAY TO LIBERTY

Wins Court Attendant, Who Pays Master's Fine, Then Sulks All Day.

When Edward Casey, a negro, who said he owned a cabaret in Harlem, was arraigned before Magistrate Levine in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday charged with having ridden extensively in Joseph Paglioni's taxicab although he had no money to pay the fare, he led after him to the bench a nondescript dog. The dog was as happy as Casey was sad. He wagged his tail and yelped in such a friendly manner when Charles N. Hewett, fingerprint expert attached to the court, drew near him that Mr. Hewett fell to petting him.

A moment later when he heard Casey explaining that if he had had the $4.75 which the Magistrate had fined him he would never have been in court at all but would have paid off the taxicab driver without so much formality, Hewett extended the amount to Casey, saying: "Leave your dog as security and I'll advance the money."

Casey accepted eagerly, took a fond farewell of his dog and hurried out of court. That was at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At 7 o'clock last night Hewett regretfully turned the dog loose. Up to that time he figured the beast had eaten 80 cents' worth of steak and, in return, had never once wagged his tail since Casey passed through the door of the court. At that rate the animal was too great a luxury for Hewett.

The last seen of the dog he was headed north toward Harlem, his tail wagging again merrily.

FEW GOOD HINTS TO SCHEPP

1,372 Letters Received In a Day—One Man Says He Needs an Auto.

Feasible suggestion for new methods to devote millions to charity were declared to be "as hard to find as a needle in a haystack" among the thousands of letters that continued to flow into the office of Leopold Schepp, millionaire cocoanut dealer, and that of his representative, Philip Ritter, yesterday.

At the latter's office, 185 Madison Avenue, 1,372 letters were received in the first mail. Persons who jammed the office throughout the day with pleas for personal or organizational aid were all directed to leave their requests or suggestions in writing with a promise that they would be acknowledged.

One writer declared he lived in the outskirts of Brooklyn and could not possibly journey to work in the centre of the borough without a second-hand car. Among the more impersonal suggestions, it was announced, were recommendations for a fund to start an international language and scientific journals printed in that language, a national loan fund for prospective college students, public music conservatories for children, health clinics for mothers, associations for the guidance of convicts just out of prison, public sanitariums for tubercular patients, and funds for low interest loans to home builders.

The names of all needy boys, 13 to 15 years old, are being noted with a view to seeing if they want to take the pledges which will bring them $200 each at the end of three years from the fund already established by Mr. Schepp.

LIGHTS GO OUT AT CONCERT.

Break Soon Repaired and Van Hoogstraten Carries Out Program.

Just as Willem Van Hoogstraten lifted his baton to conduct the New York Philharmonic Orchestra into the fourth movement of Beethoven's Symphony in D minor the lights in the Lewisohn Stadium at City College blinked out last night. There were 7,500 persons present. The crowd accepted the unusual state of affairs, confident that somehow, somebody would set things aright.

John Rossman, engineer of City College, was among the auditors. When the lights went out he hastened to the college power plant at Amsterdam Avenue and 139th Street. He found that a bolt on the engine in service last night had snapped. He made repairs, and within ten minutes the lights were on and Mr. Van Hoogstraten and his men were making the crowd forget the episode.

Robber Gets 25 Years in Prison.

Judge Francis X. Mancuso in General Sessions yesterday served notice on armed bandits of the city that the time had come for imposing long sentences for hold-ups as a deterrent to "all too frequent" robberies by gunmen. He sentenced John Haughey, 29 years old, of 9 Ridgely Place, Weehawken, N. J., to twenty-five years in Sing Sing on his conviction a week ago on a first-degree robbery indictment as a second offender. He took part in a $21,000 silk theft last April.

dent fight, but expressed the belief that Mount Vernon would join the other communities along the New Haven in opposing the increase.

Depends on Van Auken.

"We look to Judge Van Auken of New Rochelle," Mr. Hewson said, "as we have for the past two years. He certainly made a strenuous fight, and we believe that he is still the man to be in charge of any opposition."

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad issued the following statement:

"The decisions announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Public Service Commission in the commutation rate case sustain the tariffs of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway Company and increase the commutation fares between points in the State of Connecticut and New York City by the amount of 20 per cent. and within the State of New York by approximately 40 per cent., thus placing these fares on the same level as like fares in the States of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, as well as interstate fares between these States.

"Tariffs providing for these increases were filed in the latter part of 1923 and the early part of 1924, and subsequently suspended from time to time to permit a public hearing and the determination of the reasonableness of the rates. This places the commutation fares for the entire system upon a common level and increases the fares for the fifty-trip family ticket in the State of New York to the same level as charged for similar tickets of twenty-five instead of fifty-trip denomination on all parts of the system."

TRAINED NURSE HELD AS A HOTEL BEAT

Says She Is an Heiress and Wanted to Save Explaining Money Was Tied Up in Estate.

IN DEBT HERE AND IN SOUTH

Declares She Is Also a Movie Actress —Arrested as She Sits in Biltmore Lobby.

Miss Marietta B. Gallahorn, 21 years old, of Syracuse, a trained nurse and until recently a student at Syracuse University, was held in bail of $1,000 by Magistrate McAndrews in Yorkville Court yesterday on a charge of failing to pay several hotel bills.

Magistrate McAndrews put off the hearing until next Tuesday after he had been informed by Richmond J. Reese of 35 Nassau Street that his law firm had been requested some weeks ago by persons connected with Syracuse University to draw up a will for the young woman and that it desired to make an investigation of the present charges against her.

Wilfred Olsen, credit manager of the Biltmore, said that Miss Gallahorn had registered at the hotel on June 3, giving her address as Los Angeles. Nine days later, he said, she succeeded in getting her baggage out without paying her bill of $106.96. Olsen added that she had then gone to the McAlpin where she registered under the name of Miss A. M. Bennett of Los Angeles, ran up a bill of $73.85 and left without paying. She repeated the same tactics at Atlanta, Ga., leaving a bill of $40.40 behind, he said, and later left another Southern hotel with a bill of $37.50.

At the lawyer's office it was said that the young woman's explanation was that she was heiress to a fortune and that her money was tied up in the estate proceedings so that she could not get at it; that she had felt some embarrassment about explaining the situation to the hotel men; that she had thought she would spare them details by leaving inconspicuously, and then at some later date surprise them by paying the bills after the estate matters had been wound up.

Her deferred payment system was working smoothly and efficiently until Thursday when she walked into the lobby of the Biltmore and seated herself on a lounge like old times. One of the well-groomed and soft-spoken young men who inhabit hotel lobbies passed a hand over his forehead and then walked over to the lounge and seated himself behind her. It was the sharp-eyed Olsen.

The girl was inclined to take the attitude that they had never been introduced, but she abandoned that when she learned that he had come to see her on business.

"Oh, yes, I'm going to tell you all about that," she began and explained at a rapid pace about probate and surrogate, letters testamentary, appraisals and inventories, but it didn't sound right to the credit manager, so he had her arrested.

In court she pleaded "Not guilty" and revealed that she was a motion picture actress.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 24.—Marietta B. Gallahorn, under arrest in New York, is a registered nurse and was employed in Syracuse for several years before leaving the city a year ago. She came here from California in 1920 and was employed by various physicians. For a time she attended Syracuse University.

There is no information here to support her statement that she is heiress to a fortune.

RECOUNT AIDS BROOKHART.

Senate Tabulation Now Gives Iowa Senator 300 Over Steck.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—A substantial gain for Senator Brookhart in the recount of ballots from last year's Iowa election was registered by Senate counters today on the basis of unofficial tabulations.

The unofficial figures wiped out a previous gain made by Daniel F. Steck, the Democratic opponent of Mr. Brookhart, and gave the Senator a lead of 300 votes on the face of the count to date of uncontested ballots.

Madison Township, Buchanan County and Jefferson Township, Bremer County, furnished the Brookhart gain today, errors in the original tellers' count being given as an explanation.

Mother of Six Falls Dead on Beach.

QUEZON REPLIES TO WOOD.

Denies Hatred Between Moslems and Christian Filipinos.

MANILA, July 24 (AP).—Denial that religious differences between Christian and Mohammedan natives of the Philippines were the underlying causes of trouble with the Moros has been made in the Philippine Senate by its President, Manuel Quezon.

Replying to the address to the Legislature of Governor General Leonard Wood, Mr. Quezon asserted "the Governor General in his message dared hurl at our faces the statement that present troubles in Mindanao are due to the natural hatred borne by Mohammedan Filipinos against their Christian brethren.

"Undoubtedly some one is trying to induce the United States not to fulfill the promise of independence made solemnly to the Filipino people, and wants to see Mindanao separated from the remainder of the Philippines.

"We will give Mindanao everything that is in our power to give. Christian Filipinos will gladly give their souls, their blood, to prevent her being snatched away from the Filipino people."

Mindanao is the largest of the Philippine Islands. Its area with its dependent isles is 46,521 square miles, and its total population is about 500,000.

TO ACT ON TAX PUBLICITY.

But Smoot Says Congress Fight May Result in Compromise.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 24 (AP).—Modification of the publicity clause of the Income Tax law will be sought by Senator Smoot, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance, at the next session, he declared today.

"I have never been able to see where any good came from making tax returns public," he said. "On the other hand, I can see where unscrupulous competitors can cause a great deal of trouble if granted the privilege.

"There will be an effort made to modify the existing feature of the law. There may be some sort of compromise. It might be possible to modify the law by making it permissible for a person to go to the internal revenue officers and ascertain the amount of tax paid. No one would particularly care if that were granted, but when a business in close competition with another is compelled to give to the world its financial secrets, great harm can be done."

Disorderly Conduct Case Dismissed, but Separation Suit Stands, Says Counsel.

The long deferred hearing of the disorderly conduct charge made by his wife against Arthur K. Bourne Jr., grandson of the late head of the Singer Sewing Machine Company and heir to his $40,000,000 estate, came up yesterday in Harlem Court before Magistrate Earl Smith. When Mrs. Bourne declared that she was ready to drop the charge the case was dismissed, and Mr. and Mrs. Bourne left the courtroom with their counsel.

The Bournes were married in September, 1922, at Center Moriches, L. I., after eloping from Blue Point, where the families of both were staying. Last August they separated, and in January Mrs. Bourne brought suit against her husband's mother, Mrs. Ethel Hollins Bourne, for alienation of his affections. A short time later she also filed suit for separation, charging abandonment and non-support.

On the night of June 24 Mrs. Beatrice Bourne tried to speak to her husband as he was entering the apartment house in which his mother lived at 930 Park Avenue. An argument ensued. His wife called a patrolman and had him arrested. The hearing was postponed several times because of the inability of one or the other of the principals to be present.

Samuel A. Berger of 217 Broadway, attorney for Mrs. Bourne, declared yesterday that her action in dropping the disorderly conduct charge was not to be interpreted as meaning that a reconciliation was near or that Mrs. Bourne intended dropping the action for separation. This action is expected to come up in October.

DAWES HELPS DIRECT MOVIE IN WYOMING

He was aided by an occasional word from James Cruze and Betty Compson and appeared to enjoy the experience, shouting "Camera!" like a veteran.

The Dawes party, which included Mrs. Dawes and United States Senator and Mrs. Francis E. Warren, inspected the location, which is a reproduction of Julesburg, Col., in the early '60s, and took a lively interest in the picturesque garb of the Sioux Indians and in the tight-bodiced actresses, clad in the voluminous, flounced skirts that were popular in the early days of the West. Mr. Dawes later reviewed the frontier days parade, a colorful spectacle.

He rode from the railroad station to his hotel here last night in a ramshackle stage coach which saw service between Cheyenne and Deadwood, S. D., forty years ago. He was escorted by Indians and cowboys, and wore a large sombrero, a present from American Legion men. When he reached the hotel lobby he passed between a double line of Indians, each of whom insisted on shaking hands.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawes will be guests of Senator Warren at a luncheon and then go to the frontier park where the Vice President will speak at the last day of the frontier days program. No announcement was forthcoming as to whether he would accept the invitation of Sioux Indians to become an honorary member of their tribe together with Governor Nellie T. Ross, who is scheduled to become an Indian princess by adoption.

Mr. Dawes late today became a Chieftain of the Sioux Indian tribe and was named "White Feather Number Two" by the red men. Picturesque tribal rites, in which Chief Red Feather presided, assisted by medicine men wearing vari-colored feathered war headdresses and their bodies covered with paint, attended the ceremony of induction.

Mr. Dawes surrendered his underslung pipe for an Indian peace pipe, two feet long, bedecked with eagle feathers. He entered the tribal ceremony smoking his own pipe, but when the rites were over he puffed happily on the peace pipe which Chief Red Feather presented to him. More than 15,000 persons witnessed the ceremony.

After the Vice President's adoption Governor Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming was made an honorary member of the tribe and given the cognomen of "Princess Nellie Taylor."

MAN AND 3 BOYS DROWN IN BATHING ACCIDENTS

Body of Child Who Dived Off Bridge at Lincroft on Thursday Is Found.

An Orange, N. J., insurance man and a Bronx high school boy were drowned yesterday in bathing accidents in Pike County, Pa., near Stroudsburg. Two New York youths lost their lives on Long Island and the body of another drowned on Thursday near Asbury Park was recovered.

The insurance agent was Dudley B. Harrison, 34 years old, whose wife and child saw him go down. With a number of others they were sitting on a float in Pocono Lake, at Henrysville, Pa., watching Harrison float on his back with his arms folded around his neck, a picture of contentment.

"This is the life. All I want now is a book," said Harrison.

A moment later he sank with a cry before any one on the raft could help him. The body was recovered.

The Bronx High School boy was Irving Debow, 17 years old, of 927 East 180th Street, who dived into deep water in Forest Park Lake near Stroudsburg when he could not swim. He went down before companions could reach him.

Daniel Fein, 17 years old, of 642 Miller Avenue, Brooklyn, who had been working during his vacation as a kitchen helper in a hotel at Bellport, L. I., took a row with a companion and on the way back dived for a lost oar. He was caught with a cramp and sank. Edward M. Price, Village President of Bellport, led a party of Coast Guards in a search for the body, but at the end of five hours gave up without finding any trace of it.

Martin O'Shaughnessy, 14 years old, of 270 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, was drowned while swimming in front of the Casino at Sea Cliff, L. I. The body was recovered.

William H. Shepard Jr., 7 years old, of 116 West 136th Street, was drowned on Thursday when he dived off a bridge at Lincroft, near Asbury Park. The body was recovered yesterday.

TO HONOR MAIMONIDES.

Jews, Spaniards and Moroccans to Erect Monument on His Grave.

MADRID, July 24 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Maimonides, the great Jewish philosopher, astronomer, physician and Talmudist of the twelfth century, the first to attempt a reconciliation between religion and science, will be honored by Jews, Spaniards and Moroccans, 721 years after his death, by the erection of a monument.

A campaign for 100,000 pesetas to erect a monument on Maimonides's grave on the shore of the Lake of Tiberias in Palestine, was launched here as a result of a visit to the grave of Ignacio Bauer, banker and President of the Jewish Community in Spain. The grave is held in reverence by Jews and Arabs, but has been almost destroyed by the frequent visitors.

The campaign was started with a subscription of 5,000 pesetas by Ignacio Bauer and an equal amount by Don Manuel L. Ortega. The "Casa Universal de los Sefardies" of Spain and the "Associaceones Hispano Sefardies" of Morocco have undertaken to raise the necessary sum.

$30,000 RUM CARGO AND 4 MEN SEIZED

FIND 500 CASES OF SCOTCH

Vessel's Crew Held Under Bail—Merrick Back With 3 New Cars for Dry Agents.

The Francis P. Richie, an eighty-six-foot fishing smack, was brought to the Barge Office yesterday with her crew of four, the latter charged with smuggling liquor. Coast Guard men said they found a cargo of Scotch whisky on the vessel which they valued at $30,000.

The Richie was seized fifteen miles off Shinnecock Light, between Fire Island and Montauk Point, by the destroyer Paulding. The destroyer ran alongside the Richie and Ensign C. W. Thomas and six men went aboard.

Amidships the searchers came across a compartment that was locked and barred. Inside, the customs men said, they found about 400 cases of Scotch, and later another 100 cases was found stored between bulkheads.

The prisoners were arraigned before United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter. They described themselves as James P. O'Connell, 542 East Forty-third Street, master of the vessel; John Veryzer, Islip, L. I.; Peter O'Riley, 640 Tenth Avenue, and Jack Wallace, 115 Jericho Turnpike, Mineola. O'Connell was held in $2,500, the other prisoners in $500 bail each. Bonds was furnished by a surety company.

Robert Q. Merrick, Divisional Prohibition Chief, returned from Syracuse and Albany yesterday bringing with him three large touring cars to be used by agents in collecting evidence.

Chief Merrick said that he has made application to the Treasury Department for thirty cars. At present the force here has been using twelve hired automobiles, paying 10 cents a mile for them.

GLORIA GOULD TO RUN NEW MOVIE THEATRE

Resumes Maiden Name for Project—Will Have Only Women as Employes.

Mrs. Gloria Gould Bishop, youngest daughter of the late George Jay Gould and his first wife, the former Miss Edith Kingdon, whose activities since her debut in society two years ago have included solo dances at various entertainments, instruction in dancing and writing for magazines, has undertaken the management of a Broadway motion picture theatre, according to an announcement made yesterday. The theatre is the Embassy, under construction on Broadway between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh Streets, which will be opened late in August by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company.

Miss Gloria Gould will resume that name for her new work.

While it was stated by the management of the theatre that the size of the stage would not accommodate extensive stage programs in connection with the presentation of motion pictures, it was said that Miss Gould might decide to present a solo dance or might have her pupils appear in dances at the theatre. She will have charge of the selection of singers and all other matters in the management of the theatre. According to the plans of Miss Gould all of the officials in the theatre will be women as well as all employes, including musicians.

ARRANGES WIFE'S FUNERAL.

Peyton Van Rensselaer Visits the Scene of Her Suicide.

Peyton J. Van Rensselaer of Newport, R. I., arrived here yesterday to arrange for the funeral of Mrs. Van Rensselaer, who jumped from a sixth-story window in the office of her physician, Dr. G. Reese Satterlee, 9 East Fortieth Street, late Thursday afternoon. He visited the offices of Dr. Satterlee.

According to Dr. Redford K. Johnson, X-ray expert, Mr. Van Rensselaer was not surprised that his wife had succumbed to a severe case of nervous depression and ended her life. Mr. Van Rensselaer ordered the body sent in the afternoon to Stockbridge, Mass., for interment.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., July 24.—Mrs. Peyton J. Van Rensselaer had been prominent in Stockbridge society since her marriage, about fifteen years ago. She was a member of the Stockbridge Golf and Tennis Club and the Casino.

The funeral will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be in the Van Rensselaer lot in Stockbridge Cemetery.

BRITISH WOOL WORKERS OUT

Textile Shut-Down Affects 135,000—Women in a Fight.

BRADFORD, England, July 24 (AP).—A shutdown in the wool textile industry over wage disputes, affecting 135,000 workers, occurred here today.

Free-for-all fighting between women occurred at Barker End mills, where many girl workers whose wages had not been reduced stuck to their posts. A crowd of 200 girls from other concerns marched upon the mill and demanded that all workers leave. The doors were stormed and some of the employes inside the buildings were attacked, but the police stopped hostilities before there were any casualties.

tween Attorney General Sargent and General Andrews. Consideration was given to the information received by the Attorney General from forty United States Attorneys that the field forces of the prohibition service were inefficient and that in many instances the enforcement authorities—Federal, State and local—were corrupt.

The reports from the District Attorneys will be used in a check-up on the applications of those who have applied for reappointment under the Andrews plan of reorganization.

It was said tonight that further conferences will be held by Attorney General Sargent and General Andrews. As a result it is expected that Federal Attorneys will be instructed to prepare prohibition cases with more care and they will be directed to expedite trials. General Andrews is determined that the field agents of the prohibition unit shall cooperate to the full with the prosecuting authorities.

Special attention is to be paid by General Andrews to the smuggling of liquor from Canada and Mexico, and patrols on both borders are to be enlarged.

So far as Canada is concerned, General Andrews believes that the new treaty with the Dominion, under which the two countries agree to refuse clearance to vessels suspected of carrying contraband liquor in their cargoes and to enforce other regulations aimed to compel respect for the prohibitory laws of Canada and the United States, will be helpful. He has discussed with the Board of Strategy the results of his conferences with the collectors of customs at Rouse's Point, N. Y., and St. Albans, Vt.

A further explanation of the effect of the transfer of control of the sale and use of denatured alcohol from collectors of internal revenue to State directors, who will act in such matters until the district administrators have been sworn in, was made public today. It was made known that the State directors would act on permits for withdrawals of alcohol, beginning Aug. 1, thus foreshadowing a formal announcement that the personnel of the new plan would not be ready to function until a later date. In today's statement it was emphasized that there will be retained with collectors the formal approval of the applications for permits to operate industrial alcohol plants, bonded warehouses and denaturing plants. The collectors' accountability ceases when the denatured product is withdrawn from the denaturing plant.

8,000 HEAR 'AIDA' SUNG AT THE POLO GROUNDS

Picturesque Scenic and Lighting Effects—Performance Wins an Ovation.

More than 8,000 persons attended the open-air performance of "Aïda" last night at the Polo Grounds, 157th Street and Eighth Avenue, the first production of the seven weeks' season of the Municipal Opera Company of New York.

The atmospheric conditions were perfect for the presentation of Verdi's popular opera, and the voices of the operatic singers were heard distinctly at the furthest end of the bleachers. A clear, star-studded sky made an appropriate canopy for the scenes depicting the period when the Pharaohs ruled over Egypt.

The scenic and lighting effects were picturesque to the extreme, making a phantom world realistic, and blotting out all traces of the national game. The only reminder that this was the home of the Giants was the cry of the vendor of soft drinks during the intermissions.

There was an orchestra of 106 pieces and a chorus of about a hundred. Two tents of striped canvas were used for the dressing rooms. It was the first production of grand opera in New York where the first-nighters were at liberty to leave their seats and roam back of the scenes.

The stage was an innovation for New York, being built in sections and on wheels. It was 120 feet wide and 60 feet deep and there was no backwall to cramp the effect of distance. All the panoply of a playhouse designed for massive productions was cleverly concealed by rows of tall cedar trees. There was ample room in Scene 2 in Act II, the great triumphal scene, for the entire company to move about as in a great pageant.

The company received an ovation at the close of this scene after which Maurice Frank, director general of the opera company, addressed the big assembly. He told his audience that they meant to adhere to the best musical standards during the Summer season, and asked for the co-operation of the citizens of New York. The project, he said, was an effort to keep alive the best in grand opera at a moderate price.

The singers, who were all heard to advantage, include Dreda Aves, who appeared as Aïda, the Ethiopan slave; Carmela Ponselle, who sang the rôle of Amneris, daughter of the King of Egypt; Florence Leffert, Luigi Della Molle, Hunter Kimball, Amund Sjovik, Mario Valle, and Luigi De Cesaro. Cesare Dodero conducted the orchestra.

HIBERNIANS ANGERED BY MARY MACSWINEY

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 24.—Statements made here by Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of Terence MacSwiney, former Lord Mayor of Cork, who died on a hunger strike, are detrimental to the best interests of Ireland and do not represent the sentiment of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, according to a resolution adopted by that body here today at the concluding sessions of the fifty-fourth National Convention in the Ambassador Hotel.

Miss MacSwiney came here to attend a reception in her honor given by Irish Republican adherents. She declared in interviews that the present Free State Government of Ireland has failed, attacked the British Government, and asserted that Ireland would continue her fight for complete independence, rather than the present "false freedom."

The resolution did not refer to Miss MacSwiney by name, but referred to her as a "lady from Ireland," whose statements in local newspapers "tended to indicate that she was representative of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America."

"Her reference to 'false freedom' would be amusing," the resolution read, "if it were not detrimental to the best interests of the Irish cause. Her statements in reference to the Irish cause are not the sentiments of the Ancient Order of Hibernians."

Michael J. Donohoe of Philadelphia, former member of Congress, was re-elected President of the national organization. Other officers elected were: Judge Martin L. Sweeny, Cleveland, Vice President; Patrick W. Falvey, Toronto, Vice President in Canada; Michael W. Delaney, Chicago, secretary, and Patrick J. Dowd, Holyoke, Mass., treasurer. Five national trustees were elected, C. F. Horan, Los Angeles; Thomas J. Lucid, Jersey City; Patrick J. O'Donnell, Minneapolis; John Donnelly, Bristol, Conn., and Dr. John S. McLaughlin, Detroit.

JEMMETT WELL KNOWN HERE

Giant Artist, Drowned at Biarritz, Had a Picturesque Career.

LONDON, July 24.—W. B. Jemmett, the English portrait painter who was drowned at Biarritz yesterday in attempting to save an Englishwoman, was one of the most picturesque figures in the artistic Bohemian life of London and Paris, where he was known as the "Piccadilly Giant."

Mr. Jemmett was as well known among Americans abroad as among his own countrymen. He had painted the portraits of a number of socially prominent American girls. His unusual height—he was 6 feet 9¾ inches tall—made him an outstanding figure for the last twenty years. He told friends he added another three-quarters of an inch during the war.

One day many years ago the artist was walking down Bond Street in London when King Edward came out of a shop. The King immediately was attracted by Jemmett's amazing height, and one of his suite who knew the artist stopped him and presented him.

"What height are you, young man?" asked the King.

"Six foot nine," Jemmett replied.

"And a very good height, too," was the King's comment.

Mr. Jemmett visited America in 1914 and refused tempting offers to go into the movies, for he was not only tall but extremely handsome, of the Greek god type. Since the war Mr. Jemmett has been a prominent figure in the gay life of Paris, where he had a studio.

City College Began Night Courses.

In a recent article in THE TIMES it was stated that New York University made possible in 1909 the earning of degrees by attendance at night courses only. It was the College of the City of New York which took the step that early. New York University inaugurated the system this year.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Engaged," which was to have moved to the Fifty-second Street Theatre, will close for the season at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre tonight.

"Mercenary Mary" will close at the Longacre on Aug. 8.

"The Eyes Have It," a new musical play, will be produced by Mrs. Henry B. Harris in the late Fall.

"Back in Half an Hour," announced for production by the Playgoers, Inc., was written by Oliver Herford and Bertram Hobbs.

SEEK 40 SALESMEN IN MAIL RUM RING

CUSTOMERS MUST TESTIFY

Buckner Issues 18 Subpoenas for Buyers to Trace Source of Liquor—To Grant No Immunity.

The forty salesmen who sold wines and liquors to the 20,000 customers of the rum-selling syndicate which the Federal authorities say was headed by Jacob Kirschenblatt or Kirsch, now under arrest here, have taken to the road again. This time they are not carrying their sample cases. They are trying to elude prohibition agents and agents of the Department of Justice. They are wanted not as links in the chain of evidence by which the prosecutor hopes to convict the eight under arrest, but are sought because the Government, in its endeavor to wipe out the mail order and express business of selling liquor, will seek their indictment as bootleggers.

United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner, who with John M. Cashin, in charge of the prohibition department of Mr. Buckner's office, is directing the John Doe investigation by the Federal Grand Jury, said yesterday that already the work of combing the country for the salesmen of the ring was under way. The one-time sellers of "high grade" liquors are elusive persons, he said, and for that reason it is now proposed to call the syndicate's customers to New York to testify.

Mr. Buckner for the first time gave the lines upon which the John Doe inquiry is being advanced yesterday. In the first place, he said, the investigators were "working down from Kirsch" in a hunt for those who financed the operations of the ring. The second direction, Mr. Buckner said, is "from the bottom up." This is an effort to find out the sources of supply, by whom shipments were handled and the salesmen who carried the lists of customers and prospects and who apparently sent their road orders to New York.

The reason for calling customers, Mr. Buckner said, was to locate the salesmen. Eighteen subpoenas calling out of town buyers to New York already have been issued and they will be heard within two weeks. The subpoena list shows these cities: St. Louis, Detroit, Columbus, Washington, D. C.; Chicago, Philadelphia, Oklahoma, Sioux Falls, Fairfax, Okla.; Kansas City, Minneapolis. There probably will be twenty called from this city.

Much of the examination of witnesses, it was said, centred about the answers to the two questions, "Where did you buy the liquor?" and "Who did you buy it from?"

"The witnesses who will be brought to New York to testify as to the purchase of liquor represent a cross section of the country," said Mr. Buckner. "We are following as closely as we can the route of the forty salesmen from New York right across the country to the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Buckner made it clear yesterday that the Government would not offer immunity to salesmen by calling them to testify before the Grand Jury.

Jacob Kirsch and Sol Damsky, who were indicted for possessing 480 counterfeit strip revenue stamps, as the outcome of the raid on premises at 1,123 Broadway a week ago, pleaded not guilty before Judge Lake Jones in the United States District Court yesterday.

BILLIE BURKE AND ZIEGFELD SAIL TODAY

His First Visit to London in 14 Years—He and A. L. Erlanger Deny Business Breach.

Florenz Ziegfeld, Billie Burke (Mrs. Ziegfeld) and Patricia Ziegfeld, their daughter, will sail on the Majestic today for a brief holiday abroad, in company with Mr. and Mrs. J. Leonard Repfogle. This will constitute Mr. Ziegfeld's first European trip in three years and his first visit to London in fourteen.

Mr. Ziegfeld and A. L. Erlanger yesterday issued denials of the report that there had been a breach in their business relations and said that they had never been more cordial. Mr. Ziegfeld said that the "Follies" would continue indefinitely at the New Amsterdam Theatre and "Louie the 14th" of the Cosmopolitan.

Upon her return from abroad Miss Burke will appear in a new play under Mr. Ziegfeld's management.

WHISTLER CHIEF ROLE IN NEW LONDON PLAY

Laurence Eyre's 'The Wasp' Tells the Life of Painter—Oscar Wilde Also a Character.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—James McNeill Whistler, who was one of America's greatest painters, will soon appear as the central character in a play to be produced in London and written by Laurence Eyre, American playwright. It is called "The Wasp." The play tells the life of Whistler and deals with incidents in Whistler's first private salon in London.

Whistler's reputed reputation as "connoisseur of the gentle art of making enemies" likewise figures in the play. Much of the material was obtained from the widow of William Chase, American artist, who at one time of his life was a warm friend of Whistler. Besides the artist, Carlyle, Swinburne and Oscar Wilde will also be introduced in the play.

Ninth Symphony Repeated.

The Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Willem van Hoogstraten, repeated Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at the Stadium last evening to a large audience. The chorus from the Oratorio Society and Schola Cantorum lent their assistance. The soloists were Ruth Rodgers, Irene Wilder, Charles Stratton and Frazer Gange.

Ernest Schelling's tone poem, "A Victory Ball," will be played at the Stadium Concert tonight in response to many requests. It will be given in place of Tchaikovsky's "Francesca de Rimini." The rest of the program will stand as announced.

Goldman Band Plays Mendelssohn.

The Goldman Band, under the direction of Edwin Franko Goldman, played a Mendelssohn program at the campus of New York University last night. The evening being fine, there was a record crowd. Mr. Goldman's new march, "On the Campus," has caught the popular fancy and it was one of the encores played last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Murry Guggenheim attended the concert last Monday and were highly pleased at the enthusiasm of the audience.

BRAVES REAP RUNS WHILE GIANTS NAP

JACK SCOTT ALONE SHINES

Benefit Game for Salvation Army Helps All Concerned Except the Hapless New Yorkers.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 24.—The brutal Braves took another gratuitous slap at our boys today, winning a comparatively easy victory, 3 to 1. The Giants are off their feed or the Braves are on theirs—one of the two.

There was ineptness in the outfield and the infield. The pitching, in the hands of Jack Scott, was neatly dispatched, but you can't expect anybody short of a Mathewson to triumph over the combination of a sturdy enemy attacking and a poor defense by his own supporting troops.

Meusel and Southworth played left and centre fields, and the gaps between them contributed to a run or two. Frisch loafed on a throw to first base and that cost another tally. The base running was lifeless and lack-lustre. Outsode of all that, and in addition to the fact that Larry Benton was tossing cross-word puzzles up to the platter, the Giants had a lovely afternoon.

Game Is for Fresh Air Camp.

It was a benefit game, the proceeds going to the Salvation Army's fresh air camp at Sharon, Mass. The only parties who got no benefit were the Giants. The Braves collected the game—making nine victories out of seventeen with the McGrawmen—and the Salvation Army took away a considerable purse.

The pre-game ceremonies smacked of opening day. There was a brass band and a presentation of a watch to Manager Davy Bancroft, the gift of the Boston players and club; an imitation of Nick Altrock and Al Schacht by local actors, an auction of autographed baseballs by Georgia O'Ramey, playing in one of Harry Frazee's shows here, and a neat collection of chorus maidens who sold flowers for the benefit of the fresh air camp.

"That's all right," shouted a native wag, "he'll sell it to the Yankees for $45." Mr. Frazee is still affectionately remembered in dear Boston.

Benton and Benton's fast ball stopped the Giants with seven hits, but Scott, although allowing eleven safeties, was not far behind the red-thatched Brave. His support was enough to make John McGraw writhe, groan and utter silent maledictions in the shadows of the dugout.

Burrus Enjoys a Benefit.

The fourth inning was a fair cross-section. Welsh opened with a hit to right. Burrus then doubled a fly in short left. Frisch was slower than Jackson would have been going backward for the ball. Meusel was no flashing meteor coming in. The ball landed between them and bounced awkwardly past Irish. Southworth, who was backing up, let the pellet roll through him, and out of all this perverse work came a two-bagger for Burrus.

Welsh gained third and scored when Professor Felix busted a long fly to Young. While Pep was throwing home—somewhat uselessly—Burrus ambled to third, and came across when Padgett flied to Meusel.

The Giants took back half of the total in the fifth, when Kelly doubled to left, Terry singled against Padgett and Southworth flied to left.

Scott had two of the Boston bruisers retired in the same inning, when Bancroft bounced a fluke single off Kelly. Gautreau grounded to Frisch, who tarried overlong and threw leisurely, the Holy Cross speedster beating the ball by the span of a grasshopper's ankle. Of course, Welsh followed with a single, scoring Bancroft. Did it ever fail? Answer echoes No.

Giants Forego Openings.

The Giants had openings in the sixth, seventh and ninth. Young's two-bagger with one gone in the sixth was followed by thick silence on the part of Frisch and Meusel. Terry singled in the seventh with one down and Southworth flied out. Lindstrom walked, but Welsh scurried westward to the foul line for Snyder's threatening drive.

In the ninth the Giants started one of their famous rallies with two out. Terry and Southworth singled, but Lindstrom lifted a long fly to Felix. The market quotation on these flies is now 22 cents a hogshead.

Bancroft received a watch and a speech to go with it and then made two hits, one a triple. Thus another of baseball's fine old traditions goes down with a crash.

John Wisner pitched the eighth inning. It's been so long since John pitched that he had to be introduced all around to the other Giants.

After tomorrow's game the Giants will catch an early train out of Boston. This will be no severe wrench, and the Giants aren't coming back, either. They're done here for the season.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—Lloyd (Chick) Davies, who has been the most brilliant pitcher of the New Haven Eastern League staff this season today was purchased by the New York Giants for delivery Sept. 1. Davies, a southpaw, won his sixteenth game of the season today. In four games this year he did not pass a batsman, and he has registered four shutouts. He formerly pitched for Amherst College.

CUBS LOSE AT HOME UNDER MARANVILLE

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP).—Cincinnati defeated Chicago, 3 to 1, today by bunching hits off Cooper, one of which was a home run by Pinelli in the first inning. Luque allowed Chicago seven hits and tightened up in the pinches.

Chicago's lone run was aided across the plate by an error by Caveney. This was Maranville's first appearance before the home fans as manager. A one-handed catch by Weis was the feature of the game.

TIGERS CONTINUE TO GAIN.

Beat White Sox, 6-4, and Go Into Tie for Fourth Place.

DETROIT, July 24 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers defeated the Chicago White Sox today, 6 to 4, and went into a tie with St. Louis for fourth place in the American League. The Sox still are in third place, although their lead was cut to five points today by the Tigers.

The fast-climbing Detroit team took an early lead in the game, scoring two runs in the first inning. Scenting victory and a possible chance of slipping nearer the coveted third place in the league standing, the Tigers nipped rallies of the White Sox practically before they started.

MACKINAC RACE ON TODAY.

Chicago Mayor Will Start Yachts on 331-Mile Contest.

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP).—Mayor William E. Dever will officiate as starter tomorrow for the annual Mackinac Island race of the Chicago Yacht Club, which will mark the club's golden jubilee. The 331-mile competition will start from the foot of Van Buren Street at 4 o'clock.

Expert yachtsmen are divided among four favorite cruisers in picking the maker of the best time to the island. James O. Heywroth's sloop Polaris II has the most supporters. Chosen by others are Fred A. Price's Celeritas, O'Rourke Brothers' Intruder and J. A. Hadwiger's Virginia.

SKEETERS PECKED BY ORIOLES AGAIN

Rally in Eighth That Ties Score Overcome When Triple and Single Make 3-2 Victory.

(By The Associated Press.)

Baltimore made it two straight over the Jersey City club by winning yesterday's game, 3 to 2, in Jersey City. The Orioles won in the ninth after the Skeeters had rallied to tie the count in the eighth. Porter's triple followed by Walker's timely single accounted for the winning run. Thomas, pitching for the Birds, held the Skeeters to six hits and fanned nine batters.

Dempsey Dodges Kearns on Reaching Coast; Through With Acting, Ready to Train, He Says

LOS ANGELES, July 24 (AP).—Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight pugilist, aspiring film actor and beauty parlor patron, gave everybody, including his bewildered manager, Jack Kearns, the slip, and left the train on which he was scheduled to arrive here today at Pomona, about thirty miles from Los Angeles.

Dempsey is motoring home to Hollywood with his wife, Estelle Taylor, film actress, who, many of Jack's numerous friends allege, has succeeded Kearns as the fighter's manager.

Dempsey, found at his Hollywood home early tonight, was ready to talk to Jack Kearns, "maybe next Monday." Kearns had announced several days ago that he would be at the train to extend the glad hand to the man he helped hoist to the peak of pugilism.

To interviewers waiting for him when he reached his home here the champion said he was probably through with acting and ready to begin training.

"I'll probably never make another picture," he declared. "As soon as I can find a likely location for my training camp, I'm going to get down to work in earnest. If I can't find a good camp out in the country I'll probably do my training right here in the hills of Hollywood. Anyway, my workouts will begin in a week. My first fight will be for Floyd Fitzsimmons at Michigan City. After that I'll attend to Wills."

On the subject of Kearns the champion had little to say other than that he would have a talk with him about their business affairs in a day or two, "probably Monday, or whenever I can get in touch with him."

HARRISS SHUTS OUT BOSTON WITH 2 HITS

Red Sox Get Pair of Singles as Athletics Win, 6-0, and Tighten Hold on Lead.

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (AP).—Slim Harriss held the Boston Red Sox to two singles today, the Athletics winning by a score of 6 to 0 and increasing their league lead. Todt's single in the second inning and one by Wambsganss in the fifth were the only Boston safeties, and neither man reached further than second base.

Ehmke hurled well until the eighth inning, when he was touched up for five hits and as many runs. Simmons's home run climaxed this rally and came with one on base. It was his sixteenth circuit drive of the season.

Boys' Day was celebrated prior to the game, 15,000 youngsters watching two junior nines battle for the city title and remaining as guests of the club for the big league game.

OUIMET WINS ON 19TH AND GAINS THE FINAL

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 24 (AP).—Francis Ouimet, Woodland, former State amateur golf champion, won his way into the final round of the Massachusetts Amateur Championship tournament at the Brookline Country Club this afternoon by defeating E. C. Murphy, 16-year-old Charles River star, after 19 holes of play in the semi-final round.

Ouimet will meet W. P. Hersey, Wellesley, in the final round tomorrow. Hersey defeated A. P. Wade, Meadowbrook, 2 and 1 in the semi-final round.

Though defeated, young Murphy amazed the gallery by his brilliant play. Ouimet had him 3 up at the seventh hole, but he squared the match on the sixteenth. At the extra hole the youth drove his ball 275 yards into the rough and followed with a well-placed iron shot. Ouimet's drive also landed in the rough but his second shot placed him so he could hole out in four, one stroke better than Murphy.

Hersey, in his match with Wade, went out in 34 and was three up at the turn. He defeated David Whiteside, Reservation, 3 and 2 in the morning round. In the early play, Wade eliminated J. M. Batcheldor, Wenham, from the tournament by 3 and 2.

Young Murphy, whose play against Mc Phail and Hoxie in the earlier rounds won him the attention of the gallery, had a large following in his morning round with Ray Gorton, Braeburn, whom he defeated, 1 up. Ouimet spent the morning beating Herbert Jacques, the Country Club, 6 and 4.

YANKEES WILL TRY FOR 3 IN ROW TODAY

By HARRY CROSS.

It may come to pass this afternoon that the Yankees will smash all the season's records to smithereens and win three ball games in a row. They already have won two, one from Detroit, the other from Washington. They picked two of the hardest spots they could pick and got away with it.

This afternoon they will probably face Walter Johnson at the Yankee Stadium. While it would not be advisable to put the family jewels on the Yank chances against the world's champions with Johnson on the mound, it must not be overlooked that the Yankees enjoyed another day of rest yesterday.

Rest is the one thing they have not tried seriously this season, and the few instances where it was introduced into their lives it produced wonderful results. They have acquired a new mental complex. A day of rest means to them a victory the next day. That is firmly adjusted in their minds and it will be hard to shake off.

Huggins has Sam Jones and Waite Hoyt all ready for action against Washington today and tomorrow. For all any one knows, Huggins may plan to win the next two games from Washington and thereby do another good turn for the Athletics. Hug was never a manager who was satisfied to win one ball game now and then. He likes a flock of them.

Plenty of gossip is heard in baseball circles about the new infielders, new outfielders and new catchers the Yankees are trying to snare for next season, but deep secrecy surrounds the mysterious methods which are being pursued to find new pitchers.

Every one and his cousin knows that Manager Huggins plans to add new deceiving talent to his pitching staff next season.

But has any one heard anything about who those pitchers are going to be? Nosiree! The two-jin manager is using gum-shoe methods and secret diplomacy in his efforts to get pitchers. He will talk about players in other positions, yet; but when you mention the word pitcher to the Yankee manager he puts on smoked glasses and seals his lips.

HERMAN KNOCKS OUT KID HENRY IN SEVENTH

Babe Herman of California knocked out Kid Henry of Montreal in the seventh round of a scheduled twelve-round bout at the Rockaway Beach Arena last night before a crowd of 3,000 persons. The end came thirty-three seconds after the start of the seventh, when Henry's seconds tossed in a towel. The Californian, weighing 127 pounds, two and a half less than his rival, won all the way.

Henry, though game, was clearly outclassed. In the third round he was knocked down for the count of nine but on his feet and staved off a wild rush by Herman, who was trying to finish the bout then and there. At no time was Henry equal to the rugged Herman, who is matched to meet Louis (Kid) Kaplan, the champion of the division, in Waterbury, Conn., next month. When they left the ring Henry was badly bruised and cut, but Herman was practically without a mark.

In the eight-round semi-final Moe Ginsburg of Brooklyn won the judges' decision over Willie Kohler, also of Brooklyn. Ginsberg weighed 129½ and Kohler 126. Three other bouts were on the program. The first, a four-round affair, saw Tony Canzanari knock out Jack Grodner in the first round. Two 147-pounders met in the second bout of the evening, which was won by Cal Cohen on the judges' decision from Vincent Forgione. Harry Duer of Rockville Centre won the other six-rounder, defeating Jack Grace. The winner weighed 137½ and the loser 140. Jack Gorman was referee.

BURKE KNOCKED OUT BY DELANEY IN 9TH

SENT TO FLOOR 4 TIMES

But Bounds Back Each Time to Resume Fighting—Estridge-Gans Draw Before 11,000.

Jack Delaney, the Bridgeport light-heavyweight, scored a knockout over Jack Burke of Pittsburgh at the Coney Island Stadium last night, but Burke was still on his feet at the finish. Referee Andy Griffin stopped the battle after one minute and fourteen seconds of the ninth round and brought forth a shout of disapproval from the crowd of 11,000 and an outburst of dismay from Burke.

The Pittsburgher took a terrible beating from the start and four times he found himself on the floor, but each time he was up and at it again without taking a count. When Referee Griffin suddenly and unexpectedly called a halt Burke rushed at him with both gloves flying and had to be pulled away by his attendants. He made another rush at the referee as he was climbing out of the ring, but later came over and shook hands.

Delaney used everything he had on the Pittsburgh battler stone wall, but couldn't put him away. He landed rights and lefts, both of which carried a tremendous kick, almost at will. He stood off and measured the distance between his right fist and Burke's chin deliberately an then cut loose with all the power in his broad shoulders. But when the blow landed Burke was still on his feet and fighting back.

Delaney could make Burke's knees sag, he could rock Burke's head on his shoulders, he could have Burke leaning against the ropes, but at the end of each round the Pittsburgher still was in a vertical position.

Takes Unmerciful Beating.

Seldom has a fighter taken as much punishment and remained conscious to tell about the end. The gong found Burke weak and tottering almost every time, but he always seemed able to recuperate in the rest periods and Delaney had to start all over again when he left his corner.

It looked as if there would be a quick ending to the battle at the start. Delaney dropped Burke with a right to the jaw soon after the first round opened, but the rugged Westerner was up at once. Delaney floored him again with a short right which followed a hard left and again Burke came bouncing back for more.

Then Delaney drove his opponent to the ropes and pounded him with both hands at will, but the Pittsburgh boxer took it all and was still standing at the bell. In the third and fourth rounds Delaney tried to put his opponent down with everything he had and succeeded, but he didn't have enough to keep him down.

Again in the fifth Delaney sent Burke to the floor but he couldn't keep him there. After that he tried desperately to finish it, but it was no use.

Then, in the ninth, came the sudden ending which brought forth protests from every one except Delaney. The Bridgeport boxer, perhaps better than any one else, realized the hoplessness of the task. Burke undoubtedly would have had to take a lot more punishment in the bout had it been allowed to go to the distance of ten rounds, but there is little doubt that he would have been on his feet at the end and the best Delanty would have received would have been the decision.

Estridge and Gans Draw.

Larry Estridge, the Harlem negro middleweight, and Italian Joe Gans, rugged Brooklyn boxer, fought to a draw in the ten-round semi-final contest. For six rounds Estridge and Gans played ring around the rosy, waltzing to the jeers and laughter of the crowd. Even the boxers had to laugh.

Perhaps it wasn't so much an inclination to take things easy on the part of Estridge as it was his inability to figure out a way of reaching his squatty little opponent. The long, lean and lanky negro couldn't get down low enough to reach Gans where it counted and the rugged little Italian couldn't get up high enough to land solidly on Estridge.

After repeated warnings from Referee Andy Griffin, with the ultimatum they either would fight or get thrown out of the ring, the two started to mix it and after that the punches began to land. Gans had the better, such as it was, of four out of the first six rounds, but after that Estridge began to gain confidence and courage and he took the seventh by a wide margin.

Izzy Cooper, the blond boy from New York, and Sonny Smith fought a slow and uninteresting draw in the first ten-round bout that served as a substitute attraction for the battle scheduled between Carl Tremaine and Georgie Marks. It was reported that Marks was suffering from pneumonia and Tremaine failed to appear at the stadium.

SHARKEY OUTPOINTS MORAN

Scores Decisive Victory in Ten-Round Bout in Bayonne Ring.

Jack Sharkey of North Bergen, 121 pounds, scored a decisive victory over Midget Mike Moran of Pittsburgh in their ten-round bout at Bayonne last night, according to The Associated Press. Sharkey knocked Moran down twice in the fifth round, the first time for a count of one and the second time for a count of nine.

In the semi-final, Joey Ross of Hoboken beat Lou Goldberg of Brooklyn. The weights were 111¾ pounds for Ross and 110 for Goldberg. Skelly Lewis of Hoboken beat Larry Roache of Newark in a six round bout.

PHILADELPHIA TEAM WINS.

Riflemen Take National Title With 1,974 Out of Possible 2,000.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The small bore rifle team from the Frankford Arsenal, Philadelphia, is the winner of the National Rifle Association outdoor team championship for 1925. The Frankford team, firing at 50 and 100 yards, made a team total of 1,974 out of a possible 2,000.

The Peerless Rifle Club of Cleveland finished second, with a total of 1,968, and the team from Portland, Ore., was third, with 1,962.

St. Jean Takes Lead Over Maturo.

Andrew St. Jean of Minneapolis took the lead by 80 to 61 over James Maturo in their handicap three-cushion match at Kreuters Academy last night by scoring 35 points in fifty-one innings against 26 for Maturo. The final block will be played tonight.

WALTHOUR SHOWS WAY TO MOESKOPS

Flashes to Tape in Front Twice in Three-Heat Mile Match at Velodrome.

Bobby Walthour, popular youngster from Arlington, N. J., continued his great riding at the New York Velodrome last night when he defeated Pete Moeskops, champion of the world, in two out of three heats of a one-mile match race before a crowd of 15,000. Walthour won the first heat and Moeskops took the second. Walthour received an ovation when he took the third and deciding heat.

Walthour just nipped Moeskops at the tape in the first heat, while Moeskops rode the same way in the second heat, coming from behind. Walthour looked to be the loser in the final heat, but he came with a rush in the home stretch, while the crowd howled with delight.

Harris Horder, Australian star, defeated Ray Eaton and Willie Spencer, in two out of three heats of a one-mile match race. Eaton won the first heat by taking a flier and his opponents were unable to catch him. Horder finished second and Spencer third. Horder won the second heat from Eaton and Spencer and the third was finished in the same order.

Orlando Piani and Alfred Goullet made short work of Reggie McNamara and Eddie Madden in two straight heats of a one-mile team match race. Goullet outsprinted McNamara to the tape in the first heat and in the second, when McNamara tried to take a flier, Goullet caught him and rode around him on the last turn.

Arthur Spencer, the American champion, who is in form once more, defeated Freddie Spencer and Caesar Moretti, champion of Italy, in two straight heats of a three-cornered mile match. Arthur raced around Fred and Moretti in the first heat and in the second heat Moretti trailed him, while Freddie was third.

Cecil Walker defeated Alfred Grenda in an Australian pursuit race. They started on opposite sides of the track and it took Walker four miles and five and one-half laps to catch Grenda.

The summaries:

Half-Mile Handicap, Amateur—Won by Louis Watson, New York, 120 yards; Jack Sheehan, Unione Sportiva Italiana, 65 yards, second; Philip Gries, New York, 140 yards, third; Peter Greco, Unione Sportiva Italiana, 55 yards, fourth; Arthur Lane, Acme Wheelmen, 40 yards, fifth. Time—0:58 1-5.

Won by Gastman; Pichione, second; Jeager, third; Gaffney, fourth; Carman, fifth.

ROSENBERG LIKELY TO MEET GRAHAM

Bantam Champion's Next Campaign Will Probably Culminate in Fight With Utican.

A brief rest and then another ring campaign culminating in another important battle in defense of his title, probably against Bushy Graham, was the program outlined yesterday by Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg who retained his world's bantamweight championship by his knockout of Eddie Shea in four rounds at the New York Velodrome Thursday night. Harry Siegel, manager of the champion, stated that he was in receipt of a large batch of offers for fights in all parts of the country but intended to make no definite plans until some time next week.

The swift, decisive manner in which Rosenberg eliminated Shea left no doubt among fight followers yesterday as to the New York youth's superiority or right to the title. The show, however, produced another contender who was generally conceded to be next in line for a chance at the title. He is Bushy Graham, also known in the ring as Mickey Garcia, the Utica (N. Y.) battler.

The clean-cut manner in which Graham won the decision from Abe Goldstein, the former bantam titleholder, in the semi-final, places the upstate fighter right in the forefront among the challengers.

Whether a Rosenberg-Graham fight will be held before the close of the outdoor season seems problematical. Under the rules of the State Athletic Commission, Rosenberg now has another six months before risking his title again, and should the champion feel inclined to exercise this right, a championship fight would not be held here until the indoor season. Both Rosenberg and Graham appeared unmarked and in fine trim yesterday.

Inability to make the 118-pound bantamweight limit and still retain his full fighting strength was explained by Ray Alvis, manager for Shea, as the reason for the Chicago lad's downfall. Alvis stated that he doubted whether Shea would make any further attempts in the bantamweight division and that henceforth he would confine his activities among the featherweights.

SUGGS TO FIGHT TONIGHT.

Will Meet Murphy at Commonwealth S. C.—Ridgewood Grove Card.

Chick Suggs, a negro bantamweight, and Tommy Murphy of Philadelphia will meet in the main bout of ten rounds at the Commonwealth Sporting Club tonight. In the semi-final ten rounds Cirolin Olano, the Cuban lightweight, will face Charley Manty, while a third ten will bring together Joe Saviola, Harlem welter and Jimmy Kelly of the Bronx.

Five six-round bouts and a four, with Al Rood and Jack De Mave, heavyweights, appearing in the feature event, make up the card for the Ridgewood Grove S. C. show tonight. The opponents in the other six-round bouts will be Walter Olive vs. Johnny Lustig, Sid Goldie vs. Jimmy Hamba, Al Liebowitz vs. Nick De Salvo and Leon Azzi vs. Alfred Porzio.

TAKES LEAD AT THE 13TH

Forges Ahead When Loser Slices Tee Shot—Geoghegan Also Gains the Title Round.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., July 24.—Having stood shoulder to shoulder long enough to repel the invaders from the uplands, the Long Island linksmen began warring among themselves over the spoils in the New York State amateur championship at the Lido links today. It was no mock battle, either, but a give-and-take, ding-dong mêlée among the eight survivors of the first two rounds of the tourney. At the finish there remained standing two youths whose combined ages represents a trifle less than forty years—J. B. Mackie Jr. of Inwood and Stephen Geoghegan of Huntington, one 19 years old and the other 20.

Mackie, who is the son of the Inwood professional and hence a golfer by heredity as well as inclination, defeated Tom Sherman of the home club, 1 up, in the third-round match, and then proceeded to accomplish the weightier task of eliminating the first winner of the State championship, Eddie Driggs of Lakeville, 3 and 1. Geoghegan's victims were Harry Scharff of Lido, whom he defeated by the narrow margin of one hole, and H. G. Edwards of Garden City, the tournament "dark horse," his margin in this match being 4 and 3. Edwards got to the semi-final round by reason of his defeat of Neal Fulkerson of Belleclaire, 3 and 1, while Driggs was beating Walter Richard of Lido by 3 and 2.

Mackie and Geoghegan will clash over the thirty-six-hole route tomorrow, with the odds favoring the former by virtue of his winning the Long Island junior title on Monday last and his generally good showing in the other events in which he has played this season.

Match Hangs in Balance.

The meeting between Mackie and Driggs, bringing together as it did the Long Island junior and amateur champions, was the match of the day at Lido yesterday. It was a match that belonged to anybody as far as the twelfth hole, for the holes won balanced the holes lost. Then, playing to the knoll hole, which is the thirteenth in the Lido layout, Driggs sliced his tee shot into the grass and sand on the right and failed to make the green with his second, taking a 5 for the hole. Mackie, who was on the green with his second shot, got down in two putts and won the hole with a par 4, giving him the honor. His iron shot to the short fourteenth dropped two feet from the flag, giving him a birdie 2, making him 2 up and, although he lost the next, 4 to 5, he won the two that followed and with them the match. At the fifteenth Driggs put a brassie second up to within a yard of the hole, while Mackie not only failed to reach the green with his second shot, but also chipped short.

Only 1 down with three holes left to play, Driggs's cause wasn't by any means a hopeless one, but it was one that was not helped to any extent by his tee shot to the Redan hole. He aimed a trifle too far to the left and his ball dropped into the sand and grass. In attempting to pitch to the pin, he got the ball too cleanly and it ran over the green. It was lying in such a place that he just managed to get it up on the green with his niblick, and after playing four before Mackie had played two he conceded the hole.

Mackie, now dormie, hit two fine wooden shots to the seventeenth. Drigg's second was trapped, and after hitting the top of the bank with his attempted recovery, he pitched to within fifteen feet. Mackie's third was a bad shot that barely escaped a trap on the left of the green. After he had chipped up short, Driggs had the putt for a possible win, but his ball slipped past the hole and he slipped out of the championship.

Driggs Off Poorly.

Driggs got off to a bad start, taking three putts on the first green and being trapped on his second shot to the second. He got back one of the losses by winning the channel hole with a birdie 4, and after halving the cape hole he took the next two running in birdie figures. One up as they turned, he hashed up the tenth badly. He got the lead back at the eleventh, dropping a long putt for a birdie 3. He should at least have halved the punchbowl twelfth, but in attempting to play cautiously pulled his approach into trouble and gave Mackie a win.

The cards:

Out—
Mackie	4	4	3	5	5	5	5	3	4—38
Driggs	5	5	3	4	5	4	4	3	4—37
In—
Mackie	4	4	4	4	2	5	3	5
Driggs	6	3	5	5	3	4	5	6

The golf in the Geoghegan-Edwards match was not particularly inspiring, the two cards showing an overly large number of 5s and 6s. It was give and take for the first nine holes, Geoghegan being 1 up. From there on, however, he dominated the match and they ended it on the fifteenth with a pair of 5s. The putter was the deciding instrument, Edwards having a number of three-putt greens and Geoghegan three one-putt greens.

The cards:

Out—
Geoghegan	4	4	4	6	4	5	7	3	5—42
Edwards	4	5	3	5	5	6	5	4	5—42
In—
Geoghegan	4	3	5	4	4	5
Edwards	5	4	5	5	4	5

The Scharff-Geoghegan match in the morning was a far better one from a scoring standpoint, the Huntington youth registering a 74. Geoghegan slipped away to a three-hole lead with only five holes left to play, but Scharff got two of them back before they teed off to play the sixteenth. Here he should have got his half, but missed a two-fot putt and so in spite of his win at the seventeenth a half at the finishing hole was all that Geoghegan required. Driggs set too fast a pace for Richards to follow, the Long Island champion being 3 up at the turn and having a 72 for the round.

Fulkerson Off Form.

Edwards held the lead all the way against Fulkerson, who in spite of his being one of the finest shotmakers among the younger set, invariably fails to hold his form throughout a tournament. Against Edwards he was far below his true calibre, taking a 40 out. Only a three-putt green by Sherman kept his match with Mackie from being prolonged to extra holes. With the match dormie one in Mackie's favor, Sherman reached the home green in 2, while Mackie was trapped on his second and short of the green on his third. He almost ran down his chip-shot, and when Sherman took three putts from within twenty feet the match went to the youngster.

Sherman played the first hole badly, topping his drive and missing his second, giving Mackie the hole with a 5. Sherman won the next two, holing a fifteen-foot putt for a 3 at the second and taking the third, 4 and 5, when he missed a shot in a bunker. Mackie then won the fourth, 5 to 6, and the fifth, 4 to 6. By winning the ninth, where he drove the green, Mackie was 1 up at the turn. He also won the tenth, but Sherman squared the match at the twelfth. All the holes from there to the seventeenth were halved, Mackie winning that one, 5 to 6, when Sherman topped his tee shot and his second as well.

The cards:

Out—
Mackie	5	4	5	5	4	5	6	3	3—40
Sherman	6	3	4	6	6	5	5	3	4—42
In—
Mackie	4	4	6	5	4	4	3	5	5—40—80
Sherman	5	3	5	5	4	4	3	6	5—40—82

Championship flight, third round: Stephen Geohagen, Huntington, defeated Harry Scharff, Lido, 1 up; H. G. Edwards, Garden City, defeated Neal Fulkerson, Belleclaire, 3 and 1; Jack Mackie Jr., Inwood, defeated Tom Sherman, Lido, 1 up; E. H. Driggs Jr., Lakeville, defeated Walter Richard, Engineers, 3 and 2.

Semi-final round: Geohagen defeated Edwards, 4 and 3; Mackie defeated Driggs, 3 and 1.

Famous Zev to Race No More; Will Go to Rancocas Stud

Zev has run his last race. The brown son of The Finn and Miss Kearney has been given up as hopeless by Sam Hildreth, who shipped him home to the Rancocas Farm in New Jersey this week. Zev has developed a cunning streak, which first showed in his training, when he wouldn't run unless a horse was out in front of him. He was too fast for his stablemates, so relays were used. He soon got wise to that and declined to do what was asked of him. Trainer Hildreth has a lot of patience with his charges, but finally decided Zev's usefulness as a race horse was over and he will go to the stud at the Rancocas Farm.

BARNES AND TROPHY ARE IN U. S. AGAIN

Customs Inspectors Readily Identify British Golf Cup and Pass It Duty Free.

Bringing along with him the historic cup which is emblematic of victory in the British open championship, "Long Jim" Barnes returned home yesterday on the Aquitania.

It was no novel experience for the cup, this trip to America, for it has spent three out of the last four years here; but it was a novel experience for Barnes, representing a long quest that was finally rewarded. By his victory at Prestwick "Long Jim" is the third American to win the British title, Hutchison having been the first and Hagen the other.

When Hutchison came back in 1921, after beating Roger Wethered in the play-off at St. Andrews, the cup presented quite a different problem to custom officials than it did yesterday. Then the problem of admitting it duty-free had to go to Washington for decision. Yesterday the inspectors merely said: "What, that thing here again?" and let it go at that.

Barnes was naturally pleased with his success, but frank to admit that he was lucky to win. "There are so many good golfers nowadays," he said, "that a winner has to have lucky breaks. I had them at Prestwick and I was playing well in the bargain. I am well pleased with my trip and with the treatment I received on the other side."

He may take a trip to the Pacific Coast, accompanied by Jock Hutchison, his partner in 1921, at which time the pair made one of the most successful tours in history. After that he will return to the East and play exhibition matches following the Western open championship at Youngstown, Ohio.

By his victory on the other side Barnes has rounded out a career that is matched by few golfers. In addition to the British championship, he has won the American, the Western, the P. G. A. and the Shawnee, in addition to a host of minor championships.

BANSHEE AND ROWDY ARE DISQUALIFIED

Penalized for Jam Among Forties at Start in Larchmont Race Week Regatta.

2D VICTORY FOR MISTRAL

Has Good Lead for Point Prize—Quiver Beats Fifi by 13 Seconds in R Class.

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., July 24.—Light and streaky sailing breezes and placid seas marked the fifth regatta of the Larchmont Yacht Club's annual race week, in which 140 yachts started on Long Island Sound off this harbor today. Lucky and also skillful was the skipper who could wend his way from one breeze to another, and for this reason positions were constantly changing in most of the classes that crossed the starting line. Off the Long Island shore the breeze held fairly true and strong from the southwest, but on the Westchester side the wind was decidedly temperamental and veered from west to southwest and back to northwest with disconcerting frequency.

In the New York Yacht Club forty-foot class Mistral, owned by W. B. Bell and sailed by George Cutler, one of the progressive young Sound skippers, won her second successive race of the week, coming home with a long lead over Dunbaugh and Hoffmann's Shawara. Mistral led over the entire course of 15½ miles after a big jam at the start, which involved Banshee, Rowdy and Shawara. There was some close work as the forties went over with strong westerly puffs heeling the big sloops over.

Rowdy, Banshee and Shawara were reaching along near the Lee end, sailing on the starboard tack when the signal was made, and Banshee, bearing away for the line, bumped both Shawara and Rowdy, for which she was disqualified. The Maxwell sloop was sailed by Jack Johnson. She scored her second disqualification of the week.

Rowdy Also Disqualified.

Later the Race Committee announced that Rowdy also had been disqualified. Mistral was up to windward, clear of the mix-up, and went out into a lead which she never relinquished. By winning today Mistral has a good lead for the point prize of the series. Mirage, the Larchmont O sloop, owned by J. F. Mahlstedt, was still without a competitor and sailed against the best time of the forties, but was easily beaten by Mistral on corrected time.

Quiver, the R Class sloop, owned by Commodore P. R. Mallory of the American Yacht Club, was the winner in this division after a hard scrap with Harry Maxwell's Fifi, which sailed her best race so far and finished 13 seconds astern of the winner. The start in this class was a fine one, with Secret, sailed by Corny Shields, almost on the line, and Ardette, Manhasset II, Quiver, Fifi, Doress and Chances all close up.

Fifi and Quiver split tacks with the rest of the class soon after the start, standing over toward the Westchester shore, while the others held to the southward, looking for a better breeze. As luck would have it, the wind came stronger out of the westward just at that time, giving Fifi and Quiver a lift and leaving the others more or less flat. These two had the race practically between them thereafter, and as they neared the finish line it was hard to pick a winner until Skipper Maxwell went off a bit to windward in order to run down to the line and thereby lost some valuable seconds.

The race in the first division of the Star class was a particularly interesting one, as the committee had taken the leading ten boats of each division for the previous day and grouped them as one class. These boats were sailed by some of the most skilled skippers of the class, and also among the starters were Maia II, sailed by Miss Lucy Bedford, and Peacock, with Miss Helen Bedford, who was a winner in the second division on Monday, at the helm.

Peacock Falls Back.

There were twenty-one starters and there was considerable of a jam as these speedy sloops swarmed down on the line. Peacock and Themis were pretty well clear and were the first to cross. Peacock's young girl skipper wore a bright green gown, which may have somewhat dazzled the veterans in the big fleet astern.

Peacock was well up during the first round of the 10¾-mile course, but on the second round fell back, while Maia II. was up with the leaders. The winner turned out to be Irex III., skillfully sailed by Ernest Ratsey, with his father, George Ratsey, acting as crew. Lucy Bedford's Maia II. was the second of the class to finish, over two minutes astern.

In the thirty-foot class eleven sloops started and J. H. Ottley Jr.'s Nautilus won her second race of the week after a hard fight in the wandering winds around the course, finishing thirty-nine seconds ahead of H. F. Whitney's Alera, with W. C. Atwater Jr.'s Minx third, twenty-two seconds astern of Alera.

In the S Class, F. T. Bedford's Ruth, representing the Pequot Yacht Club of Southport, Conn., was an easy winner, finishing over three minutes ahead of Pandora, owned by Vice Commodore Harry M. Curtis of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club.

Winalot Easily Wins a Lot In Liverpool Cup Handicap

LIVERPOOL, England, July 24 (AP).—J. Shepard's Winalot won the Liverpool Cup Handicap of £2,000, run here today. Le Mantouan was second and Pharos third. Seven ran. Winalot won by half a length, and three-quarters of a length separated Le Mantouan and Pharos. The betting was Winalot, 5 to 1 against; Le Mantouan, 10 to 1 against, and Pharos, 5 to 4 against. Winalot is by Son-in-Law, out of Gallenza.

ISHAM CUP FAVORITE OUT.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 24.—There were many upsets in the first and second rounds of match play for the Isham Cup at the Ekwanok Country Club today. In the semi-final round this afternoon Sayre McLeod Jr. of New York, who recently won the Vermont State championship, lost to C. R. Leake of South Shore by 2 and 1.

Donald Carr of Siwanoy was the one shining example of the favorites to come through the day. George Brush, the star from Westchester County, lost in the first round along with Ralph D. Rooks of Providence and Phil Wray of the same city.

The summaries:

First Sixteen (First Round)—H. D. Smith, Glenridge, defeated C. C. Degersdorf, Stockbridge, 2 up; Donald Carr, Siwanoy, defeated H. C. Pusey, Springhaven, 4 and 2; J. E. Sisson, Wannamoisett, defeated Jack Sellars, Rockaway River, 2 and 1; C. H. Gardner, Rhode Island C. C., defeated C. V. Rich Jr., Westchester Hills, 7 and 6.

Second Round—Carr defeated Smith, 9 and 7; Erdman defeated McAuliffe, 3 and 1; Leake defeated McLeod, 2 and 1; Sisson defeated Gardner, 2 and 1.

COURAGEOUS BEATS ZUKER BY A HEAD

Favorite Succumbs to Top Weight Burden—Catrone Wins With Rigel at Empire City Track.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Coming with a rush on the inside Harry Payne Whitney's three-year-old colt Courageous, with Johnny Maiben in the saddle, outlasted the Shoshone Stable's High Time gelding, Zuker, to win by a head in the race for the Wedgewood Highweight Handicap at the Empire City course yesterday afternoon. It was a thrilling finish, with T. W. O'Brien's fast-finishing Forecaster only half a length behind. Courageous carried 120 pounds and was the 7-to-2 second choice in a field of ten.

The Oak Ridge Stable's Mino was unable to give twenty pounds and a beating to Courageous. In their last meeting the four-year-old conceded nineteen pounds and beat Courageous by more than six lengths. The Whitney colt, however, had a very rough journey and was coming fast at the end. The two were heavily played yesterday, Mino backed to 11 to 5 at post time, Courageous going from 5 to 1 to 7 to 2.

Mino drew No. 3 post position, while Courageous was on the inner rail. The former broke on top, while the Whitney three-year-old was rather slow getting into action. Johnson held the favorite well in hand behind the pace set by Nose Dive. Maiben stuck to the rail and saved ground throughout the dash. When he came to the turn for home he found an opening and sent Courageous through it, and in the drive to the finish outlasted Zuker.

Zuker was on the outside all the way and at the wire had half a length on Forecaster, which came from the ruck, closing a big gap to take the show money from Mino by a length. The favorite tired at the end under his heavy burden.

Heavy Play on Prattle.

A baker's dozen of maiden two-year-olds ran the five and a half furlongs of the Wildflower Purse, the winner being Edward Arlington's brown filly Prattle, on which there was a heavy play. The filly opened at 30 to 1 and was backed to 12 to 1 at post time. Thompson had the mount and the filly raced down Glimmering in the run down the backstretch, drawing away in the homestretch to win easily by two lengths from the Shoshone Stable's Pincushion.

Pincushion was the 7 to 5 choice. She made a slow beginning and Fairbrother did not give her a very courageous ride in the early stages. She came fast toward the end and gained the place, five lengths separating her from E. W. Price's filly Trapeze. Sundew was left at the post when the barrier was sprung.

W. E. Dunkinson's Rigel, with the apprentice Catrone up, proved the best of six that ran for the Oakfield Purse, a claiming event for three-year-olds and over at a mile and a sixteenth. The winner was the 11-to-10 choice, backed from 7 to 5.

Catrone rode a well-judged race, waiting off the pace set by Rodeo to the far turn, where he went to the fore and came home an easy winner by three lengths over Donnelly, Flagon moving up to take third money.

There was a lot of bad actors in the field of ten that ran in the race at a mile and seventy yards under claiming conditions. That notoriously mean post horse Juno had drawn the inside position at the start, but notice was officially posted that she would be placed on the outside. She was no worse mannered than Sonfluente and Soviet, and after three minutes of manoeuvring the barrier went up on a bad start, in which Juno and Bill Winfrey were left flat.

Irish Pat in Right.

Irish Pat, J. J. Lyons's gelding, likes a fast track and was beaten in his last two starts at the meeting in the mud. This time conditions were to his liking and he was easily the best of the lot. He went to the front at the far turn and galloped home eight lengths in front of Confluente, Brother Bill taking third money.

Post and Paddock

Fields were larger at the Empire City track yesterday than in many a day, although there was more of quantity than quality. The original entry was 76, scratches cutting the actual number of starters to 54, an average of nine to a race.

Johnny Maiben was given a fine hand when he returned to the scales after landing Courageous a winner in the feature. Usually Maiben will go outside the leaders. This time, by sticking to the rail, he was able to win by a narrow margin.

It was the first time the Whitney colors have been carried to victory at the present meeting on the hilltop.

It is possible that Mino has had too much racing of late. He does not carry as much flesh as he did a month ago and he tired under his weight in the Wedgewood.

Timmara, T. W. O'Brien's Westy Hogan two-year-old, was excused by the stewards from running in the last race, as he had developed a temperature.

Confluente was taken out of the third race for $1,500 by George Coburn. Day Trap was taken out of the fifth by J. Rotunno for $2,500. Larry Waterbury lost Devastation out of the same race to D. S. Rouss for $3,000.

Ladkin is top in the Yonkers feature for today with 126 pounds and the handsome son of Fair Play is giving a lot of weight to the other five.

MARGARET DILLON PACES MILE IN 1:59 3-4

Time Is Fastest of the Season to Be Hung Up on the Grand Circuit.

MARE BEATS SINGLE G

Conquers 15-Year-Old Campaigner at Kalamazoo—Murphy Wins Trot With Queen Volo.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 24 (AP).—The fastest mile of the year on the Grand Circuit was reeled off here this afternoon when Margaret Dillon traveled the last heat of the free-for-all pace in 1:59¾ to remain in front of the onrushing Single G., which nearly overtook the Cox mare before the wire was reached. The crowd today was the next to the largest of the week, being second only to the $25,000 Derby Day gathering on Tuesday. A new local attendance record was hung up for the five-day meeting.

The time hung up in this heat also clipped a quarter of a second off the Kalamazoo track record of two minutes flat, made nine years ago in the same event by Single G. at the 1916 meeting.

Margaret Dillon, which had been forced to finish second to Single G. in three other starts on the circuit this year, was able to make the aged campaigner take her dust in straight heats. The first mile was traveled in 2:00¾, while the second was considerably slower, being clocked in 2:02¼.

The Cox mare was at her best, while Single G. did not appear to be up to his usual form. Never once in the three heats did the fifteen-year-old performer take the lead and only in the final heat did he show the brush down to the home stretch that has made him famous when he came from fourth place around the pack and set sail for Margaret Dillon only to lose by a head at the wire.

Tommy Murphy annexed his daily race by taking the 2:20 trot in straight heats with Queen Volo, the favorite. The others in this event fell short in the final dash, although they forced the Eastern mare to show her best speed to win.

Bob Seymour, the Michigan pacer, owned by William Veit of Flint and driven by Lon McDonald, upset the dope in the three-year-old pace by defeating Callie Direct, the favorite.

The 2:18 pace went to Louis Direct, which came home in front in the first and second heats only to finish far back behind Prue Grattan in the final mile.

ROTOGRAVURE SPORTS SECTION

TOMORROW, SUNDAY

S. R. BRADLEY of Princeton ties with his team mate, Bontecou of Cornell, and Hyatt of the Oxford-Cambridge squad for first place in the pole vault in the international meet at Atlantic City.

Staging a comeback with a championship victory, Gene Sarazen defeats Joe Turnesa by a single stroke at Grassy Sprain for the Metropolitan Open title.

The only woman to finish the annual cross-Paris race is Mme. Prevost-Gardelle, who swam the whole distance of twelve kilometers in the Seine current.

George H. Corson, instructor and coach for the Y. M. C. A. National Council of New York City, performs an iron-man swimming feat when he dives from a Toronto wharf with his feet and hands tied to swim two and a half miles across Toronto Bay without unshackling himself.

A champion in pigtails, Miss Phyllis Green, holder of the former women's world record for the high jump, shatters her own mark with a jump of five feet at Stamford Bridge, England.

The czarina of tennis, Suzanne Lenglen, condescends to grace another field of fame by opening up between matches the putting competition at Wembley in aid of a women's hospital.

Clearing the bar at 6 feet 1½ inches, G. T. Van Geyzel of Cambridge wins the high jump in the international track meet between the Cambridge-Oxford and Cornell-Princeton teams at Atlantic City.

ROBERT KINSEY, ILL, CRASHES TO COURT

Is Stricken With Cramps and He and Brother Default to Tilden and Wiener.

JOHNSTON-GRIFFIN SCORE

Put Out Norton and Brown After Losing First Set—Miss Hosmer Gains Final at Skokie.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

GLENCOE, Ill., July 24.—One of the greatest doubles matches ever played at the Skokie Country Club came to a sudden and dramatic ending today. Robert Kinsey's old nemesis of cramps seized him in the fourth set of the semi-final round match in the Illinois State tennis championships between the Kinsey brothers, national champions, and William Tilden and Sandy Wiener, and in the midst of a desperate rally he pitched forward at full length to the ground.

The three other players, ignoring him in the heat of the conflict, continued to play while Kinsey lay stretched out motionless on his back. Then there was a rush of players and officials and the fallen gladiator was picked up and carried off to one side, where a trainer worked on him. A few minutes later it was announced that Tilden and Wiener won the match by default. Kinsey was lifted to his feet and limped off the court while the 4,000 spectators rose to their feet and applauded him, both for his great fight and to express their sympathy. Tilden told officials that he and his partner were practically beaten and the default should go to the Kinseys, but the officials ruled otherwise.

The Kinsey brothers were leading at the time of the mishap at 8—10, 8—6, 6—4, 3—2 and 30—0 on Howard Kinsey's service, and it looked as though they were going to turn the tables on Tilden and Wiener, who had defeated them in the semi-final round of the national clay court championship at St. Louis last week.

Kinsey to Play in East.

Last year, in the final round of the Newport invitation tournament, the same illness happened to Robert Kinsey when he and his brother stood at match point in the fifth set of another strenuous struggle with William Johnston and Clarence Griffin. As on that occasion, Kinsey was rubbing his legs frequently before he was seized with the cramp. Today's struggle was not quite as exhausting, but Kinsey's legs have not been giving him good support since he returned from his tour of Japan and it did not require as much of a strain to bring about his collapse.

Kinsey stated that he would continue to play through the rest of the season, calling attention to the fact that he had not been bothered again last season after his experience at Newport. Only a week later he and his brother won the national championship together. They will play next week in the invitation tournament at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club.

William Johnston and Clarence Griffin, former national champion, gained the other final bracket, defeating Brian Norton and Wray Brown of St. Louis at 1—6, 6—4, 6—1, 6—1. The Californians played raggedly at the start, while Norton was a terror at the net, bringing off the most brilliant shots. The former champions settled down in the second set and once Johnston got his forehanders working all doubt as to the outcome ended. The St. Louis pair was simply crushed by the devastating power of his drives.

The final round of the doubles will be played tomorrow, when the semi-finals of the singles also will be put on, in which Tilden will play Howard Kinsey and Johnston will meet Wray Brown. The singles final will be played on Sunday.

Miss Hosmer Scores.

Miss Charlotte Hosmer of California today earned the right to face Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley in the final of the women's singles championship by defeating Miss Marion Leighton of Chicago, the defending title-holder, in the semi-finals at 8—6, 6—2. Miss Hosmer performed in impressive style in the second set. She had more sting in her shots than did Miss Leighton, got sharper angles on them and her volleying was sharp and decisive. Her work at the net, indeed, would have done justice to Miss Wills, so consistently did she put the ball away overhead and on the volley.

The Kinseys and Tilden and Wiener had been on the court two hours and a half when Robert was seized with cramps. No more evenly contested match has been played here all week. The Kinsey's were not up to their best form, while Tilden played magnificently, standing off the Californians singlehanded most of the time and bringing off amazing shots as his long legs carried him to the distant corners of the court.

Wiener did not have much opportunity to show himself, but when Tilden gave him a chance to get into the play he stood up manfully to the job and delighted the gallery with his volleying and booming forehanders. On one occasion the young Germantown player caught the Kinseys flatfooted with a marvelous recovery, whipping the ball back between them for a placement. At other times he was guilty of trivial errors which made it necessary for Tilden to work all the harder to off-set them.

The summaries:

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Miss Howard Wins Net Title.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 24 (AP).—The West Virginia women's singles tennis championship was won today by Miss Nancy Howard of Hinton, W. Va., who defeated Miss Heloise Beebe of Baltimore, 2—6, 6—3, 7—5.

Miss Ederle Shows More Speed Than Other Channel Swimmers

BOULOGNE, France, July 24 (AP).—Miss Gertrude Ederle, the American girl who is shortly to attempt to swim the English Channel from Cape Gris-nez, France, to the English side, today had a three-hour practice swim outside the Boulogne breakwater and into the Channel. She tried her speed with a tug in attendance and, in the words of experienced Channel men, showed more speed for a short distance than any man or woman who ever has tried to negotiate the waterway separating the British Isles from France. During her swim iss Ederle fought for a full hour against a strong incoming tide and made good headway.

MISS WILLS WINS FINAL WITH EASE

Miss Browne Puts Up Hard Fight on Manchester Court, but Is Beaten by 6-2, 6-1.

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 24 (AP)—Miss Helen Wills of Berkeley, Cal., women's national champion, decisively defeated Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Cal., second ranking player in the United States, in the final of the women's invitation tennis tournament at the Essex County Country Club here today. The scores were 6—2, 6—1.

Miss Wills, closing the second tournament in which she has appeared in the East this season, proved that she is still the queen of the American courts. Her superior pace, steadiness and tactics were too much for her opponent. The champion's force and speed kept her on the offense and she wasted no time in taking the match in straight sets.

Miss Browne kept the ball in play much more than seemed possible in the face of Miss Wills's fierce attack. As a result the match included many remarkably long rallies, which usually ended in victory for the champion.

In a semi-final match in the mixed doubles invitation tournament Miss Elizabeth Ryan of England and N. W. Niles of Longwood defeated Mrs. Marion Jessup of Wilmington, Del., and Karl Pfaffman of Boston 6—8, 6—2, 6—3. Later Miss Browne and Holman defeated Miss Ryan and Niles, 6—2, 6—4.

Miss Wills and Miss Browne won the final of the doubles today, defeating Miss Eleanor Goss of New York and Mrs. Marion Jessup of Wilmington, Del., 6—2, 6—3.

ACKER BEATS BROADHURST.

Wins Tennis Match in Nassau and Suffolk Play, 8-6, 6-4.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., July 24.—George Acker's victory over Frank Broadhurst, one of the seeded players, in straight sets here today, was the feature of the Nassau and Suffolk County tennis championship in progress on the courts of the Hempstead Country Club. Broadhurst led at 5—3 in the first set, and again at 4—1 in the second, but lost the match, 8—6, 6—4. R. T. Townsend, runner-up last year, won his second-round match from C. C. Haynes, 6—1, 6—0.

The summaries:

First Round—W. Wirthwein defeated R. Amodar, 5—7, 6—3, 8—6; S. Fitch defeated W. Pollack, 6—1, 6—2; L. H. Garden defeated E. W. Emmons, 6—1, 6—0; Caspar Nannes defeated M. Berlfein, 6—0, 6—1; J. C. Cameron defeated H. Blotters, 6—1, 6—3; M. P. Baker defeated W. E. Howe, 6—4, 6—2; V. Gress defeated C. E. Lack, 6—1, 6—3; K. Fisher defeated J. Seligson, 7—5, 6—2; E. Schiess defeated W. C. Wells, 6—4, 6—1; J. Garrettson defeated M. Wells, 6—0, 6—1; Frank Broadhurst defeated R. W. Jacobs, 6—2, 6—4; G. Acker defeated H. L. Staunackle, 6—1, 6—1; M. M. Beecher won from F. Baggs, by default; Jerry Minster defeated A. L. Bruneau, 6—4, 6—4; M. Karpf defeated J. W. Docher, 6—1, 6—1; F. W. Austin won from Percy Kynaston, by default; J. M. Hicks defeated J. H. Peck, 2—6, 6—3, 6—1; Ernest Kuhn defeated L. C. Janhoff, 6—1, 6—2; H. Silver defeated E. Mishner, 6—4, 4—6, 6—3; Don Lay defeated E. H. McWhorter, 6—1, 6—0.

Second Round—Gress defeated Robins, 6—3, 6—3; Acker defeated Broadhurst, 8—6, 6—4; Fisher defeated Schiess, 6—3, 7—5; R. T. Townsend defeated C. C. Haynes, 6—1, 6—0.

DR. HAWK SCORES AT NET.

He and Harris Beat Mersereau and Fischer in New Hampshire.

Special to The New York Times.

CRAWFORD NOTCH, N. H., July 24.—Dr. Philip B. Hawk of New York, paired with Fred Harris of Brattleboro in the tennis tourney here, today defeated Jones W. Mersereau of New York and William Fischer, also of New York, 6—3, 6—2, and gained the finals in the doubles. Dr. Hawk played a fast game and when at the net drove his opponents around the court and easily put away their soft returns for placements. Tomorrow the victors will face Malcolm Hill and H. L. Johnson in the final. In the singles today, Johnson defeated Hill, 6—1, 6—2, and Harris defeated Fischer, 6—3, 6—4. The two victors will meet in the final tomorrow.

MRS. GODFREY IS VICTOR.

Brookline Woman Beats Miss Wright in Lake Placid Tennis.

E. Roy Underwood of Summit and M. J. Stokum of New York defeated Edward F. Craig of Toronto and John C. Pope of Cleveland in the men's doubles. Erdman Harris of Sewickley, Pa., defeated Stokum in the men's singles.

HORSE JUDGES ARE NAMED.

Monmouth County Show to Be Held Aug. 20-22.

RED BANK, N. J., July 24 (AP).—The judges for the Monmouth County Horse Show at the Rumson Country Club on Aug. 20, 21 and 22 were announced today. They are: Charles N. Mancher, Wheeling, W. Va.; Alden S. Blodget, New York; J. Watson Webb, Westbury, N. Y.; Major Louis A. Beard, Washington; A. Henry Higginson, South Lincoln, Mass., and Frederick Phillips, Villa Nova, Pa.

The entries provide for the exhibition of all horses of all ages and sizes in the main classes of breeding, saddle, polo, hunters and jumpers.

Shannon's Opponent Cleared.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 24. (AP).—A coroner's jury investigating the death of Mickey Shannon, Chicago boxer, whose neck was broken when he was knocked through the ropes in a bout here Tuesday night, returned a verdict of "unavoidable accident" today. Harry Fay, 21, Shannon's opponent, was exonerated of any blame.

Dr. King, Binzen and Voshell Also Gain Semi-Finals in Met. Grass Court Title Play.

CASEY AND RICHARDS WIN

Conquer Ewing and Stoddard in Doubles—Voshell-Chapin and Shimizu-Harada Victors.

Vincent Richards, Dr. George King, Elliott H. Binzen and S. Howard Voshell won their fifth-round matches yesterday afternoon in the metropolitan grass court championship at the Crescent A. C. and advanced to the semi-finals. The doubles semi-final also was reached by Richards and Ray Casey, Voshell and A. H. Chapin, and Zenzo Shimizu and T. Harada, all of whom joined Kenneth D. Fisher and J. Cecil Donaldson, who had won their bracket earlier.

Harada was taken into camp by Richards in easy fashion, 6—3, 6—0. Dr. King also had a comparatively easy time with Herbert L. Bowman, whom he defeated 6—4, 6—2. The other two semi-finalists, however, only won their brackets by the hardest kind of fighting. Binzen, with the aid of his famous service and good driving put out Cedric Major in a three-set battle in which he lost the first set, 4—6, 6—4, 6—1. Voshell had the hardest tussle, however, with Donaldson, whom he finally overcame at 6—3, 6—8, 6—4.

In gaining their places in the doubles semi-final Richards and Casey and Voshell and Chapin had only to win one match each. The former defeated H. D. Ewing and A. Stoddard, 6—2, 6—2, and the latter won from Broadhurst and Fitch, 6—3, 6—[illegible]. The Japanese pair, however, played through two rounds to win places beside the other three combinations. Shimizu and Harada first took the measure of Oakley and French at 4—6, 6—0, 6—4 and then went on to beat Roberts and Damrau, 6—3, 6—0.

King Faces Richards Today.

Today's card will be a brilliant one and will start early. At 2:30 P. M. King and Richards and Binzen and Voshell will clash in the singles. An hour later the first doubles semi-final will bring together Fisher and Donaldson against Shimizu and Harada. At 5 P. M. the other doubles semi-final will find the first and second seeded teams facing each other when Richards and Casey meet Voshell and Chapin. More remains, however, for the Australian Davis Cup stars, Gerald Patterson and J. O. Anderson, will pay a doubles match against Dr. George King and their compatriot, J. B. Hawkes. Many look forward to this exhibition as an index to the Antipodeans' form in the coming Davis Cup matches.

The defeat of Harada was, of course, expected, but not in the easy fashion in which Richards accomplished it. In Florida last Winter the Japanese conquered the second ranking player and was expected to give him a fight yesterday, particularly as he advanced to the fifth round by some very impressive tennis. Yesterday, however it was hardly necessary for Richards ever to call his volleying into play. He stayed mostly at the base line and drove deep and hard and waited for Harada to make the errors.

Binzen Scores on Service.

Binzen and Voshell supplied the fireworks. The former, after losing the first set, made his service tell and began to get his ground strokes within the lines with the result that Major lost the second set and then wilted entirely when Binzen increased the pressure in the final chapter. Voshell, likewise, needed to raise his calibre of play when Donaldson took the second set of their match. The Kew Gardens player was equal to the demand, however, and had enough left to turn back Donaldson's strong bid for the deciding set. King's victory over Bowman was simply that of a player with more speed and more diversified play over another who could only try his hardest without being quite good enough.

The summaries:

Singles—Fifth Round—Elliott H. Binzen defeated Cedric Major, 4—6, 6—4, 6—1; Vincent Richards defeated T. Harada, 6—3, 6—0; Dr. George King defeated Herbert L. Bowman, 6—4, 6—2; S. Howard Voshell defeated J. Cecil Donaldson, 6—3, 6—8, 6—4.

Doubles—Third Round—Ewing and Stoddard defeated Rosenbaum and Cragin, 6—4, 6—4; Shimizu and Harada defeated Oakley and French, 4—6, 6—0, 6—4; Ferguson and Garrettson defeated Harvett and Macksoud, 6—2, 6—2.

Fourth Round—Richards and Casey defeated Ewing and Stoddard, 6—2, 6—2; Voshell and Chapin defeated Broadhurst and Fitch, 6—3, 6—3; Shimizu and Harada defeated Roberts and Damrau, 6—3, 6—0.

TROT RECORD FALLS IN BAY STATE MEET

Commodore Wilson Sets Track Mark of 2:08¼ for Mile at Franklin Park.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENFIELD, Mass., July 24.—The Bay State Circuit for 1925 passed into history with another excellent five-race program at Franklin Park here this afternoon. The track record for trotters was broken twice during the afternoon, finally being set at 2:08¼ by Commodore Wilson in the second heat of the 2:09 trot which was won by Oscawanna.

Billy Fleming won his second race of the meeting when he piloted Guesswork to a victory over a strong field in the 2:09 pace.

Billy D., with Charley Mosher up, had too much pace for the 2:15 pacers. A field of nine started in this class, the fourth $2,000 stake of the two-day meeting.

Peter Buskirk and Escotilla renewed their rivalry of three weeks' standing in the 2:12 trot, the decision going to Peter Buskirk. Grace Direct took the measure of the Boston-owned Colonel Bidwell in straight heats. It was their third meeting this season.

Descamps to Bring 3 Boxers From Europe to Fight Here

PARIS, July 24 (AP).—Francois Descamps, Georges Carpentier's manager, announced today his intention of taking a trio of European prizefighters to the United States within about a month. The three are Paolino Uzcudun, the Spanish heavyweight; Bert Molina, French middleweight, and Paul Fritsch, French lightweight.

Carpentier is expected to come to the United States later to meet Young Stribling. If Uzcudun is successful in the United States he may proceed to Buenos Aires and challenge Firpo in the latter's home town.

W. S. A. PICKS TEAM FOR TITLE MEET

Misses McGary and Riggin in Squad of 14 Who Will Swim in Detroit Next Month.

The Sports Committee of the Women's Swimming Association yesterday selected its candidates for the National A. A. U. outdoor aquatic championships, and fourteen young mermaids will wear the colors of the organization in the annual classics to be decided in Detroit on Aug. 6, 7, 8 and 9. Those who will represent the local association in the title tests are the Misses Ethel McGary, Aileen Riggin, Helen Meany, Karin Nilsson, Agnes Geraghty, Virginia Whitenack, Doris O'Mara, Ethel Hertle, Adelaide Lambert, Matilda Schuerich, Kathryn Brown, Eileen O'Mara, Frances Meany and Lisa Lindstrom.

The Women's S. A. is particularly anxious to retain the national team title it has held consistently since its formation in 1917, and the large contingent will enable it to enter three contenders for each of the individual championships and three teams for the 880-yard relay fixture. Most of the team members will leave the city tonight, accompanied by Miss Charlotte Epstein, Chairman of the Sports Committee, as they are slated for three water carnivals on the way to Detroit. They will engage in competition at Dansville, N. Y., tomorrow, Buffalo on Tuesday and Youngstown, Ohio, the following Saturday and Sunday, reaching Detroit on Aug. 4.

Others of the team will leave later with Mrs. Margaret Johnson, President of the association. The mermaids are not expected to return to New York until Aug. 18, as they will attend a three-day carnival in Indianapolis from Aug. 13 to 15, at which Frances Meany and Lisa Lindstrom, the 13-year-old stars of the squad, will go after laurels in the women's junior national half-mile free-style championship.

Oxford-Cambridge Stars Score Heavily in Singles Against Rockaway Club.

NEED TWO MORE VICTORIES

Visitors Will Carry Prince of Wales Cup Home if They Take Two of the Doubles Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CEDARHURST, L. I., July 24.—The Prince of Wales Cup is very near to a journey back to the tight little isle. Playing in six singles matches here today, the Oxford-Cambridge collegians defeated a picked team from the Rockaway Hunting Club before a large gallery, 5 matches to 1, and need only two victories tomorrow in the six doubles to insure their possession of the challenge trophy which the Prince permitted to be named for him at the time of his visit last year.

Two of the matches today went to three sets, three others went to deuce games and only one ended in easy fashion. The struggle between E. M. Jonklaas and Robert Gilmore started when the sun was high and was still going when twilight was creeping over the courts. Jonklaas won, 6—4, 9—11, 8—6. The Englishman's victory was particularly fine, for after losing the second set he was behind in the third at 4 to 5 and again at 5 to 6, but managed to pull out the set and the match.

Another match in which the desire to win the Prince of Wales Cup encouraged a Britisher to come from behind to win was that between the first ranking players, H. K. Lester and Malcolm D. Whitman, which the former won, 6—2, 7—5. Despite Lester's fine work in the opening set, Malcolm set sail for victory in the second and led at 5 games to 2. He seemed to be stronger than the Englishman, but could not meet the rally that Lester staged and which won five games in a row for him and the set and the match. The loser was U. S. National Champion from 1898 to 1900 and was a member of the first ten in 1896, '97 and 1902.

The Rockaway victory was scored by Fred Gwynne at the expense of J. H. Van Alen, 4—6, 6—0, 6—4. Here it was the turn of an American to come from behind, which he did with a rush. After dropping the first set Gwynne sped through six straight games, smothering Van Alen to win the second. The deciding set was bitterly fought and a single break-through service decided the issue in the tenth game.

Captain J. J. Lezard of the Oxford-Cambridge team scored the only victory which did not go to extra games or extra sets. He is the only member of the British team which played at the Rockaway Hunting Club two years ago. He defeated H. McCarthy, 6—2, 6—2, who is the only member of the Rockaway team who has faced the visitors previously. Four years ago McCarthy played for Oxford and Cambridge, but it did not affect his efforts yesterday to take the measure of Lezard. The captain of the Rockaway team, Harry S. Parker, went down to defeat before J. P. Carleton, 6—2, 7—5, and Jack Bierworth was beaten by Dr. J. R. Summer, 6—1, 7—5.

The summaries:

H. K. Lester, Oxford-Cambridge, defeated Malcolm B. Whitman, Rockaway Hunting Club, 6—2, 7—5; J. P. Carleton, Oxford-Cambridge, defeated Harry S. Parker, Rockaway Hunting Club, 7—5, 6—3; E. M. Jonklaas, Oxford-Cambridge, defeated Robert Gilmore, Rockaway Hunting Club, 6—4, 9—11, 8—6; J. R. Summer, Oxford-Cambridge, defeated Jack Bierwirth, Rockaway Hunting Club, 6—1, 7—5; J. J. Lezard, Oxford-Cambridge, defeated H. McCarthy, Rockaway Hunting Club, 6—2, 6—2; Fred Gwynne, Rockaway Hunting Club, defeated J. H. Van Alen, Oxford-Cambridge, 4—6, 6—0, 6—4.

TILDEN MAY REFUSE TO ATTEND MEETING

Champion Says 'I Might and I Might Not' Appear Before Tennis Body if Called.

Special to The New York Times.

GLENCOE, Ill., July 24.—William Tilden, national tennis champion, probably will be called before officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association within the next two weeks for a conference on his practice of granting interviews on tournaments in which he is competing, according to a report received here today from a reliable source.

Questioned today at the Skokie Country Club, where he is defending his Illinois State title, as to whether he had received any request from the U. S. L. T. A. to appear before that body, Tilden stated that he had not. As to whether he will appear before it in the event that he is required to do so the champion stated, "If I happen to be in New York at the time, I may attend the meeting and I may not. I certainly won't leave any tournament to do so.

"Right now I am thinking of our doubles match tomorrow with Johnston and Griffin." The champion declared in emphatic terms that he has not violated the new amateur rule in giving the interviews.

POLICE TRACK TEAM NAMED.

McGrath and McDonald to Lead Squad of 12 at Toronto.

A team of twelve athletes representing the New York Police Department has been selected to compete in the police games in Toronto next Wednesday afternoon, it was announced yesterday at Police Headquarters. The squad, which leaves the city on Monday night, will be headed by Lieutenant Matt McGrath and Sergeant Pat McDonald, winners of many Olympic and national titles in the weight-throwing events, and Lieutent Jay McDonald, who has supervised athletics in the department for a number of years. Inspector General Charles H. McKinney will be in charge of the delegation.

ENGLAND'S "SICK INDUSTRY."

The Bishop of Durham, who has often shown himself friendly to the coal miners and has done all he could to help make their organizations sensible as well as strong, threw up his hands despairingly a few days ago and said: "We can no longer count upon good-"will or good faith in the diplomacy "of labor." He must now feel like renewing or extending that sorrowful complaint. Breaking off negotiations with the mine owners, the Miners' Federation has ordered a strike on July 31. The use of the word "strike" is avoided. The men are simply instructed to cease work. If they were avowedly to strike, they would automatically put themselves out of the scheme of unemployment relief. But the effect is the same whatever the process is called. England is faced with serious trouble in a vital industry.

At the same time, it is a sick industry. Production has been falling off. The export of British coal is down by 25 per cent. Germany is capturing Continental markets which the British used to supply. It appears that the German coal miners are willing to work longer hours and for less pay than the British. The latter stick for the seven-hour day, and will not consent to the slightest reduction in their wages, though the owners declare some such concession to be necessary if the industry is to be carried on. Yet the employers were willing to discuss with the men what could be done. The Miners' Federation, however, refused even to confer with the owners. Fortunately, this does not mean that there will not be some kind of mediation. The case has been put in the hands of the General Council of the Trades Union Congress, for the labor side, while the Government is anxiously doing everything it can to bring about an adjustment.

Prime Minister BALDWIN has more than once been successful as a "harmonizer," but this particular controversy will test his skill and resources as none before has done. The miners maintain at present an absolutely unyielding front. They do not propose to surrender a single advantage which they have gained in the past through their labor organizations. This is perfectly natural and understandable, but is it wise even from the selfish point of view to persist in demands which, if granted, would mean the further decay of the whole coal industry of England? The figures of cost-production for English coal seem to demonstrate that something must be done to lower the selling price, or British coal will be driven out of the market. It is not wholly a question of high wages and short hours. Many mines are approaching exhaustion, and in others the overhead costs are necessarily higher every year owing to the added difficulty of getting coal from veins deeper under the surface. The spokesmen for the miners admit the fact, yet declare that they will not budge. They put it up to the employers to make the needed concessions.

The remedy which the miners propose has been set forth by the Secretary of their Federation, Mr. A. J. COOK. He is the rapid-fire economist on the labor side. His cure-all is stated in the following language: "The industry could be reorganized "from within, and royalties and mid-"dlemen abolished." By royalties he means the sums paid to the owners of the coal lands. The total is estimated at about $30,000,000 a year. Is this sum to be abolished by confiscation or by the Government buying out the owners? In the latter case the consumer of coal would have to pay the present high price, with an added tax to meet the new burden on the Treasury. It is a proposal which will hardly be relished by English taxpayers. And apparently the only way to get rid of the middlemen who now do the indispensable work of distributing coal would be to have the Government undertake it. This would mean still more expensive and wasteful bureaucrats. By the reorganization of the coal industry from within Mr. COOK seems to intend the creation of a sort of 'Coal Trust,' formed of the larger and stronger companies, which would drive the weaker collieries out of business. This would be a queer way of furnishing employment. Probably Mr. COOK's idea is that this plan would be assented to temporarily by the radicals among the miners merely as a first step toward the nationalization of all the coal mines.

There is still a week within which to seek an agreement. Already the Miners' Federation must have seen that a strike, on the ground stated, would utterly fail to get public support, for it has receded from its first extreme position. A compromise may be patched up in order to avert the immediate crisis, but British coal mining will remain a sick industry until some kind of thoroughgoing measures are adopted to restore it to health.

COLONEL GALLAGHER'S RETIREMENT.

Only those who have seen Colonel HUGH J. GALLAGHER at work in an emergency can understand what Major Gen. HART, Quartermaster General, means what he says in a letter to the Colonel from Washington: "I wish the story of your army service could be flashed before every "officer starting upon his career." Colonel GALLAGHER retires from the army today. He graduated from West Point in the class of 1884, two years before PERSHING left the Academy to enter the army. The amount of work that Colonel GALLAGHER has dispatched, generally at high pressure, in the Commissary and the Quartermaster's departments is almost beyond belief. He was a great favorite of Colonel (afterward Major General) JOHN F. WESTON, the commissary of the Santiago campaign. Any man that WESTON esteemed had to be a willing worker. GALLAGHER was a strongly built and handsome officer, of unbounded energy and great endurance. His cheerful disposition attracted everybody, and men were astonished at the amount of work the smiling GALLAGHER could get out of them.

When anything strenuous had to be done in a hurry, with the odds against full accomplishment, he was called in. In collecting supplies for the victims of the Martinique disaster and getting them through he made a reputation which he had to live up to. In the Boxer rebellion in China he again distinguished himself. Probably he never worked harder and with greater success than when he equipped and supplied division camps in the World War. He was sent to Siberia to serve as chief quartermaster with the troops of General GRAVES. The hardest and most exacting jobs fell to him. With the disciplined obedience of a soldier he never murmured. At the American Army supply base in Brooklyn he ended his long and honorable service. For the Martinique achievement Colonel GALLAGHER was decorated by the French Government. His merits were also recognized by the Japanese and Czechoslovak Governments. He was one of the officers selected from the entire army to compose the first General Staff of the United States.

There is no better known and more valued officer in the service which he leaves today, still in the prime of life and fit as ever for duty, than HUGH J. GALLAGHER. If he has not risen to the highest grade in the Quartermaster's Department, it was not for want of merit and industry. Such officers should not be allowed to retire without words of commendation. It is not a compliment but the simple truth when his superior, General HART, says of him:

> You have considered duty first and individual preferment second. Your loyalty has been such that nothing could stand between you and those you served.

FAITH AND WORKS.

President GARFIELD, in his opening address at the Williamstown Institute of Politics, likened the Western nations to SAMSON as being "blind and in prison" and in need of a renewal of spirit that their forces may once more flow strong and unimpeded. But SAMSON used his recovered strength to pull down the whole house upon the Philistines and himself as well. That is probably what would happen if another world war should come. So far it is only as if the gates of Gaza had been carried off, or as if foxes with firebrands tied to their tails had been sent through the wheat fields of the world, or as if a giant with the jawbone of an ass had gone cutting a swath of destruction half way round the globe. If regained strength is used vengefully again, the fate of SAMSON may well be a portent of the fate of Western nations, unless, as President GARFIELD suggests, Western civilization is enlightened. It needs a new revelation of "those impelling "forces which drove GOD's creatures "up out of the sea upon the land, "out of the trees into the fields, out "of mere tribe strength into intel-"lectual power." Evolution has not yet done its perfect work. The giant whose strength could wreck the world may find a way to live peaceably even in the midst of Philistines.

The way will be found only through understanding one another, and that is the chief object of the Institute. Such self-informing assemblies are, however, "precedent to the official parliament of nations." They are places of conference which attempt to frame no programs, which adopt no resolutions, but which do let in the light. Centres of international enlightenment are being established not only in this country but in other lands, and give promise through the coming together of East and West that, as Dr. GARFIELD dares to hope, they "may save the world." But something more than these is essential. There must be works with the faith that comes with enlightenment.

Former Attorney General WICKERSHAM, speaking last night at a conference on international relations in Chautauqua, goes a step beyond. There must be not only this popular will to peace. It must express itself through a "mechanism of peace," and that can be constructed and put into operation only when men responsible for government really desire to commit their countries to the maintenance of peace. Indeed, when that desire is dominant, the mechanism will be found. And in his judgment the mechanism is already at hand to our use. "The League of Nations is "the most practicable piece of ma-"chinery ever created to rid the "world of war." Next to that is the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Yet with all the sentiment in favor of settling international difficulties through some mechanism of peace, instead of the mechanism of war, whose destructive efficiency is being constantly increased, we hesitate to make use of that which is ready at hand—in fact, mainly of our own devising. If ever a blind, vengeful spirit with augmented strength lays hand on the structure of Western civilization again, it will be to our lasting condemnation that we have not done our full part to prevent such a world disaster by joining with other nations in outlawing war. It will be more tolerable for some provincial uninformed Tyre and Sidon in that day of judgment than for us, who have today world-wide relations and international responsibilities beyond those of any other people.

POLITICAL ROMANTICS AND A REALIST.

We love to see the wave of Romance dash against CALVIN COOLIDGE and "retire, shattered into sibilant foam." Representative and National Committeeman TAYLOR of Tennessee, who wants to know who is going to be appointed Federal Judge for the Western District of his State, bubbles and froths entrancingly. If Mr. COOLIDGE wants Tennessee in 1928, Tennessee is his. Was Alnaschar a Yankee? This is exactly the sort of talk that one of the most prudent of men and statesmen must "deprecate." Sufficient unto the day is the good thereof. Why make trouble, and put out of joint the noses of aspirants too numerous to mention? But much must be forgiven to Summer and the North Shore. Once more we are treated to a picture of "Republican leaders" imploring Mr. COOLIDGE to tie himself up to the coattails of Republican candidates for Congress in 1926. Once more "Support COOLIDGE" is to be the Republican platform in the Congress elections. Naturally candidates for Congress will have to support the Republican Administration on the stump, whether they have supported it in Congress or not.

They didn't do it in the Sixty-eighth Congress. He pulled them through in the elections for the Sixty-ninth. He is under no obligation to them. His triumph was individual and personal. If his strongest help was his policy of economy and reduced and scientifically revised taxation, both the Republicans and the Democrats in Congress had botched and in large measure defeated it. It was a Democratic fully as much as a Republican plan. The more intelligent Democrats in the present Congress are now supporting it. It is more than likely that Mr. COOLIDGE will need Democratic aid in the Senate. If the Democrats are sensible, there need be no partisan division, no more credit to one side than to the other. As a matter of fact, there is Republican division on the subject. Moreover, Congress elections often turn on local or regional issues. Mr. COOLIDGE now has a great surplus and undivided profits of popularity. He is not the man to waste them by a rash distribution.

Some reaction in the elections for the next House will be natural and according to precedent. It happens that in the Senate elections the Democrats have seemingly better chances than their opponents. Of the effects of special or general interference by the Executive in Congress elections the country's memory is still recent. Mr. COOLIDGE can't help Republican candidates from yearning for him and singing his praises, but his temperament is not precisely emotional. Presumably he will dissociate himself as far as possible from any responsibility for what would be in any case a doubtful and might prove a disastrous adventure. Rosy Romanticists, don't hope too much! If you run as JEHU drove, or like "cold molasses"—as we say in Vermont—don't try to put the glory or the blame on Mr. COOLIDGE. Some of you have been doubtful or heretical Calvinists, anyway. Even for Senator BUTLER Mr. COOLIDGE cannot speak a word. It wouldn't do. The whole host of Republican candidates would apply to him for a character.

The President's feeling for the man whom Mr. WALSH hopes to beat is known to be—well, say "a leetle more than neighborly." "I will give you my prayers," in the words of the "near" New Englander asked to subscribe; but of public official "endorsement," not a word. And yet many Bay State Republicans are thought to be still wroth against the chief of the BUTLERS.

PRESTIGE VS. PEACE IN MOROCCO.

Not even those who a year ago were loudest in denouncing "French militarism" will question the sincerity of M. PAINLEVE's desire to end the Moroccan war as quickly as possible. France went into it reluctantly, with nothing to gain. Her object was then, as it is now, to maintain her prestige. At the same time she hoped to end for all time the guerrilla warfare which the Riffians have for so long been conducting against Europeans. She had no special quarrel with the natives, nor did they feel unduly oppressed by the French administration in the protectorate. History has shown that just as the French make poor colonists they make good colonial administrators, being ready enough to adapt themselves to local conditions and to respect the traditions and prejudices of subject peoples. They have never adopted the British caste system, relying rather on fair play and reason than on the outward signs of empire to maintain their sway. Prestige, however, rests on success, and so is always greatly endangered by military reverses. This is particularly true when the ruling power has long been accepted as one of the greatest forces in the world. It is incumbent upon the French to maintain their military supremacy.

M. PAINLEVE knows well that the French budget cannot stand a great increase in war expenditures. Furthermore, he is anxious not to arouse resentment among the native tribes in North Africa with whom France has until recently been on the best of terms. If ABD-EL-KRIM, therefore, shows any disposition to accept peace on reasonable terms before he is forced to do so by an overwhelming defeat, there is little doubt that he can have it. About the main features of autonomy and local self-government there seems to be little question. The French are willing to give the Riffians all but complete independence. Even the military forces to be at the disposition of the Emir will apparently be large enough for all internal police purposes. As to boundaries, there are more divergent views. The rights of Spain are involved in this settlement, which means that Spain's prestige is also at stake. For so many years the Spaniards have been fighting the native tribes unsuccessfully that they will probably be unwilling to make concessions having the outward appearance of a permanent admission of defeat.

The French Premier has compelling reasons of internal politics to incline him toward any peace which leaves France's prestige intact. The Moroccan war is not popular in France. The people are sick of all wars. Some of the political groups are ready to make capital out of any mishap which may befall the troops in the field. Furthermore, if more credits have to be voted, as seems not unlikely should the present large-scale offensive last long, it will give fresh opportunities for PAINLEVE's enemies to work against him. Conversely, a successful peace would enhance his reputation and prolong his tenure of office. Unfortunately, his negotiations with the Spaniards have not yet been satisfactorily completed, and until this is done the larger problem of a permanent settlement of the North African disputes will be difficult. Spain is none too ready to cooperate with France. The Spaniards remember well how, in their own hours of trial with the Riffians, France gave Spain the cold shoulder. But a crushing defeat of ABD-EL-KRIM's forces would clear the diplomatic atmosphere. Yet victory is difficult in a guerrilla war carried on in a country where local tribesmen are openly or secretly in sympathy with the enemy.

A HARD-BOILED HAMLET.

Undoubtedly Sir BARRY JACKSON is serious in his project of presenting Hamlet in a boiled shirt, whether or not he slips Ophelia into multi-colored Oxford bags and a cross-word jumper. His Birmingham Repertory Theatre is nothing if not Jove-fronted and pale with the cast of thought. An esthetic principle is involved as portentous as the theory of relativity—which, in a way, it resembles. RICHARD BURBAGE played the part in doublet and hose and actors down to GARRICK, whose Hamlet was periwig-pated, wore contemporary clothes. Even so the great Italian painters put the Holy Family into gorgeous Renaissance trappings. Historic costume is far asunder from the art of the theatre. As Sir BARRY rightly says, the thing is to make Hamlet "real to the average citizen."

Of course it can be only relatively real, even if Sir BARRY's Hamlet adds an opera hat and a cigar to his opening suit. Both play and part have that within which passeth show. There is the matter of bloody revenge upon King Claudius. SHAKESPEARE took it over from the grisly, ferocious melodrama of THOMAS KYD, who was himself inspired by SENECA. It is Mediterranean, not Nordic. Even the Elizabethan rabble came to jeer at "ye "visard of ye Ghost that cried in ye "Theaytor, so miserally, like an "Oisterwife, 'Hamlet, revenge!'" SHAKESPEARE was shackled to the old plot on which he worked, but he did his best in incidental scenes to make Hamlet an English gentleman and prince. He would doubtless have had full sympathy for the kind-hearted Irish actor who could not bring himself to the ferocity of saying but insisted on speaking lightly, colloquially, as if to his alter ego:

> Now might I do it, Pat! Now he is praying.

But even this helpful emendation cannot alter Hamlet's diabolic purpose of saving his revenge until it shall compass not only the king's body but his soul. In that final scene where Claudius dies, > grossly full of bread,

> With all his crimes broad blown, as flush as May;

where Queen Gertrude dies even more grossly, writhing from the denatured alcoholic beverage in her midst; where Laertes is slain with his own poisoned rapier, and Hamlet improves the occasion by uttering the most beautiful and touching sentiments of self-communion as he also dies—in this scene, one suspects, even Mr. EINSTEIN would be at a loss to discover the relativity of a modern English gentleman in a boiled shirt. Unless, indeed, the purpose were to make Hamlet himself appear hard boiled.

There is also that matter of blank verse. The average citizen finds iambic pentameters especially unreal. Here modern costume offers a considerable advantage. The offending rhythms might be broken up after this manner:

> To be or not to be (sits in a Savonarola chair and eases his trousers over the knees to keep them from bagging), that is the question. Whether 'tis nobler in the mind (snaps out his opera hat and balances it thoughtfully over one eye) to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune (taps off the ashes of his cigar) or to take arms against a sea of troubles (screws his monocle into his eye as if to envisage more clearly a sword combat with the billows).

Under thoroughgoing treatment of this kind the lines might become virtually unobjectionable to the average citizen. Is it possible that we are on the verge of a new epoch in the theatre—that, thanks to Sir BARRY and Birmingham, this play of "Hamlet" is at last to become a popular success? Relatively so, perhaps, in the relation of BARRY to BARRYMORE.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Now All Hope Seems to Be Lost.

The blow has fallen at last on commuters in the eastern half of Westchester County, and hereafter their monthly tickets are going to cost 40 per cent. more. There still are courts, of course, but there are seemingly no arguments to put before them which were not laid before the State Public Service Commission and the Federal Interstate Commerce Commission. Both of those slow-moving bodies have conceded the right of the New Haven road to get from its commuters what it has claimed the transportation of the commuters costs and then a reasonable profit on the company's investment.

Premises admitted, this conclusion is sound, for there is no theory on which the commuters should get something for nothing or even for less than it is worth. It is very hard for them to see, however, that they have not been paying their way, and they suspect that there is something wrong, or at any rate something a bit too adroit, in the railway bookkeeping. But they admit that they will have to find the larger sums to be demanded of them every month, and not a few members of the tribe wince visibly as they think of this increment to the already high cost of suburban life.

Three or four dollars are not much as a single item, but multiplied by twelve they make a lot for a good many people, and decidedly less than a majority of the commuters are millionaires. So they will feel it when the ticket-buying morning comes around, and, instead of getting a little something back from a ten-dollar bill, they have to put two or three one-dollar bills with it to close the transaction.

Some of them will move away, others will turn to the inconvenient Boston & Westchester line, and those people who were thinking of moving into the county will think again and not do it. The company, however, long has said that, so far as it was concerned, the commuters were a nuisance and that it would like to get rid of them all. Perhaps that is true and perhaps it isn't, but if ever that road wholly for the commuters is built—the road that will take them way to the Battery without change—then all the main lines will have their wish and not see a commuter from one year's end to another.

England Is Studying Our Experiment.

In a sincere effort to find out just what prohibition has accomplished in the United States, The London Morning Post has been printing a series of articles in which E. J. RICHARDSON of the World League Against Alcoholism has presented a seemingly well-informed view of the situation here. On alternate days Lord SALVESEN, Chairman of the Scottish Public House Reform League, which is against the introduction of prohibition in Great Britain, has done what he could for the other side. Whether his lordship's efforts accomplished much or little is a question on which opinion over there naturally differs widely, but the general impression to be gathered from the press comments is that Mr. RICHARDSON had the better of the argument.

He really seemed to prove from the big employers of labor in the United States, and by the testimony of union leaders, that prohibition had raised the efficiency of workers to a notable degree and that it had increased as notably the economic condition of the working class, as shown by their rapidly growing accounts in the savings banks and by their improved living conditions.

That, it will be remembered, is about what Judge GARY of the United States Steel Corporation said not long ago in an interview printed in THE TIMES. As he put it, "prohibition has created a new world in the steel business; it is favored by nine-tenths of the men and by ten-tenths of their wives and children."

A correspondent of The London Observer emphasizes as one of the most important results of prohibition here the present freedom of our politics from saloon or liquor influence and control. That the bootleggers are quite without power in some of our lower political circles could not be denied safely, but it is a petty power compared with that which the saloonkeepers of old exercised in practically every State.

And nobody questions that the saloon is gone forever from the United States, and nobody ventures to defend it or to demand its return. The outstanding fact, according to the writer in The Observer, is that "a great nation has made a great moral decision, and is carrying out one of the boldest and greatest experiments in social history." That is hardly fair to Mahomet, who made the same experiment long ago and with a considerably closer approach to success than we as yet have attained.

He Exercises a Power That's Dubious.

Mayor GWALTNEY of Cincinnati has lighted on a promising means of enforcing on the minds of automobilists that it would be well for them to obey the traffic regulations. Four offenders who were brought before him under some peculiar local law were first fined $10 and costs, then were deprived of their licenses for fifteen days, and as culmination of punishment the Mayor told an official there called a marshal to put the cars of these sinners in their own garages, lock them and carry away the keys—of the cars, not of the garages—and not return them until the fifteen days were over.

That any magistrate has the power to inflict a penalty which, whether technically cruel or not, certainly is unusual seems a little doubtful, but what's the use of saying that a Mayor cannot do any such thing when one of them has done it? Legal or not, it appeals to the sense of justice, and would be the real punishment which fines, and even imprisonment, frequently are not.

To have a car that cannot be used is a painful experience for those who cannot be happy out of one. And the convicted motorist will not be too insistent on the technical legality of a punishment, especially when it is the alternative for a heavier punishment. There was a like case in a near-by suburb, not long ago, when a Police Judge invented as penalty for reckless driving the choice between going to jail and refraining from driving or riding in any car for a year. And he instructed the local police to arrest on sight any such person who forgot the order, either as driver or passenger, and bring him into court to have the suspended legal sentence carried out. That worked admirably while it lasted.

An Alternative Easily Found.

Surely it will not be necessary to kill the London pigeons merely because they drink the water in the vases around the War Memorial in front of the Royal Exchange and disturb the flowers placed in the vases by the young women employed in the Bank of England. To avoid even an excuse for such a cruel deed, it only would be necessary to provide other drinking places for the birds, for then they would let the flowers alone.

That would be an inexpensive device and a laudable one as well, and the kindly young women in the bank doubtless would see to it that the fountain was filled as well as the vases.

Denies Incident at Kissingen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of May 23 last appeared a dispatch from Paris to The Chicago Tribune asserting that Mr. Reginald Vanderbilt, while stopping at Kissingen, had met with some unpleasantness, due to an outburst caused by Mr. Vanderbilt having requested the bandmaster of his hotel to play "The Star-Spangled Banner."

We have very carefully investigated this matter and have ascertained that the report had no foundation. Our inquiries have established the fact that Mr. Vanderbilt never requested the playing of the American national anthem, nor was there any disturbance of the kind indicated. As a matter of fact, "The Star-Spangled Banner" is often played and always well received in many German resorts visited by Americans.

We trust that THE TIMES will publish these lines to correct this misunderstanding.

Suggestion for Philanthropists.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I suggest to Mr. Leopold Schepp, who is desirous of distributing large sums of money in aid of his needy fellow-men, that there is probably nothing more pitiable than the plight of the man who is willing to work but cannot get any; and there is probably no greater philanthropy than providing some means of making an honest livelihood for such individuals—at least until such time as they can get something to do in their regular vocations.

I would like to suggest to Mr. Schepp, and to other philanthropically inclined millionaires, that they work out some plan for providing against the hardships of unemployment, and that they use their money toward this end.

DREAMERS.

You wanted her to sell her house
  Built on a blue and windy hill.
She laughed and said one couldn't sell
  A sky that's colored daffodil.

You argued that the price was high,
  Higher by four than what was due.
She said it wasn't moral, though,
  To sell a wind that's colored blue.

You frowned uneasily at talk
  That savored of insanity;
You spoke of cars that she could buy,
  Of furs as fine as furs could be.

She pointed to her window view
  And said it hadn't any price;
That silver pieces in exchange
  For beauty never would suffice.

You told the neighbors everywhere
  That she was crazy as a loon.
She didn't mind; she only raised
  Her window higher to the moon.

CHINESE COURT REFORMS.

Modernized Judicial System Paves the Way for Treaty Revisions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an American who has resided in China for more than twenty years, I wish to express hearty approval of your editorial article of July 18 entitled "Discussing Extraterritoriality." It is unquestionably true that political conditions in China are chaotic and that the Peking Government has not the control over the provinces which should be a preliminary to the surrender of extraterritorial rights on the part of foreigners.

It is, however, also true that the responsible leaders of China are not asking that this surrender be made immediately, but only that the whole matter be brought up for discussion in a properly constituted conference with a view to modifying existing regulations to suit the present situation and to abolishing completely extraterritorial rights only when conditions make this practicable.

It will be unfortunate if the discussion of this question ignores the disunity and disorder so widely prevalent in China; especially as the present situation, wisely used, may be the means of helping the unification of the country under a Government truly representative and able to exert effective control.

As a matter of fact, there has hardly been a time in twenty years when China had less ground than at present to complain of foreign aggression. While this is true, there has steadily developed in China a stronger national feeling and an increasing sensitiveness to the indignity with which the country has in the past been treated by Western nations. This has led to a reasonable and wholly praiseworthy desire that the treaties with these nations should be revised on a basis more equitable and more compatible with national self-respect.

We should cordially agree to reopen the question of these treaties, as our Government seems disposed to do. But we should also take the position that China cannot expect America to do what was done in 1899 with Japan until the country is unified under a stable and effective Government.

In doing this we shall be rendering China a great service, as this stand on our part should furnish a leverage that may enable the truly patriotic leaders to arouse a public opinion which will force the military satraps, who now dominate the country, to subordinate personal interests to the public good.

There was, however, one statement in your editorial which, I think, does China less than justice. In the last paragraph you say "China has done little or nothing to reform her judicial system." My own judgment, which I know that many foreigners share, is that the new Courts of Justice are the best thing at present in the Chinese Government system, and, unlike the customs and postoffice, they are entirely under Chinese control.

Under the Manchu régime local officials exercised judicial as well as administrative functions. This made possible serious abuses, and was the reason that led Western nations to demand extraterritorial rights for their nationals. Since the inauguration of the Chinese Republic, however, a system of courts has been established, consisting of Courts of First Instance in the prefectures, with Courts of Appeal at the provincial capitals and a Supreme Court at Peking.

The Judges of these courts have, many of them, been trained abroad, for the most part in Japan. I know some of these men personally and hold them in high regard as men of ability and integrity. It is significant testimony to the character of her judiciary that a Chinese Judge was recently chosen as one of the Judges of the World Court of the League of Nations.

Furthermore, the code of laws in use since the Chinese revolution in these courts has been for the most part a provisional civil and penal code, based on the legal systems of the West. This has been in temporary use until the Law Codification Commission could complete its work. This commission, appointed in 1914, has been hard at work in conjunction with the Ministry of Justice, aided by French and Japanese advisers. The work is now largely complete and two digests of civil and penal procedure were promulgated in 1921.

As part of the judicial system, model prisons have been established in many cities throughout China. That in the City of Anking, on the Yangtse River, which I have visited many times, is one of which any country might well be proud. The treatment of the prisoners is humane and intelligent and the aim of the whole system is not retribution, but reform.

In general, let me say as my own opinion that the great improvement in the administration of justice as evidenced by these courts justifies the belief that it will not be long before Western nations can readily relinquish the privileges of extraterritoriality. At the same time, as stated before, this should not be done until China has worked out of the present political chaos and can show a Government stable and strong.

More Praise for Banton.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your commendation, in an editorial published on July 8, of the work of District Attorney Banton is gratifying. The good that men do is too oft interred with their bones.

Mr. Banton's conduct of his important office has been an honor to the community and to the Bar, and has added to the prestige which Mr. Banton had gained in private practice.

A prosecutor is a quasi-judicial officer, and the obligations incident thereto have never been forgotten under the present administration. It is the testimony of the Bar that prosecution has been both efficient and fair. If the police will catch criminals, the District Attorney's office will speedily put them where they belong.

Mr. Banton's term of office will expire with the present year. It is the general expectation that he will be renominated. There is not likely to be dissent from the opinion that he ought to be.

Mourns Dr. Stoner.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is with profound regret that I have heard of the death of my old and valued friend, Dr. James Buchanan Stoner of the United States Public Health Service. He was one of the most interesting men I have ever known—self-made, largely self-taught, a devoted public servant, beloved by the service men with whom and for whom he labored, respected by all classes, universally trusted and esteemed.

In an age rampantly noisy, he had a genius for quietness that was as real and deep as it was rare; he personified faith in science; he represented in himself the best qualities of the ideal physician. The limelight had no charm for him; self-possessed, reserved and sure, he went about his work and was content. Those who knew him will not forget him.

IGNORANCE CHARGE DENIED BY BRYAN

He Declares Darrow Took Unfair Advantage in His Questions on Various Sciences.

POINTS TO HIS EDUCATION

And Recalls His Experience in Congress, in Politics and in Religion.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 24 (AP).—Discussing here on Wednesday what he said was a charge of ignorance brought against him by Clarence Darrow during questioning in the Scopes case, testimony later expunged as incompetent, William Jennings Bryan said that Mr. Darrow attempted to take advantage of his lack of technical knowledge in matters of paleontology, archaeology and philology. Mr. Bryan said that he planned to reply to this charge when the direct examination was ended, but the ruling of the Court deprived him of this opportunity.

"I am not acquainted with the details of any of the sciences to which Mr. Darrow referred," said the statement. "My reading on these subjects has been general and not as a specialist.

"It is unfair, however, that one should be condemned for lack of technical knowledge of a few subjects if he is acquainted with the subjects that are more important, and with which all the people deal. If we can trust the list given in a volume entitled 'American Men of Science,' there are only about 5,500 persons in the United States who deserve to be called scientists.

"If we take eleven classes of scientists say, for instance, astronomers, botanists, biologists, psychologists, geologists, zoologists, philologists, anthropologists, paleontologists, archaeologists and physiologists and estimate the same number in each class, we will have a total of about 500 of these scientists in each of these classes, or one each to 200,000 of our population.

As it requires a considerable part of a lifetime to acquaint one's self thoroughly with any one of these sciences, a man would have to spend many lives to be familiar with them all, even if he gave no time to the problems with which the mass of people are dealing. My life has been spent in the study and discussion of economic, social and governmental problems, and I am willing to abide in the judgment of those whose paramount interest is in these problems, and they include more than 95 per cent. of the population, as compared to the small per cent. who specialize in various lines of science, however important their work may be.

"Preparation for my life work began with a fortunate home environment, furnished by a father who had a classical education and a mother who shared his intellectual enthusiasm. My father was a lawyer, a member of the State Senate, a Circuit Court Judge and a member of the Illinois Constitutional Convention. My parents were devout Christians, members of the Baptist Church.

"My education began with instruction by my mother until I was 10, then instruction in the public school until I was 15, then six years at Jacksonville, Ill., two in preparatory work and four in Illinois College, graduating as valedictorian and class orator; then two years in Union College of Law, Chicago. My college degrees are bachelor of arts, master of arts, bachelor of laws and doctor of laws, the degree of doctor of laws having been conferred on me by four State universities and three other colleges. I practiced law for three years at Jacksonville, Ill., and four at Lincoln, Neb., before leaving the practice for politics. My official service covers two terms in Congress and two years and three months as Secretary of State.

"As Congressman I dealt with every question then before the people, the chief ones being taxation, the monetary question, the income tax and popular election of Senators. As Secretary of State I negotiated fifty-two treaties. Thirty of them put into effect a plan which I formulated in 1905. That plan now links us to three-quarters of the world, and has been indorsed by a still larger percentage of the population. I have supported four constitutional amendments and several statutory reforms.

"In three Presidential campaigns I've received each time nearly 6,500,000 votes, 1,000,000 more than the Democratic Party ever polled prior to 1896, and it was twenty years before our party polled more than that vote. For twenty-one years I published a journal devoted to political, economic and social questions, besides writing for prominent newspapers and magazines. I have spoken to students in nearly all the State universities and in many of the larger denominational universities and colleges, besides high schools without number. My more recent college addresses have been at Dartmouth, Harvard and Brown. In a trip around the world I was given audience by a number of kings, emperors and prominent public men and have been cordially received by Presidents of Latin-America and high officials throughout both the Eastern and Western hemispheres.

"My religious work has brought me into acquaintance with the leaders of different branches of the Christian Church, and I have spoken in synagogues as well as before congregations of many denominations.

"In all my varied experience before intelligent people in many lands as well as in every State in the Union, I was never called 'ignorant' or an 'ignoramus,' so far as I know, by any one except an evolutionist, and the epithet was not used by evolutionists until I found it necessary to protect my family from the family tree by which evolutionists connect themselves with the jungle. The Christians of the world are not enemies of education. Preachers rank high in education, and no national body of any kind will average higher than a national assembly of our religious denominations.

"It is not because they lack intelligence or interest in education that they oppose evolution; it is because they have examined into the subject and refuse to accept an unproven hypothesis when acceptance of it changes the philosophy of life and tends to chill spiritual enthusiasm. Evolution lessens where it does not destroy, the consciousness of God, and weakens faith in immortality. When carried to its logical conclusion, it substitutes the law of force for the law of love. Evolutionists overestimate the influence of the mind on life and underestimate the influence of the heart, 'out of which are the issues of life.'"

PERSHING REACHES PANAMA

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone, July 24 (AP).—General John J. Pershing, President of the Tacna-Arica Plebiscitary Commission, and his party, arrived at Cristobal this morning. He was greeted by Colonel M. L. Walker, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone; Major Gen. William Lassiter, Commander of the Canal Department, and a guard of honor. General Pershing immediately entrained for Panama.

This afternoon he called informally upon President Chiari at Panama, and rested during the afternoon when a reception planned by the President could not be held owing to the death of a near relative of the chief executive. Tonight General Lassiter will give a reception in honor of General Pershing.

CHURCH'S BEST MAN ARRIVES FROM JAPAN

CEREMONY IS REHEARSED

W. K. Vanderbilt to Give His Daughter in Marriage Today—Sister May Be Honor Maid.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 24.—From Japan to Newport to be best man at his friend's wedding is somewhat of a record that has been established by Robert G. Payne of New York, who is going to stand up with Frederick Cameron Church Jr., at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when he and Miss Muriel Vanderbilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, are married at Beachmound.

Mr. Payne was traveling in Japan when he received word from Mr. Church that he wanted him to be best man at his wedding. He turned about and started back on his 11,000 or more mile journey. He figured that he had just about time to reach Newport, and reach it he did with a day to spare, the journey having been made without any stopovers. In New York he was met by Lawrence Van Ingen, one of the ushers, and they arrived together this morning. They reached the Muenchinger-King about the same time that Mr. Church did from Boston.

Everything is in readiness for the wedding. Beachmound was a hive of industry today with the decorators, carpenters and others working about the place putting on the finishing touches here and there and making preparations for the big reception that is to follow. According to the superintendent, Mr. Vanderbilt, who is to give his daughter in marriage, was also present at times.

Indications are that there is going to be pleasant weather and everybody connected with the wedding party was very happy yesterday over this prospect and with the smoothness of the rehearsal held at Beachmound this afternoon.

While it has been said that the bride would be unattended at the wedding ceremony there was a rumor today that her sister, Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, was to be maid of honor after all. This, however, could not be verified. The bridegroom, besides having Mr. Payne as his best man, is to have eight ushers, five of them from Boston and three from New York. They are to be Russell Sturgiss Codman Jr., James Otis, Robert A. K. Lancaster, Richard S. Humphrey, Lawrence Van Ingen, Robert W. Emmons 3d, Harold S. Vanderbilt and Hermann Oelrichs.

The majority of them had arrived this afternoon early. Messrs. Codman, Otis, Lancaster, Humphrey and Van Ingen being at the Muenchinger-King, where early in the afternoon Mr. Church entertained them at luncheon with Miss Vanderbilt. Miss Vanderbilt at this affair deviated considerably from her usual costume of white and was wearing a pale green suit. At the wedding, it is understood, the bride will wear a gown of white silk that will be marked by its simplicity.

Newport began to fast fill up with guests today because of the approaching wedding. The scene about the Casino and Bailey's Beach at noon looked like a day when there is a tournament or some other big event going on. There were Sir John and Lady Ward of England, who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Widener; James W. Barney, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. William F. Whitehouse; Lawrence Waterbury, M. J. O'Brien Jr. and Dewees W. Dilworth, who arrived on the yacht Hussar; Seymour Johnson, who is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Glyn; Oliver Perin, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Pauling Fosdick, and Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Warren Jr., who are to spend a month with Mr. Warren's parents; E. G. Chadwick, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor; Mrs. Willis A. Webber, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. Leroy Jones; Herman D. Kountze and his son, P. D. Kountze, from New York; Mrs. John Cecil, formerly Miss Vanderbilt, who is the guest of Mrs. Sylvan Stokes, and C. Oliver Iselin.

FETE AT SULGRAVE MANOR.

Officers of American Colonial Dames to Be Guests in England Today.

BELIEVE CURZON WILL NAMED LLOYD GEORGE

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—Londoners enjoyed a guessing contest today on the identity of the "high personage" said to have been subjected to uncomplimentary allusions in suppressed portions of the late Lord Curzon's will which was probated yesterday.

The personage in question is said by The Morning Post to have been the Premier under whom Lord Curzon was Foreign Secretary. As he served under no less than five Premiers, each was taken up by the guessers today as possibly the personage alluded to.

Most of the guessers fastened upon David Lloyd George as the Premier who incurred Lord Curzon's wrath. In fact, one paper this evening went so far as practically to state that Lloyd George was the "high personage." However, this was denied tonight to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent by a man having access to exceptionally good sources of information.

The Morning Post, which started the excitement this morning concerning the suppressed portions of Lord Curpon's will, either cannot or will not divulge the name of the "high personage." It discusses the guessing contest which it started here without, however, allaying the public curiosity.

One paper this evening declared that the suppressed section of Lord Curzon's will reevaled how the British Premier under whom Lord Curzon served usurped the latter's functions as Foreign Secretary during the Versailles Peace Treaty negotiations.

TELEGRAPH OPERATOR DISCOVERED NEW STAR

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—A story of how a telegraph operator in South Africa discovered the new star, Nova Pictoris, as he was walking home from work early in the morning of May 25 was told by Spencer Jones, the British astronomer at the Cape of Good Hope, at a special meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society in London today.

The operator had been in the habit of studying the sky as he walked home each morning. The appearance of a strange start in the constellation Pictor, of the second magnitude, struck him immediately with the idea that it must be a new star. He verified his discovery after breakfast, then telegraphed to the observatory at the Cape of Good Hope, which announced it to the world.

Astronomers in all parts of the world told of recent advances in science, and the telegraph operator's experience was the most colorful account of the day.

The meeting was in honor of the International Astronomical Union, which has just finished its triennial meeting in Cambridge.

The new star is of especial interest since it is the first new star that has ever been discovered some time before it reached its maximum brightness. Spectrographic observations made at the Cape Observatory showed the presence of hydrogen in great quantities and also the rarer elements, scandium and vanadium. Aluminum, which is of very common occurrence on earth but which hardly ever is observed on stars, also was noticed on the new star.

Before its recent outburst this star was a harmless looking specimen of fourteenth or fifteenth magnitude, while at its maximum it became 400,000 times brighter and shone as a star of the first magnitude. Its discoverer, Mr. Watson, also had the good luck of discovering Nova Aquilae, the brightest new star of the past three centuries, which appeared in 1918.

194 MADE ELIGIBLE FOR GENERAL STAFF

Army Officers to Be Listed in Service "Blue Book" by New General Order.

MAJORITY ARE MAJORS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—A new general order will be issued next week by the War Department designating 194 officers, mostly Majors, who are to be added to the "élite list" of officers eligible for duty with the General Staff.

The original General Staff eligible list was created five years ago when Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker approved the initial list of officers eligible for such duty as completed by a board of five general officers of the army, headed by General Pershing.

It is the ambition of army officers to have their names on this list—created under the authority of the National Defense act—because no one can be assigned to duty on the General Staff Corps in the War Department, the General Staff with troops in the field or as military attaché unless named in the General Staff eligible list. The selection made originally plus those added each year constitute the "blue book" of the army.

Under the terms of the National Defense act no officer can be added to the eligible list unless upon graduation from the General Staff school he is specifically recommended as qualified for general staff duty.

List of Those Eligible.

The officers to be added to the list are:

Ahrends, A. E., Maj., Infantry.
Aleshire, J. P., Maj., Cavalry.
Anderson, J. B., Maj., F. A.
Anderson, J. W., Maj., F. A.
Arnold, F. T., Colonel, Cavalry.
Arthur, R., Maj., C. A. C.
Ayer, W. F., Maj., Infantry.
Bagby, P. H., Maj., Infantry.
Bailey, B. M., Maj., F. A.
Barnes, J. F., Maj., F. A.
Barrett, R. H., Maj., Infantry.
Barry, J. A., Maj., Cavalry.
Bartholon, J. C. P., Maj., Infantry.
Bennett, E. E., Maj., C. A.
Bennett, E. E., Maj., C. A. C.
Benson, C. C., Maj., Cavalry.
Bertram, E. H., Maj., Infantry.
Beuret, E. G., Maj., Infantry.
Bingham, S. V., Maj., Cavalry.
Biscoe, Earl, Lieut-Col., C. A. C.
Black, F. F., Lieut-Col., Infantry.
Boatwright, W. P., Maj., Ordnance Dept.

NICARAGUANS BOMB AMERICAN MISSION

Three Church Workers, Whose Residence Was Stoned, Appeal to Envoy and Native Police.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The lives of three American missionaries, representatives of the Central American Mission at Granada, Nicaragua, have been threatened and their residence has been stoned and the mission bombed.

Dispatches reaching here describe the situation in Granada as still serious.

The Central American Mission, a Protestant institution, was established about four years ago, but only recently opened its headquarters in Granada. The move was opposed at the time by the Bishop of Granada, and since then there have been a series of disorders.

Doors and windows of the residence occupied by the missionaries were destroyed by stones, and meetings held by them were broken up.

On July 19 the mission was attacked and a door was blown off its hinges by a bomb. None of the missionaries—two women and one man—was injured.

Appeals to the Nicaraguan Government authorities at Managua were answered with a promise of police protection.

The State Department today lacked any information concerning an appeal reported in Associated Press dispatches to have been made by the missionaries to the American Legation at Managua.

It is supposed that the Envoy will render whatever aid seems necessary, but it is believed unlikely that the outbreak will interfere with plans to withdraw early in August the guard of 100 marines on duty in Nicaragua since 1912.

It became known today that the Nicaraguan Government had recently asked that the marines be left for the present, but Secretary Kellogg replied that the Washington Government already had postponed withdrawal several times and could not do so again.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 24 (AP).—President Solorzano has sent a commission and fifty soldiers to Granada to settle difficulties that have arisen there between American missionaries and Catholic authorities.

There has been intense religious feeling in Granada, resulting in some street violence, but it is believed that the President's prompt action will serve to quiet the situation.

The missionaries requested the aid of the Government and of the American Minister.

BROOKS, ONCE FOE OF GAMBLERS, DIES

Retired Police Inspector Was 81—Strong Aid of Roosevelt and Served Thirty-eight Years.

Nicholas Brooks, head of a detective agency at 150 Nassau Street, and a retired Police Inspector, who aided William Travers Jerome in driving Canfield, Shang Draper and other gamblers out of New York, died yesterday at his home, 341 West 121st Street.

The former Inspector, who was 81 years old, was born in Essex County, N. J., and joined the local police force when John A. Kennedy was Superintendent of Police. He rose through the various grades of promotion from a patrolman, becoming a Captain in 1889. Eight years later his excellent record as a policeman attracted Col. Roosevelt, then Police Commissioner, who promoted him to the rank of Inspector.

Presiding over the Second Inspection District in 1902 Brooks gained jurisdiction over the Detective Bureau at Headquarters when Commissioner Partridge placed the authority of the bureau in his hands. Another responsibility followed when Commissioner Greene created the position of Borough Inspector—a measure which placed Inspector Brooks in charge of Manhattan, the Bronx and Richmond and also the Detective Bureau of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

The retired Inspector formerly served as President of the Association of Private Detectives, which presented him with a loving cup in 1911. He also was formerly President of the New York Police Endowment and Benevolent Society.

Dan Brostrom Killed in Auto.

Dan Brostrom, President of the Swedish-American Line in Gothenburg, was killed yesterday in an automobile accident near Halmstad, Sweden, according to a cable dispatch received at the New York office of the company, 22 State Street. It also stated that Mrs. Brostrom and a chauffeur were in the car when the accident occurred and escaped injury.

Mr. Brostrom was once Minister of Marine in the Swedish Government and was one of the richest shipowners in Sweden.

Monsignor Enrico Janssens.

ROME, July 24 (AP).—The Osservatore Romano today announces the death of Mgr. Enrico Janssens, one of the most learned of the Order of the Benedictines. Although born in Belgium, the prelate lived for years in Rome, where he occupied one of the high positions in the Church.

Mgr. Janssens died in a seminary at Scheut, aged 71 years, after forty-eight years of ecclesiastical life.

MAX HIRSCH DIES ON FISHING VESSEL

Former Treasurer of Metropolitan Opera House for 27 Years Suffers Heart Attack.

ONCE WITH CHICAGO OPERA

Decorated by France for His Efficiency in Managing Tour of a Government Band.

Max Hirsch, former treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera House for twenty-seven years, and for the last three years road manager of the Music Box Revue, died from heart disease yesterday while aboard the Captain Joe, a fishing vessel anchored in Sheepshead Bay a few miles off the shore. Mr. Hirsch gave no evidence of discomfort before the attack and was chatting gayly with his twelve passenger-companions and the captain of the vessel when suddenly he clutched at his breast and crumpled to the floor of the boat unconscious. By the time Captain Archie Buckner had moored his vessel at the Town of Sheepshead Bay, Mr. Hirsch was dead.

From early youth Mr. Hirsch had been identified with the theatre, first as a box office man, and then as a manager. He began his career with the old Mapleson Opera Company in the Academy of Music on Fourteenth Street and after serving later with the Standard Theatre and the old Abbey Theatre (now the Knickerbocker), as a supervisor of the ticket office, became affiliated with the Metropolitan. He continued here until 1910, when he was employed as manager of the Chicago Opera Company, a position which he filled for four years. Then followed a long period as road manager of the Pavlowa Troupe and other productions until his connection with the Music Box. Several years ago he was decorated by the French Government for his efficiency in managing a French Government band in this country.

Mr. Hirsch was 62 years old, and lived at 2,023 Voorhees Avenue, Sheepshead Bay. He was a member of the Friars's Club, The Lambs, the Treasurers' Club and the St. Cecile Lodge of Masons. Funeral services will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in Temple Rodeph Sholom, Sixty-third Street and Lexington Avenue.

MRS. JESSIE C. KING DEAD.

One of the Founders of Women's College of New Brunswick, N. J.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., July 24 (AP).—Mrs. Jessie Caldwell King, one of the founders of the Women's College of New Brunswick, N. J., and the wife of Warren C. King, Republican candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination in 1919 and the head of several chemical companies, died yesterday at her home.

During the last political campaign she was Chairman of the Financial Committee of the New Jersey State Republican Club.

Mrs. King's husband, Warren C. King, as President of the Manufacturers' Council of New Jersey in 1919, was upon the manufacturers of six Eastern States to cooperate with the Government in the production of essential war material. In his campaign for the Gubernatorial nomination the same year he was defeated by Newton J. Bugbee.

Funeral services for Mrs. King will be held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at her late residence in Bound Brook.

Charles V. Oden.

Charles V. Oden, pioneer typewriter salesman and for the last twenty-seven years employed by the Underwood Typewriter Company, died Thursday at his home, Colonial Heights, Tuckahoe, N. Y. He was born in Salem, Ill., June 2, 1864. When, forty years ago, the typewriter business was still in its infancy, Mr. Oden entered the field in Peoria, Ill. He wrote several articles and books relating to the salesmanship and history of the writing machine. Because of his thorough knowledge of all the different typewriters he was frequently summoned to testify in cases involving the validity of typewritten documents. He is survived by his wife and a daughter, Mrs. Harold W. Haedrich of Brooklyn.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Many Issues on Stock Exchange at New High Levels—Commodities Irregular.

Fluctuations on most markets yesterday were rather drastic ones. On the Stock Exchange the day was one of intermittent advances and declines, in which many new high records for the shares of prominent industrial corporations were attained, and in which the averages established another new high record for the year. In other directions, however, the irregularities of the present situation and the adverse factors which operate from time to time were in the ascendency. Sterling declined rather sharply, for the first time in several weeks; in fact, the sterling quotation had recently served to remind many in the financial district of the days when sterling was "pegged." Yesterday it was sensitive to a labor crisis abroad, happily averted by a postponement of the consideration of immediate problems. Nevertheless, the day's downward movement in sterling gave very good evidence that it is not pegged and that it is extremely responsive to good or bad news as it develops.

Probably the most important development in our markets was the fact that stocks advanced as time funds became a shade firmer. The annual call for funds from the interior for crop harvesting and moving purposes and for the ordinary increase in business activities incident to the Fall is now quite evident. However, it has apparently not yet been reflected in the call money rate. Yesterday's firming up of the rate for time funds may be considered merely a reflection of this condition. In any event, it cannot be said that money is anything but easy and that such selling of stocks for the decline as develops from day to day, on the theory that money rates will tighten up within the next few weeks, is nothing more nor less than pure speculation. It is impossible to say as yet just how much of a drain there will be this Fall on the credit supply.

Reports of the state of business and industry, as compiled by the commercial reporting agencies at the week-end, do not offer unfavorable testimony. Dun's Review notes that for eight consecutive weeks advances in wholesale quotations have predominated and that more than one-half of the week's increases are in other articles than foodstuffs. Copper, lead, zinc, tin and hides have shown notable increases in price during the week. In summing up the general situation, Dun's Review notes that "irregularities in the commercial situation remain rather prominent, but constructive influences outnumber retarding factors and reports from leading cities and the principal trades are distinctly encouraging." Bradstreet's says that "the seemingly contradictory report as to general trade is that it is of Summer quietness but that at the same time it exceeds a year ago at this date by a good margin."

In other directions yesterday there was a disposition to even up commitments as the week-end approached, although this was not true of the movements on the Stock Exchange. After the vigorous rally in cotton on the previous day, due to the unexpectedly small Government figures, the market seemed to be under the pressure of these evening-up transactions. Wheat was generally higher during the day. The markets seem to have reached a stage where they are particularly sensitive to the day-to-day news as it develops. Possibly the tenor of this news as it unfolds will guide whatever trend is established in the immediate future.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, JULY 24, 1925.

Stock Exchange call money ruled at 4 per cent. all day, and in the outside market at 3½. There was a good supply always on offer, but inquiry was light. Fixed period market ruled evenly at prevailing quotations. There was a moderate turnover in four-six months' at 4¼ per cent., with the shorter maturities going at 4⅛. There were reports of offers of six months' money at 4½ per cent., but this was too high for borrowers, who are only interested in this maturity at 4¼ per cent., at which figure a good business awaits the lender. Commercial money markets were quiet and unchanged in discount.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Irregular Movement in Stock Prices; Specialties Again Prominent.

Due to the fact that the greater portion of the short interest covered its commitments on the swift recovery in the stock market on Thursday, stock prices moved in an irregular manner yesterday, although trading was again on an active scale. There were times when the market gave the appearance of extreme weakness and sharp declines were recorded in some of the oils, steels and several of the high-priced specialties. But on the reaction, trading again slackened and stocks gradually recovered and many of the high-priced stocks closed the day with substantial gains. Taken by groups the industrials, as indicated by the averages, ended the day higher, despite the late reaction, but the railroad issues as a group were slightly lower. Mack Trucks which has been in the speculative limelight of late attracted considerable attention yesterday when it crossed the 200-mark and sold at 203. At its close of 200⅝, it was up 1⅛ points net for the day. General Railway Signal scored another phenomenal gain and sold at 219, closing at 215. Other stocks which closed higher included Consolidated Gas, Tobacco Products, White Motors, Famous Players, General Motors and International Harvester. American Can again sold above 210, but closed the day lower, as did Baldwin, Studebaker, Steel Common and other active leaders.

The Decline in Pan American.

The shares of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Co., which have been heavy of late broke sharply yesterday. The B stock sold down to 72¼ and at the close of 73 it lost 1½ points net for the day. During the past few weeks there have been many rumors circulated in the Street affecting the market position of these stocks, but yesterday's selling was based upon the report that the company was about to increase the amount of capital stock and Wall Street immediately began to ask questions about the new issue. With no explanation forthcoming the report was accepted as a bearish influence on the present stock. Investigation, however, divulged the fact that the company has made application to the New York Stock Exchange for permission to list additional stock, but this stock, it was explained, is being issued to convert Mexican Petroleum stock into Pan American issues. Other factors recently influencing the stock included the outlook for dividends. Early in the year it was reported that the dividend rate might be increased to $8 a share annually. Under Standard Oil management, however, Wall Street believes that the dividend policy in the future will be along conservative Standard Oil lines.

More Effects of Gold Standard.

An indirect result of the gold standard in Great Britain and the United States is seen in the continued appreciation in Scandinavian exchanges, which has reached a stage that is embarrassing, particularly in Denmark, because of its effect on Scandinavian exports. A large part of the buying of the Danish kroner has represented the flight of capital from France and Italy. Nationals sending this money out of their countries evidently considered that there was little prospect of marked appreciation in the dollar or sterling currencies, owing to the stabilization caused by the gold standard. Hence the decision to send a large part of their funds to Copenhagen and Stockholm, which offered security, and also the probability of higher future values. These theories have worked out, for Danish exchange now is at the highest level in years.

French Exchange.

The narrow range of fluctuations in French exchange bears out the opinion expressed by a number of New York bankers that it is part of Finance Minister Caillaux's strategy to keep the franc at about its present level in connection with the sale of the new exchange guarantee bonds. With the franc in the neighborhood of about 4.70 cents, as at present, and 5.12 guaranteed as the basis of the new bonds, it is pointed out, a powerful incentive exists for the purchase of the Government securities. The resulting success in new French financing, bankers declare, is more than sufficient to offset the possible losses through the exchange guarantee. Under these circumstances it is believed there will not be much change in the near future in quotations on the franc, though later in the year a revaluation program will probably be worked out in connection with the funding of the French debt to the United States and the floating of a new loan in America.

New Haven Earnings.

The report of the New Haven for June and the first six months of 1925 shows an increase in net income of $497,395 for the month and $2,190,060 for the first half year. Adding an estimate of $1,000,000 annually as a result of the fare increases granted by the Public Service and Interstate Commerce Commissions, which will be effective Aug. 1, statisticians figured yesterday that the report for the last half year should show at least $400,000 more net. The management of the road, however, was not so optimistic. The higher commutation rates, it was said, would not bring more than $1,000,000, and the sum might be nearer $500,000, depending upon how many commuters decided to make the trip in their automobiles.

A New Railroad.

News of plans for constructing a railroad through Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky "in a district that is almost entirely without railroad facilities" started the gossip ball rolling in the financial district as to who is behind the project. Guesses included the Illinois Central, Southern Railway and Louisville & Nashville. The application was filed by the Florence, Clifton & Paducah Railroad, a new company incorporated in Alabama. The main line is expected to be 225 miles long with terminals at Florence, Ala., and Paducah, Ky.

Corn Products Reduced Profits.

The statement of earnings of the Corn Products Refining Co. for the first half of the current year shows a sharp drop in net earnings and profits compared with the corresponding period last year. For the first half of 1925 the company reported net equal to $1.01 a share on the common stock or just about enough to cover the semi-annual dividend requirements on the junior issue. This compares with $1.82 a share earned on the common stock in the first six months of 1924. Inasmuch as some of the company's products compete with sugar, the profits for the period have been materially affected by the current low price for refined sugar, which places sugar in competition with Corn Products production. At the same time the company has been forced to pay higher prices for corn purchased in the open market. Executives of the company also state that the grinds for the first half of 1925 were about 12 per cent. below the same period last year.

PAN-AMERICAN OIL DROPS IN BRISK DAY

BEARISH INFLUENCE FEARED

Reports Also Anticipate a Conservative Dividend Policy Under Standard Oil Control.

Shares of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company were sold in large quantities on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday following reports that the company was about to increase its authorized capital stock and issue new securities to stockholders. On the strength of these reports the Class B stock sold down from 75¼ to 72¼, and at the close of 73 a net loss of 1½ points for the day was recorded. Wall Street assumed that if the company was about to issue new stock it would have a bearish influence on the securities now outstanding, and due to the absence of details professionals sold the stock for short account.

At the offices of the company it was confirmed yesterday that the company was contemplating increasing the stock outstanding, but it was explained that this would not represent new financing. It was stated that application would be made to the New York Stock Exchange for permission to list an additional 30,000 or 40,000 shares. This stock, it was explained, has been issued in exchange for the capital stock of the Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd., some of which is still outstanding. The Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company for some time past has held practically all of the common and preferred stock of the Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd., and several offers have been made in recent years to buy it in.

In addition to reports of the proposed increase, other rumors have tried to account for the recent weakness in Pan-American issues. One report deals with the future dividend policy of the company. Prior to the acquisition of control of the Pan-American by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana from Edward L. Doheny and his associates, reports said that Mr. Doheny would increase the annual dividend rate on the common stocks from $6 to $8 a share before the close of the current year. This prospect, it is believed, has faded, as it is understood now that, under Standard Oil management, its conservative dividend policies will be in force.

Another change in policy under the new control came to light a short time ago, when it was reported that the company would conserve its resources in Mexico as long as production in the United States was increasing. Under this arrangement, it was stated, the Pan-American curtailed the production of crude oil from its properties in Mexico and purchased heavy grade crude oil at low prices in the Smackover field in Arkansas. It was also stated that the company's refinery at Destrehan, near New Orleans, was being operated exclusively on Smackover crude. Previously it had been operated on crude shipped by tanker from Mexico.

WASHBURN CROSBY CHANGES

John Crosby to Be Board Chairman and J. F. Bell President.

Numerous changes in the personnel of the Washburn Crosby Company were announced following the annual meeting of stockholders and the Board of Directors, held at the company's offices in this city yesterday. In regard to these changes, the company issued the following announcement:

Loans on other securities	decreased	1,923,000
Public deposits	increased	2,979,000
Other deposits	decreased	4,528,000

Proportion of the Bank's reserve to deposit liabilities this week is 31.36 per cent.; last week it was 29.86. This week's percentage is the highest reached this year to date, and is also the highest since June 21, 1916. The lowest thus far in 1925 has been 11.48, on Jan. 2. The lowest during or since the war was 7.20, on Dec. 30, 1920.

The statement compares as follows with the corresponding week one and two years ago:

Ratio of reserve—	21.36	18.63	18.00

Present gold holdings of the Bank of England are the largest in the history of the institution. Before the war the largest amount ever held was £43,634,723, on Jan. 28, 1914. Smallest during the war was £50,281,182, on Dec. 15, 1915; largest, £74,585,063, in armistice week of 1918.

The Bank of England's official discount rate remains unchanged at 5 per cent., to which it was raised from 4 per cent. on March 5, 1925. At this date last year the rate stood at 4 per cent., at 4 per cent. in 1923, at 3 per cent. in 1922, at 5½ per cent. in 1921, at 7 per cent. in 1920, at 5 per cent. in 1919, at 5 per cent. in 1918, at 5 per cent. in 1917, at 6 per cent. in 1916, at 5 per cent. in 1915, and at 3 per cent. in 1914.

FRANC CIRCULATION 311,462,000 LOWER

State Repays Bank, Bringing Total Advances Down to 27,400,000,000.

The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs:

Gold at home	increased	33,000
Silver in hand	increased	80,000
Notes in circulation	decreased	311,462,000
Treasury deposits	increased	19,081,000
General deposits	decreased	223,511,000
Bills discounted	decreased	122,260,000
Advances	decreased	25,605,000

The State repaid the bank 450,000,000 francs during the week. Advances to the State now stand at 27,400,000,000 francs, against 22,700,000,000 francs a year ago and 23,000,000,000 francs two years ago. Under the vote of the French Parliament on June 27 the legal limit on such advances is now 32,000,000,000 francs, against a previous 26,000,000,000 voted on April 15. Last week's advances, amounting to 27,850,000,000 francs, were the largest ever reached, the former high point being 27,000,000,000 francs, in 1921; smallest during the last three years, 21,200,000,000, in March, 1922.

The principal items in the statement compare as follows with the same date one and two years ago, in thousands of francs:

	Gold.	Circulation.	Disc'ts, &c.
1924	5,543,407	40,081,713	7,404,016

Under the vote of June 27 the legal limit on note circulation is now 51,000,000,000 francs, against a former 45,000,000,000 francs limit fixed on April 15. Last week's note circulation, 44,433,405,000 francs, was the highest ever reached by the Bank of France. The lowest point reached by the bank's circulation in the concerted reduction of 1921-22 was 35,281,790,000 francs, to which it was reduced from 39,645,896,000 on Nov. 4, 1920, the highest figure ever reached until March of 1924.

The French bank's official discount rate remains unchanged at 6 per cent., to which it was reduced from 7 per cent. on July 2. It had been at 7 per cent. since Dec. 11, 1924, to which level it had been raised.

KRUPPS WITHDRAW REVALUATION OFFER

Cancel Plan for Payment of 15% Gold Value on Pre-War and 1½% on Post-War Bonds.

ACTION AFFECTS MANY HERE

Said to Have Been Prompted by Low Readjustment Rates of German Government and Cities.

The Freidrich Krupp Works of Essen, Germany, have withdrawn their offer to redeem their pre-war and post-war mark bonds on a revaluation basis, according to a cablegram received yesterday by the Banque of Chrissoveloni, 115 Broadway, from the Dresdner Bank of Germany. The Krupps were the first industrial interests in Germany to make a voluntary offer of a revaluation of their bonds after the collapse of the mark. Their plan has been in effect for about a year and a half.

The issues affected are those floated in 1893, 1901 and 1908. The company did not issue all of the 1908 bonds at the time of authorization, and floated part of this issue since the armistice. The bonds were floated in Germany, but large amounts of them are held now by American investors. Late in 1923 the Krupp interests offered a revaluation plan, by which bondholders would receive 15 per cent. in gold value of their pre-war holdings, and 1½ per cent. in gold value of their post-war holdings. The reason for the difference in valuation was that the post-war bonds were issued when the mark already showed a large depreciation.

The plan went into effect early in 1924 and many investors are believed to have accepted the offer. In view of the German Government plan, under which holders of old mark securities will receive only 2½ per cent. on a gold valuation, and similar readjustments made by several of the municipalities, it is believed the Krupps decided to recall their offer.

The Krupp revaluation has no connection with their dollar loan floated in New York last December. This was the first financing that the Krupps had ever obtained in New York and consisted of $10,000,000 of 7 per cent. bonds, underwritten by a group of New York banking houses.

NEW HAVEN INCOME FOR JUNE $552,619

Big Rise Over $65,224 Reported Last Year—Six Months' Net Is $2,663,575.

The New Haven Railroad reports net income for June of $552,619, compared with $65,224 in 1924. Net for the first six months was $2,663,575, compared with $473,514 in 1924, an increase of $2,190,060. Gross revenues for June showed an increase of $527,869 over last year.

This year's account follows:

Binghamton Light, Heat and Power Wants Union With Afton-Windsor.

The Binghamton Light, Heat and Power Company has petitioned the Public Service Commission for consent to merge with it the Afton-Windsor Light, Heat and Power Company, Inc. The Binghamton company acquired the entire capital stock of the other company last December but has since been operating it as a separate company.

The Binghamton company proposes to construct a transmission line from Binghamton through the towns of Dickinson, Fenton, Kirkwood and Colesville, Broome County, to connect with the lines of the Afton-Windsor company. After this is completed it is proposed to maintain the water power plant of the Afton-Windsor company at Centre Village as an auxiliary plant, service to be furnished regularly over the new transmission line.

OTIS STEEL EARNS INCREASE

Has Net Profit of $1,195,022 Against Loss for First Half of 1924.

The Otis Steel Company reports net profit of $871,759 for the quarter ended June 30, 1925. This was equal to $9.87 a share earned on the $8,830,000 of 7 per cent. preferred stock, on which a large amount of back dividends are due, and to 96 cents a share on the 741,002 shares of no par value common. In the first quarter of 1925 the company reported a balance of $3.66 a share on the preferred and 97 cents a share on the common.

For the half year ended June 30, 1925, the company reports net profit of $1,195,022, against a net loss of $273,529 in the first half of 1924. The net profit for the six months of 1925 was equal to $13.53 a share on the preferred and $1.19 on the common.

UTILITY'S EARNINGS LARGER

Northern Ohio Power Company reports gross earnings for June of $927,811, compared with $793,013 a year ago, and net income available for replacements, depreciation and corporate purposes of $51,906, against a deficit of $34,641 in June, 1924.

For the six months ended June 30 gross was $5,692,757, against $4,940,509 in the same period of last year, and net income of $388,346, against $105,964.

General Electric Co.'s Activity.

Gerard Swope, President of the General Electric Company, said following a meeting of the Board of Directors yesterday that the General Electric plants were operating at about the same rate as in recent weeks, or around 65 per cent. of capacity. The company has a production capacity well in excess of normal requirements.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Possibility of English Coal Strike Sends Sterling Off—Scandinavians Weak.

Fear of a coal strike in England on July 31, yesterday forced liquidation of a moderate amount of London balances by New York bankers, as well as speculative offerings of sterling, both combining to send the pound off for a gross decline of one cent, at $4.84¾. This was the first show of weakness in sterling in more than a month, the range during this period being approximately one-half cent, between $4.85¼ and $4.85¾.

The decline originated in London, whence came lower cables at our start. Bankers said that the balances sold came principally from those who had built up the account on arbitrage transactions during the recent bulge in the Scandinavian exchanges, and that there need be little further worry of a more general outward flow since the present splendid condition of the Bank of England, and a raise in the discount rate, would prove an effective check. A covering movement just before the close brought the rate back to $4.85¼, compared with $4.85¾ on Thursday.

Continental exchanges were generally firm, the French franc being maintained around 4.71 cents, while the Italian lire was steady at 3.65½ cents. Belgian, Swiss and Holland and Spanish were also firm. Profit taking in the Danish and Norwegian exchanges brought a reaction in these.

WEEK'S BOND ISSUES WERE $98,858,000

Total Was More Than Double Last Week's—State and Municipal Offerings Fell Off.

AUSTRALIA LOAN A FEATURE

$75,000,000 for British Colony and $10,000,000 for City of Cologne Were Cause of Increase.

New bond offerings for the week ending today totaled $98,858,000, which was more than double the amount of last week, but the increase resulted principally from one issue—a loan of $75,000,000 to Australia offered last Monday. Other issues of the week were mostly of small volume. The offerings, by groups, of this and last week follows:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Foreign	$85,000,000	$10,000,000
Public Utility	10,153,000	3,500,000
Industrial	2,350,000	1,500,000
State and Municipal	1,355,000	16,566,500
Railroad	......	7,500,000
Farm Loan	......	3,500,000
Miscellaneous	......	1,900,000

The Australian loan was the feature of this week. It represented the first financing that the Government of Australia has obtained in New York, and the issue was handled by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. The offering was quickly oversubscribed, the books being closed within an hour after they were opened. The loan came to New York because London, which always has supplied funds for Australia, was not in a position to advance the capital needed, owing to conditions following the British return to the gold standard. London, however, floated a £5,000,000 Australian issue simultaneously with the New York offering. The other foreign offering of the week was a $10,000,000 City of Cologne issue handled by a syndicate headed by Blair & Co., Inc.

State and municipal offerings showed a heavy falling off during the week, but there were fair-sized public and utility issues. Activities slowed down considerably following the Australian loan, which was the largest piece of foreign long-term financing arranged in this market in months.

Next week, however, will see a renewal of activity on a large scale. The foreign issues scheduled for the coming week include a $20,000,000 loan to the Tokio Electric Company by the Guaranty Company and a $30,000,000 loan to the Kingdom of Denmark by a group that includes the Guaranty Company, Dillon, Read & Co., and the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

Oil Shares Drag on London Exchange; Bourse Irregular.

LONDON, July 24.—High-grade securities were easier on the Stock Exchange today. Oil shares were dull and British industrials were quiet. Old 2½ per cent. consols ⅜ lower at 57; British 5 per cent. war loan ⅛ lower at 100½; 4½ per cent. war loan ⅛ higher at 97¼.

De Beers Mining, 10⅝; Rand Mines, 3, both unchanged.

PARIS, July 24.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 175 centimes higher at 46 francs 25 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan, 10 centimes higher at 54 francs 80 centimes.

Exchange on London 39 centimes lower at 102 francs 93 centimes. The American dollar was quoted at 21 francs 19½ centimes, against 21 francs 25 centimes, yesterday.

Austrian Discount Rate Is Cut.

VIENNA, July 24. (AP).—The Austrian National Bank has reduced the discount rate from 11 to 10 per cent. This action was forecast several days ago by the President of the bank when he announced that a reduction was under consideration, possibly during the Summer, but not immediately. He took occasion to warn the public against the recent rise in securities on the Vienna Exchange, explaining that it was not justified by existing conditions.

Member Reserves Report of July 15 Shows Drops in Leading Accounts Here

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The principal change in the condition of 731 reporting member banks in leading cities during the week ended July 15, as shown in the statement issued by the Federal Reserve Board, comprise increases of $6,000,000 in loans and discounts, of $97,000,000 in net demand deposits, and of $13,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve Banks, and decreases of $15,000,000 in investments and $13,000,000 in Government deposits.

The New York City members reported declines of $40,000,000 in loans and discounts, of $12,000,000 in investments, of $9,00,000 in net demand deposits and of $7,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve Bank.

Loans on stocks and bonds fell off $28,000,000, the larger decline of $53,000,000 reported by banks in the New York district being partly offset by comparatively small increases in some of the other districts. "All other" loans and discounts, largely commercial, increased by $42,000,000, the principal increases being in the following districts: New York $15,000,000, Boston $14,000,000 and Chicago $13,000,000.

Banks in the New York district reported an increase of $12,000,000 in holdings of United States securities and a decline of $23,000,000 in other bonds, stocks and securities, while banks in other districts reported very slight changes in their investments.

Of the aggregate increase of $97,000,000 in net demand deposits $34,000,000 was reported for the Chicago district, $29,000,000 for the Boston district, and $16,000,000 for the San Francisco district.

The principal change in borrowings from the Federal Reserve Banks was an increase of $11,000,000 reported by banks in the Philadelphia district.

A summary of changes in the principal assets and liabilities of reporting members during the week and the year ended July 15, follows:

$4,375,000 UTILITY PURCHASE PLANNED

TERMS VIRTUALLY SETTLED

Transaction Represents Further Move in Federal Company's Program of Expansion.

It was learned yesterday that the Federal Light and Traction Company, a public utility holding company with assets exceeding $34,000,000, had arranged to acquire for cash the majority of the preferred and common stocks of the Newport News & Hampton Railway, Gas and Electric Company. The latter had total assets on Dec. 31 of $10,648,000 and there are $2,800,000 of $100 par value common and $1,500,000 of $100 par value preferred outstanding.

If the Federal company obtained 75 per cent. of both issues at the current Stock Exchange asking prices for the common and preferred shares the deal would involve a cash consideration of $3,278,000, the asking price on the common being currently quoted at 100 and that on the preferred, which is a 7 per cent. stock, at 105 a share. It was indicated yesterday that nearly all of both issues, however, would probably be acquired. In this event the deal would represent $4,375,000 "at the market."

Yesterday's information followed the return from Hampton, Va., on Wednesday of J. Dunhill, Secretary and Treasurer of the Federal Light and Traction Company; C. H. Nichols, Vice President and general manager, and J. D. Bowles, chief engineer. They spent Monday, Tuesday and part of Wednesday inspecting the Newport News & Hampton properties and conferring with officials of the latter company. J. N. Shannahan, who is prominent in the electric railway industry, is President of the Newport News & Hampton company and C. D. Porter is general manager.

Although the deal has not been finally closed and will be submitted to the Federal Light and Traction directors at a meeting next week, it is understood that terms have been agreed upon and will be acceptable to both sides.

The transaction represents another step in the expansion of the Federal Light and Traction, which bought in April, 1923, the New Brunswick Power Company, serving the Province of that name in Canada, and has been spending for additions and improvements to its numerous subsidiaries an average of $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a year.

FINDS NEW ENGLAND IS NOT 'SLIPPING BACK'

Substantial Progress Seen There After Survey by Stock Exchange Firm.

There has been a widespread opinion that "New England investments" have been going badly in the last few years. In consequence of this James J. Phelan, head of Hornblower & Weeks, members of the New York Stock Exchange, who do a large business with New England customers, has recently completed a survey of securities in that section. In an interview yesterday he said:

"To satisfy myself from a statistical angle that I have not been rocking myself to sleep in the cradle of blind optimism, I have made a comparison of certain statistics bearing on New England between the year 1887, when I first entered State Street, and 1924. I think any one who will take the pains to examine and study them can come to no other conclusion than that New England is not 'slipping,' but, on the contrary, is making continuous and substantial progress."

Between 1887 and 1924, Mr. Phelan said, savings bank deposits in New England had increased 340 per cent.; exports, 95 per cent.; imports, 470 per cent.; value of manufactured products, 380 per cent.; value of agricultural products, 375 per cent.; bank clearings, 378 per cent.; bank capital, 4 per cent; bank surplus, 436 per cent.; bank deposits, 531 per cent., and population, 68 per cent.

AUTO OUTPUT TOPS RECORD

Production for Half Year Aggregated 2,173,360 Cars and Trucks.

Production of motor cars and trucks in the United States for the first six months of 1925 established a new high record for any similar period, according to a statement yesterday by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Output for the period aggregated 2,173,360 cars and trucks, an increase of 5.8 per cent. compared with the same period last year. June production of cars and trucks totaled 402,696 units, which established a new high record for any similar month in the history of the industry.

Reports from the retail trade indicated that activities are on a conservative basis. Both May and June output was smaller than that of April. Good Summer and Fall business is looked for, but there is no disposition to anticipate this by large production programs.

MISSOURI GAS RATE UPHELD

Court Decision Favors St. Joseph Company and Service Board.

Alanson P. Lathrop, President of the American Light and Traction Company, announced yesterday that the Supreme Court of Missouri had handed down an opinion in favor of the St. Joseph Gas Company, an American Company subsidiary.

The decision, he said, sustains increased gas rates put into effect in November, 1920, by authority of the Public Service Commission of Missouri. The decision is a substantial victory for the subsidiary and the commission.

The American Light and Traction's Detroit gas subsidiary, the Detroit City Gas Company, was likewise favored recently.

Marconi Profits £225,600 in 1924.

A radiogram received by the Radio Corporation of America yesterday from the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, Ltd., London, said that profits of the company for 1924 were £225,600 and that the directors had recommended a final dividend of 5 per cent. on the ordinary shares for the year. The amount carried forward for the year was £310,652. The annual meeting of the company will be held at London July 31.

Lone Star Gas to Issue Stock.

The Lone Star Gas Company, it was reported yesterday, will soon announce an increase in its stock capitalization from the present $10,750,000 to $25,000,000, incident to which rights will be issued to stockholders and a stock dividend declared. The company will build a new pipe line 100 miles long. The shares sold yesterday at a new high record price.

Sweets Company Deficit Less.

The Sweets Company of America, Inc., reports a net loss of $7,938 for the June quarter against a loss of $8,208 in March. The net loss of $16,136 for the first half compares with a net profit of $65,643 in 1924.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD TO COMBAT ACCIDENTS

Seeks to Cut Deaths and Injuries Among Employes in Next Six Months 25% From 1924.

During the next six months the Eastern Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad will wage a campaign against accidential deaths and injuries to employes in the hope of cutting 25 per cent. from the total during the same months of 1924.

Figures were offered at a recent meeting of the Regional Safety Committee which indicated that more accidents and deaths occurred during the first five months of this year than during the same period of last. From January to May, inclusive, 94 employes were killed and 8,847 injured on the Pennsylvania system. During the same months last year, 86 were killed and 8,688 injured.

In the Eastern region 41 deaths occurred, with 2,647 injuries for the first five months of 1925, compared with 36 deaths and 2,971 injuries for the same period last year. It was noted, however, that a steady monthly decrease has resulted since January. All cases in which an employe is absent because of injury for more than three days, when the matter must be referred to the Interstate Commerce Commission, are known as "injury cases."

The committee's attention was especially directed to the fact that 21 out of 50 fatalities in the Eastern region reported to the end of June were due to employes being struck by trains, and special effort is being made to instruct employes to avoid accidents of this sort.

CRUDE RUBBER DROPS TO $1.14 PER POUND

Lower London Cables and Rumor of Release Soon of 5,000 Tons in China Cause Decline.

A sharp break occurred in the crude rubber market yesterday, spot ribbed smoked sheets selling down to $1.14 per pound at the close, from an opening around $1.17. Other leading grades declined from 4 to 10 cents per pound. Lower cables from London, reflecting an easier market there, and the dissemination of rumors that 5,000 tons of Chinese rubber would be released during the quarter beginning August 1, were the factors back of the decline.

Dealers and brokers said that very little rubber was sold on the reaction, manufacturers particularly withdrawing their bids and adopting a waiting attitude, while the smaller dealers bought sparingly. Mixed cables from London also added to the confusion, various prices being reported around the trade ranging from a final at 50½d on spot, to 51@52½d. Thursday's closing was 53½d.

Quotations for the principal grades, spot and later months, follow:

Net for Six Months Suffices to Cover Year's Dividends.

Net profits of the Chandler Motor Car Company for the half year were sufficient to cover the full year's dividend requirements, according to a statement issued yesterday. Net profits were $856,360, after all expenses and charges, or $3.06 each on the 280,000 shares of no par value capital stock outstanding. This compares with net profits of $852,375 or $3.04 a share in 1924.

Commenting upon conditions in the industry, F. C. Chandler, President of the company, said: "We are not given to making predictions, but the demand for cars is holding up surprisingly well."

Rules on Mack Trucks Rights.

The Committee on Securities of the New York Stock Exchange has ruled that the common stock of Mack Trucks, Inc., be quoted ex rights on July 28; that transactions in rights must be settled on July 28. The right to subscribe to the new stock expires on Aug. 8.

DOUBT MEXICO DEBT REPUDIATION RUMOR

HOLD TERMS MUST BE MET

Finance Minister Pani's Statement Construed as Intention to Seek a Revision.

Messages received from Mexico City in the last few days indicating a belief of governmental officials there that the Lamont-de la Huerta agreement would be revised or abrogated were discredited yesterday by New York bankers familiar with the Mexican situation. Despite rumors from Mexico, no formal proposal has been made for a revision of the agreement. Although Mexico is a year and a half in arrears on the debt, the bankers' position is that the agreement still holds and that eventually Mexico must meet its terms as they stand.

The latest dispatch from Mexico quoted Finance Minister Pani as saying that "negotiations are being conducted with the International Committee of Bankers to secure modification of certain clauses of the Lamont-de la Huerta agreement, but up to the present no date has been mentioned for cancellation of the agreement."

While it was not an official statement of Mexico's intention to annul its international obligations as represented by the agreement with the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, the remarks of the Finance Minister are construed to mean that Mexico intends to put up an argument for the revision of the agreement and negotiate a new one, omitting certain obligations, such as municipal debts of Mexico City, the National Railways and others, in return for which the government would agree to resume payments on Federal obligations.

Bankers in New York who are familiar with Mexican matters declared yesterday that suggestions have been made by Mexican Government officials for changes designed to facilitate the working of the agreement, but that the matter had not reached the stage of "negotiations." Bankers recalled that the whole subject had been discussed informally by members of the international committee with Finance Minister Pani when he visited New York last January.

Members of the committee here said the idea that Mexico would repudiate the agreement signed and ratified by her president and Congress could not for a moment be entertained.

The agreement concluded in 1922 to rehabilitate Mexico, covered more than $500,000,000 of bonded debt. Payments were made as scheduled in 1923, but nothing was paid in 1924 or on the six-months' interest date, July 1, 1925.

A DROP IN EARNINGS OF CORN PRODUCTS

President A. T. Bedford Explains That It Is Due to Low Sugar and High Corn.

The net profits of the Corn Products Refining Company for the first half of 1925 show a material drop. E. T. Bedford, President of the company, in commenting on the company's showing for the period said:

"Low-priced sugar and high-priced corn have materially affected the profits of the corn refining industry. The grind for the industry as a whole for the first six months of this year was approximately 65 per cent. of capacity, about 12 per cent. less than the grind for the same period of last year."

For the six months ended June 30, 1925, the company reports net earnings of $4,102,669, after all expenses and estimated reserves for Federal taxes, against $6,597,709 net reported in the first half of last year. After crediting other income, and allowing for interest and depreciation charges, the company reported net income of $3,446,064, against $5,428,336 last year. The net income for the first half of 1925, after preferred dividend requirements, was equal to $1.01 a share earned on the common stock, or just about sufficient to cover the dividend requirements on the common stock for that period. In the first six months of 1924 the company reported $1.82 a share earned on the common stock.

For the three months ended June 30, 1925, net income, after preferred dividend requirements, was equal to 48 cents a share earned on the common stock, or less than the quarterly dividend requirements of 50 cents a share. This compares with 53 cents a share earned on the common stock in the first quarter of 1925 and 70 cents a share in the second quarter last year.

After payment of dividends on both the common and preferred stocks for the first half of 1925, the company reported a surplus of $41,064, against a surplus of $2,053,336 reported after dividend payments in the first half of 1924.

PHILIPPINE TRADE GROWS.

Islands Have a Favorable Balance of $22,845,140.

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP).—The Philippine Islands closed the last fiscal year with a favorable trade balance of $22,845,140, more than half of the imports and approximately three-quarters of the export trade being with the United States.

A cablegram from Governor General Wood to the War Department placed the year's imports at $117,231,665, and exports at $140,076,805, an increase in imports over the year before of approximately $22,000,000 and in exports of $10,500,000.

Sugar led among the exports, with 477,000 tons shipped, or an increase of 130,000 tons over the preceding year.

Paper Company Must Pay $2,000,000.

BOSTON, July 24 (AP).—By a decree handed down by Judge Lowell in Federal court today the American Writing Paper Company of Holyoke was ordered to pay $2,000,000 to the Old Colony Trust Company within five days. If the money is not paid, the decree said, the Excello Mills of the company at Excello, Ohio, will be sold, the proceeds to go toward payment of taxes, water rents and assessments.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Standard Bank Forum met yesterday, and Harry Ernst spoke on "Corporations."

Jerome B. Sullivan, partner in the firm of Jerome B. Sullivan & Co., and Lieutenant Colonel in the National Guard, has gone to the Seagirt camp to assume his duties for the next thirty days as chief signal officer.

The Seaboard National Bank of the City of New York has been appointed transfer agent of Class C preferred stock of the Metropolitan Edison Company.

The National Bank of Commerce in New York trust department has ready for delivery $1,500,000 Lockhart Power Company first mortgage sinking fund gold bonds 5½% series, due 1950, in exchange for temporary bonds.

STEAMSHIP CONCERN TO ADD TO COMMON

Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Will Raise Shares to 300,000 of No Par Value.

Directors of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Company yesterday called a special stockholders' meeting for Aug. 24 to approve an increase in the authorized common stock from 200,000 to 300,000 shares and to change the stock from shares of $100 par value to shares with no par value. The company proposes to offer 49,878 shares of the new stock to shareholders at $40 a share, one share for each three shares now held. The right to subscribe expires on Aug. 28. The offering has been underwritten by Hayden, Stone & Co. The unissued authorized stock will be held in the company's treasury.

It was announced yesterday that Franklin D. Mooney, President of the copany, has been elected President of the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Company (the Ward Line). According to a statement by the company, "this marks another step in the plans of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies to bring back the Ward Line to the parent company, which owns practically all of its capital stock and has arranged to acquire the entire outstanding bond issue, with the exception of a few which they are unable to locate. Satisfactory arrangements have been made with the creditors of the Ward Line company to assure them the payment of their claims in full, part of which has been deferred for a number of years. This arrangement was made possible by the fact that the Ward Line during the past few months has shown a satisfactory operating profit."

It was pointed out further that during the receivership for the Ward Line economies were instituted which will be of permanent advantage, and the line's two largest passenger and freight vessels have just been reconditioned and their earnings are expected to add materially to income.

The statement declared that since Mr. Mooney assumed the Presidency of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies its financial affairs have progressed steadily through the repayment of the $6,000,000 bank loans, the gradual reduction of the company's funded debt, the record of 1924, which showed a profit of $1,354,000, after two years of heavy deficits, and the recent announcements of a building program by which the company acquired four modern fast combination freight and passenger vessels now in coastwise service.

DRY GOODS KEEPS ITS LEAD.

Past Week Again Surpasses 1924 Week in All Lines.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale drygoods trade, say: "Current wholesale distribution of drygoods was well in excess both of last week's volume and that of the corresponding week a year ago.

"Road sales showed a considerable increase over the figure of a week ago and exceeded that of the same period last year as well.

"There were more customers in market than during the corresponding period in 1924.

"Collections were about the same as for the same week last year."

HUPP MOTOR PROFITS.

Net of $1,284,757 Shown for the Quarter Ended June 30.

The Hupp Motor Car Company reports net profit of $1,284,757 for the three months ended June 30, after all expenses and charges including taxes. This figure includes $374,519 received from the sale of plant assets. The net was equal to $1.40 a share earned on the $9,139,090 common stock of $10 a share par value outstanding and compares with 31 cents a share earned on the common stock in the second quarter last year.

For the half year ended June 30, net profits after all deductions amounted to $2,137,720 against $690,206 in the first half of 1924. The net profit for this half year was equal to $2.33 a share earned on the common stock, against 74 cents a share earned in the first half of 1924.

Canario Copper Assets $1,860,071.

The financial statement of the Canario Copper Company as of July 15, issued yesterday, shows current assets of $1,860,071, consisting of $1,200,500 in cash and $659,571 accounts receivable. There are no liabilities other than capital stock. Total assets are $22,483,120.

AUGUST MATURITIES TOTAL $30,855,810

Amount Is Small Compared With That of July—Little Financing Will Be Required.

MANY FOREIGN ISSUES DUE

British Columbia, Manitoba, Argentine Bonds to Be Redeemed—Toledo Utility Biggest Corporate Issue.

A comparatively small amount of bonds and notes will mature in August, according to figures compiled yesterday, showing a sharp decrease from the total of the present month. Little financing will be required to pay off the August maturities. The total of all classes of issues which will fall due next month is $30,855,810, against $160,069,820 in July and $26,376,620 in August, 1924.

In addition to corporation issues there are several foreign issues maturing here next month, including $3,000,000 British Columbia 6s due Aug. 1, $1,200,000 Province of Manitoba 6s due Aug. 16, and $20,000,000 Argentine Nation six months 4¼ per cent. notes due Aug. 25.

The largest and most important corporation maturity in August is Toledo Traction, Light and Power Company $6,271,500 three-year 6 per cent. bonds due Aug. 1, for which payment has already been provided. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has $2,099,100 convertible 6 per cent. bonds maturing Aug. 1. These bonds are convertible into common stock, par for par, on payment of $6 per share in cash, with adjustment of interest and dividends. The bonds were issued Aug. 1, 1918, in an amount of $50,000,000, and about $48,000,000 have been converted. It is probable that the bulk of the remaining bonds will be converted before Aug. 1.

Following is a list of the corporate maturities in August, 1925, as compiled by Dow, Jones & Co.:

PLAN NEW RAILROAD IN SOUTHERN STATES

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—A plan for an extensive line of new railroad through Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky was filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Florence, Clifton & Paducah Railroad Company, an Alabama corporation. The projected main line would be 225 miles long, with terminals at Florence, Ala., and Paducah, Ky. A twenty-five mile branch in Tennessee from Wayne to Savannah was proposed as a part of the plan.

Financing of the construction cost would be accomplished by the sale of bonds, but no estimates of the cost were included.

Florence, Ala., is adjacent to the Muscle Shoals power development project, while Paducah, the other terminus, connects with several railroads, including the Burlington, Illinois Central, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis and the Paducah & Illinois.

The application for permission to build set forth that A. P. Campbell of Florence is President of the company and most of the other officers named are residents of that city. The purpose was given as "the building of a new line of railroad in a district that is almost entirely without railroad facilities."

Inquiry among railroad men here yesterday failed to disclose what, if any, interest the larger roads with which connections are planned by the new project may have in backing the proposed construction. Guesses varied widely, including the Illinois Central and the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, the Southern Railway and the Louisville & Nashville.

The fact that provision for financing the new line is contained in the application to the Interstate Commerce Commission indicates, in the opinion of many officials, that plans for the project are in definite shape.

PLAN $20,000,000 ISSUE.

Officials Deny Reports of Objections to Trumbull Steel Bonds.

The National City Company is proceeding with plans for an issue of $20,000,000 bonds of the Trumbull Steel Company, regardless of rumors that objections to the financing has been made by some directors of the company, it was learned yesterday. Negotiations for the bond sale have been carried on in New York by Jonathan Warner, President of the steel company, and officials of the National City Company.

Reports of dissension in the company were contained in dispatches from Youngstown, Ohio, but both Mr. Warner and Stanley Russell, Vice President of the National City Company, said that the reports were unfounded and that the principal directors of the steel company were working in harmony for the bond issue.

It is expected that the bonds will be offered for public subscription early next week. The terms and prices have not been announced.

Curb Membership Transfers.

The New York Curb Market Association yesterday announced the following transfers in Exchange memberships: C. E. Stanley Bellows Jr. to Charles P. Warwick of Laird, Bissell & Meeds; Ezra R. Frost Jr. to Philip G. Cammann of Pearl & Co., and Ernest H. Riehl to Barney Peck. Alger Perrill of Alger Perrill & Co. was elected to associate membership.

Philadelphia Net Earnings Less.

The Philadelphia Company, a holding company for utility properties, reports June gross earnings of $4,541,321, as compared with $4,467,981 in 1924. Net after taxes, but before interest and other deductions, was $1,103,352, against $1,128,217. Six months' net was $9,889,005, against $9,134,349 in the same period of 1924.

Commercial Investment Assets.

The June 30 balance sheet of the Commercial Investment Trust Corporation shows current assets of $57,085,589, compared with current liabilities of $29,110,380.

MIDSUMMER SLUMP IS LESS APPARENT

Business Reviews Report More Activity for This Period Than Last Year.

Increased trade activity and generally firmer prices are reported in the weekly business reviews to be issued today by R. G. Dun & Co. and Bradstreet's. Much less of the midsummer contraction of activity is apparent at this time than last year. Filling in orders, it is reported, make up the current buying from jobbers, but a good volume of forward orders is indicated by reports of shipments of Fall goods. These advices are confirmed by heavy increases in miscellaneous and less-than-carload lot loadings over one year ago.

R. R. Dun & Co.'s review today will say:

"More firmness in commodity prices, relatively large demands in various trades, and an improvement in sentiment are distinctive phases of the current business situation. Despite seasonal restraints, operations in certain lines, as in steel, textiles, footwear and hides, are broadening, while the position of different sellers is strengthened as markets become steadier or tend upward. Narrow profit margins continue to occasion complaint in some industries, but for eight consecutive weeks advances in wholesale quotations have predominated and more than one-half of this week's increases in Dun's list are in other articles than foodstuffs. Among the commodities which have recently reached higher levels are copper, lead, zinc, tin and hides.

"With the closer balance that exists between production and consumption, buyers find fewer offerings available at concessions and in numerous instances can only obtain supplies by raising bids. No scarcity of goods is indicated, however, and purchases are still mainly for moderate-sized lots to cover immediate or early needs."

Bradstreet's today will say:

"The seemingly contradictory report as to general trade is that it is of Summer quietness, but that at the same time it exceeds a year ago at this date by a good margin.

"Industry, generally speaking, is no more active than in recent weeks, but at the same time is considerably better off than a year ago. Building, which made a new high record for a half year in a majority of the country's cities, New York being a prominent exception, is with its related lines about the most active of the so-called constructive trades. Rubber manufacturing is at capacity, stimulated by the advance in raw material.

"Cheerfulness in the tone of predictions as to the outlook for Fall trade is a predominant feature, but this is interspersed with caution, where, as in parts of the Southwest, drought has destroyed early and curtailed some of the late crops. Advances in money rates took the edge off the stock market early in the week, but a rally occurred later as money supplies increased. Exchange markets are not greatly changed, except that Scandinavian and Danish rates are firmer. French exchange seems stabilized.

EXCHANGE ANNOUNCES PARTNERSHIP CHANGES

Two Stock Firms to Dissolve—New Members Admitted to Other Concerns.

The New York Stock Exchange issued the following notice yesterday regarding proposed changes in partnerships, and new and proposed partnerships:

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

(Reported by United States Department of Agriculture, Jersey City, and Sixtieth Street, New York City.)

CATTLE—Offerings consisted of 50 head; 1,400-pound average Virginias, $11.50, day's top. Cattle similar feed and origin brought largely $8.90 to $11.25; lighter weights, rather than grade, influencing declining figures. Very plain lighter weights, $7.50; lower grades, 25 to 35 cents lower. Cows and bulls about steady.

Live Stock Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Shippers took practically 50 per cent. of today's receipts of 16,000 hogs and, with the smaller run, prices advanced 10 to 15 cents to a top of $14.50, while the day's average was 10 cents higher, at $13.70. Best selected butchers brought the top figure, which was within 25 cents of the high point of the year and 10 cents better than a week ago. So far this week arrivals have been 100,000 and, after allowing for 4,000 for Saturday, the week's receipts will be the third smallest of the year. Lambs were strong to 15 cents higher, with a top on rangers of $15.50. Best natives sold at $14.75. Aged sheep were weak and 25 to 50 cents lower, with medium and heavy ewes leading the decline. Receipts were 12,000. Cattle sold mainly at former prices. The quality was plain and demand slow. No choice steers were offered. Receipts were 2,500.

NEW FINANCE PLAN IS PUT INTO EFFECT

SHARES TO BE EXCHANGED

The Concern's Earnings for the Year Ended June 30 Were the Largest in Its History.

The plan of the General Gas and Electric Corporation to retire its bonded debt and improve the capital structure was declared operative yesterday. A new company has been formed under the laws of Delaware with the same name.

When the corporation was originally organized all classes of preferred stock participated in earnings after common dividends. Under the plan now approved by the stockholders, Class A and Class B preferred stockholders will take the equivalent in the shares of the Delaware corporation, bearing the same dividends but not being participating.

In exchange for the participating rights of the present stock, Class B preferred holders will receive four participating certificates per share of present stock, which will entitle them to the same distribution that they would receive on their old stock. Four shares of stock in the new corporation are to be issued for each of the present shares of convertible preferred and common.

Each share of the convertible preferred stock of the predecessor, or Maine corporation, is to receive four shares of common stock, Class A, of the Delaware or new corporation, entitled to dividends at the rate of $1.50 a share before any dividends are paid on the common. It is also to share pro rata with the common and participating certificates in any distribution after the common stock has received $1.50 a share.

Each share of common stock of the Maine corporation will receive four shares of common in the Delaware corporation, which is entitled to receive $1.50 a share per year before any additional payments are made on the Class A shares or the participating certificates, and is entitled to an equal pro rata distribution of additional amounts declared as dividends after it has received $1.50 a share.

The corporation's consolidated earnings statement for the year ended June 30 shows operating revenue and other income of $20,400,252. Net operating income was $6,806,815 and net income $2,916,989. These earnings are the largest in the history of the company.

Holland Issue Oversubscribed.

Blair & Co., Inc., have received a cable from Pierson & Co., Amsterdam, stating that the subscription books on the City of Cologne issue closed yesterday and that the $2,000,000 bonds reserved for that market were oversubscribed. Associated with Pierson & Co. in the Holland offering were Nederlandsche Handel-Maatschappij, Mendelssohn & Co. and R. Mees & Zoonen.

Refiners Drop Spot Sugar Price.

The American Sugar Refining Company, National Sugar Refining Company, E. Atkins & Co., and the McCahan Sugar Refining Company, all reduced the price of refined granulated sugar to 5.25 cents a pound yesterday for spot delivery.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities in the New York market, unless otherwise noted, were:

WHEAT MAKES GAIN ON BAD CROP TALK

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Bullish crop reports from the American and Canadian Northwest, with Murray's returns confirming reports of deterioration this side of the international line, combined with the development of export business in hard Winters at the seaboard and gulf, disclosed a heavily oversold condition. While the best prices were not maintained, the close was at net gains of 1⅝ to 2⅛ cents after a range of 5¼ to 5¾ for the day.

The lowest prices were made shortly after the opening on selling credited to foreign accounts. A leading local operator came in on a large line of short wheat and helped to absorb the "pit" surplus. The "pit" element went short on the early break and covered on the advance.

Murray estimates the Spring wheat crop at 255,000,000, or 21,000,000 less than the Government's July 1 returns; the losses from heat and rust he figures more than offset the sharp advance in the par yield. He estimates the Winter wheat crop around 405,000,000 bushels, making a total of Spring and Winter of 660,000,000 bushels, or 10,000,000 above the disappearance of the past three years. Last year the total crop was 873,000,000.

There were sales of 300,000 bushels of old crop hard Winters for Baltimore, said to have been made at 19 cents over Chicago September, and St. Louis sold 40,000 bushels. Total sales in all positions, including hard Winters, Springs, durums and Manitobas, aggregated 550,000 to 650,000 bushels. There was talk of business in new crop Winters, but no quantities were given and local operators could not confirm the report.

A private cable from Paris reported a wonderful crop of wheat and oats in Northern France, with little or no damage from recent storms. It is estimated by some foreigners that import requirements of wheat by Europe will be only 8,000,000 bushels per week for the 1925-26 season, while some estimate 10,000,000 bushels will be required.

Local elevator interests are making contract wheat for delivery on July sales and there were 230,000 bushels sold to go to store. The spot basis today was firm. A good demand was reported at St. Louis and Kansas City.

Liverpool closed 2 to 2⅛ cents lower on reports of rain in Canada and on better weather for harvesting in France.

Primary arrivals were 1,890,000 bushels; week ago, 1,374,000; last year, 1,700,000. Shipments were 922,000 bushels; week ago, 636,000; last year, 749,000.

Export business in new crop corn so far this season has been very limited.

Primary arrivals were 470,000 bushels; week ago, 342,000; last year, 865,000, and shipments, 749,000 bushels; week ago, 358,000; last year, 519,000.

Oats closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher and rye 1 cent higher.

LOSS IS 10 TO 12 POINTS

Dry Weather Still Reported From Southwest—Labor News Forces Liverpool Down.

The cotton market continued nervous and excited yesterday, following the unexpectedly low Washington report of the previous day. Under a continuation of speculative short covering and new buying a sharp advance of half a cent carried the list into new high ground and 15 points above high records of Thursday. This ran October above 25 cents, where the market met an increased supply of contracts, and prices not only reacted 30 points near the close but ended the day at a loss of 10 to 12 points.

Dry weather continued in the Southwest, no station in Texas reporting any moisture and only a few points in Oklahoma receiving showers. In Arkansas light precipitation occurred over a widely scattered area, while similar conditions prevailed in Georgia. Both States report dry conditions now needed for the best progress of the plant. Predictions were for fair weather throughout the entire region west of the river, with local thunder showers in sections of the eastern belt.

Though Liverpool advanced 10 English points at the opening, selling pressure developed as a result of disturbing labor news and a loss of 20 points occurred in foreign prices before the close. The failure of Liverpool to meet the rapid rise on this side following the Government report caused realizing on the opening here and prices broke about $2 a bale. October sold at 24.55 on the call, compared with 24.95 high levels of the previous day. After halting under nervous and irregular fluctuations for an hour, predictions of continued dry weather in Texas and Oklahoma and absence of any relief in drought sections started a resumption of aggressive buying. As order after order for the purchase of five to ten thousand bales was executed all contracts for sale were absorbed at advancing quotations. A sudden rush swept the list into new high territory for the movement, and when October crossed 25 cents buying orders aggregating 15,000 bales ran the price to 25.10. This represented an advance of $8 a bale above quotations prevailing immediately preceding the Government report.

Suspender Sales Increasing.

Suspender manufacturers are profiting by an increased demand for their merchandise, young men especially contributing to the improvement in conditions. The styles that are in most demand are of the fancy, colored variety, and are made of non-elastic webbing. Wide trousers are held chiefly responsible for the returning popularity of suspenders, since the latter aid trousers in hanging properly. Some attribute the trend to the high-waisted trousers now being worn. Health considerations also enter in, it is said, since suspenders do not bind as belts do. The wide belt, however, is still being worn extensively by young men, according to some manufacturers. These belts are preferred in fancy colors or in imitation alligator leather. Trouser manufacturers are making belt loops wider in expectation of a continuance of this style.

Lace Men Optimistic.

Although lace importers are confident that they will experience a good Fall season, owing to the increased use of the article on dresses, the increased buying thus far has failed to materialize to any great extent. White and dark ochre lace are preferred, the latter shade being expected to maintain the popularity which it experienced during the past season. Although great headway is being made by American lace manufacturers, most of the material used is still imported, it is said. Embroideries are very quiet, as yet, with the exception of those used for baby dresses.

A Preference for Chesterfields.

Reflecting the growing popularity of double-breasted coats is the inclination on the part of well-dressed men to adopt dinner jackets of this style, according to men's wear authorities. It is also pretty well established that Chesterfields will loom large on the style horizon. It is said that college men have shown a preference toward this style of coat for occasions that demand "dressing up." Velvet collars being worn to emphasize the formality of their appearance. Homespuns are also in evidence, according to style authorities, but Chesterfields are more popular, and it is predicted that coats of this type will be worn extensively by well-dressed men during the coming season.

Price Rise May Hurt Trade.

The week's sharp rise in cotton has been received with mingled feelings in the export end of the cotton goods trade, for, while it will give the mills a reason for asking more for their goods, it may have the effect of cutting down business in those markets in which current quotations on the merchandise sent to them were the determining factor in orders coming to this country. This is especially true in connection with the Chinese and Near Eastern markets, where there has been a revival of buying of American gray drills and sheetings because of the ability of mills in this country temporarily to undersell their foreign competitors. The rise in the staple, while it may affect trade with other markets to some extent, is not expected seriously to curtail business with West Indian and Latin-American countries. Business from those sources has been coming in steadily of late.

Gray Goods Trading Active.

Gray goods were very active in this market yesterday, with buyers particularly wanting printcloths. Large sales of the following construction were reported for July-August delivery: 39-inch 80-square, 12½ cents; 39-inch 72-76s, 11½ cents; 39-inch 68-72s, 10½ cents, and 38½-inch 64-60s, 9⅝ cents. In most cases asking prices are now a quarter of a cent higher for these deliveries. Near-by lots of 38½-inch 60-48s were reported cleaned up at 8 cents. For sheetings buyers paid 9½ cents for 37-inch 48-square, four-yards; 8 cents for 36-inch five-yard goods, and 7⅜ cents for 36-inch 5.50s. In the specialties some active trading in sateens was reported, including substantial sales of 37½-inch 64-104s at 12 cents.

Afraid It Would Burn.

The sensational rise of rayon during the last two years is illustrated by the experience of one large woolen goods producing company. About three years ago, the manager of the women's textile division of this company broached the subject of wool and artificial silk fabrics to the company's superintendent of mills. The latter was opposed to the new textile material. "What, that stuff! Why, the mills would burn up if we took it in." Eventually he was overruled, and today "that stuff" is being woven with wool in half of the company's mills, the resultant fabrics proving extremely profitable numbers. No fires have yet been reported.

Are Watching Rubber Market.

Not for many years, if ever before, have both wholesale and retail buyers of rubbers, boots, and galoshes kept their eyes on the crude rubber market more closely than in the last several weeks. The result has been, so far as the retailers are concerned, that business has been turned in more rapidly than is ordinarily the case, and deliveries, as a rule, are being accepted somewhat earlier. The jobbers, while apparently not plunging on merchandise in anticipation of price advances at the end of the year, are expecting them and "keeping an ear to the ground." Indications are that the rise in rubber will result in higher prices for rubber-soled canvas footwear in the near future.

British, Scotch and Irish Cloths.

Six new woolen lines of English, Scotch and Irish manufacturers will be opened next Monday at the offices of Antony Gibbs and Company, Inc. at 25 Broadway. The lines, which will be shown by appointment, are those of Martin Mahony and Brothers, Ltd., Blarney, Ireland, whose offering consists of tweed novelties for men's wear and women's tailored costumes; Adam Patersen and Sons, Ltd., Haddington, Scotland, who offer homespuns for cap, cloak and suit and men's wear trades; W. E. Yates, Ltd., Leeds, whose line comprises fancy worsteds for the men's wear trade; John H. Foster and Son, Ltd., Braford and London, whose offering consists of llama cloth, appropriate for the cloak and suit trade and also for the lighter weights of men's wear; J. E. Crowther, Ltd., Huddersfield, whose line contains popular priced goods for the men's wear trade, and Henry Mason, Ltd., Shipley, who offer straight tropical and twist cloths, gabardines and serges, suitable for men's wear in Summer.

Hard Coal in Good Demand.

There is a good demand for anthracite at or near the circular price, Saward's Journal will say today, but the retail trade is conservative about paying premiums. This is because the dealers are buying for storage rather than to meet the urgent demands of consumers. Nobody seems to be much wrought up over the strike outlook. It has brought about quite a sharp revival in the retail demand, but the fact that orders are being promptly filled tends to allay immediate fears. The scare will come when people find that they cannot get coal. The bituminous market is plainly on the mend, so far as the amount of buying is concerned.

Works Novel Advertising Stunt.

Many novel advertising stunts have been worked from time to time, but one of an unusual and relatively inexpensive nature has just been got out by a local ready-to-wear concern. It consists of a key with a mailing tag attached to it, on the order of the return tag that experience has taught hotel proprietors to fasten to their room keys, which is mailed to prospective buyers of the merchandise made by the concern. On one side of the tag is the address of the recipient, while on the other is the advertisement of the manufacturer with the slogan, "This is the key to our showroom." The key is a "blank," but that does not detract from the effectiveness of the stunt.

COTTON SALE AIDS CHARITY.

The first bale of the 1925 Georgia cotton crop received here was auctioned for charity soon after the close of business on the New York Cotton Exchange yesterday. The staple brought a record price of 58 cents a pound and was bid in by Samuel T. Hubbard Jr., Vice President of the Exchange and a member of the firm of Hubbard Bros. & Co. The bale will be immediately shipped to the Liverpool Cotton Association, where it will again be auctioned for charity.

Edward E. Bartlett Jr., former President of the Cotton Exchange, was the auctioneer. The first offer was 30 cents a pound and bidding at times was so spirited that Miss Christine Ladd, the auctioneer's secretary, had difficulty in keeping track of it. Gardiner H. Miller and Thomas J. Beauchamp ran the price up to 56 cents a pound, but declined to raise Mr. Hubbard's bid of 58 cents.

A second bale, the first of this year's Florida crop and consigned to Bond-McEnany & Co., was also auctioned and went to Mr. Beauchamp for 50 cents a pound. The two bales were on exhibition in front of the Cotton Exchange Building before the sale.

LIVERPOOL'S COTTON WEEK.

British Stocks Decrease 30,000 Bales—Imports Also Down.

LIVERPOOL, July 24.—Weekly cotton statistics are as follows: British stocks, 688,000 bales, against 718,000 bales a week ago, 739,000 bales two weeks ago and 474,000 bales a year ago, of which American 414,000 bales, against 449,000 bales a week ago, 478,000 two weeks ago and 188,000 bales a year ago. Imports, 27,000 bales, against 47,000 bales a week ago, of which American 5,000 bales, against 17,000 bales the week before.

Forwarded, 54,000 bales, against 58,000 bales the preceding week, of which American 38,000 bales, against 40,000 bales. Exports, 3,000 bales, against 10,000 bales the week before, of which American, 2,000 bales, against 6,000 bales. Sales, 21,000 bales, against 20,000 bales a week ago, of which American 10,000 bales, against 11,000 bales.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Most Foodstuffs Are Higher Than at This Time Last Year.

Although Dun's current list of wholesale commodities prices shows more advances than declines, the excess of the former over the latter is smaller than in recent weeks. Only sixty items in a list of more than 300 were revised, and of these changes thirty-five were upward. Last week, in seventy-three revisions, forty-two advances were seen. In none of the individual groups was there marked numerical strength or weakness.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

*Nominal.

More than a third of all the changes were again confined to the foodstuffs, where twenty-three revisions were seen. Of these twelve were upward, but at least four of them occurred in unimportant articles. In the local market for provisions Middle Western lard was lower, hams were higher, but bacon did not change. All of the listed varieties of flour were cheaper. A drop of 40 cents a barrel was seen in Spring patent, and declines of 10 and 5 cents a barrel, respectively, took place in Winter soft straight and in the family grade of fancy Minnesota flour. At Chicago live hogs were lower, with mess pork and live sheep unchanged. The advances took place in short ribs and live steers.

The only change in the dairy products was a rise of 4 cents a dozen in fancy near-by eggs. The rise represents the margin between last year's price and this year's. The entire list is higher than it was a year ago.

Neither the fresh nor the dried fruits showed change, but some marked revisions again took place in the vegetables. A rise of $1.25 a barrel occurred in potatoes, which are now held at $5.50, against $2.25 a year ago. A rise of 25 cents a barrel in cabbage and a decline of 50 cents a bag in turnips also occurred. Choice marrow and choice pea beans were lower.

The only changes in the beverages were a rise in No. 1 Rio coffee and a decline in No. 4 Santos. The spices showed advances in mace, nutmegs, black Lampong pepper and white Singapore pepper. Fine granulated sugar dropped, but there was no reduction in the best listed raw sugar. Blackstrap molasses declined.

No. 1 hay was the only item in the grains list to show a rise. Declines took place in wheat, corn, oats and rye. Advances in No. 1 native packer, No. 1 Texas and Colorado stock were the only changes in hides list this week, with leather bare of revision either way. Tallow went up.

Five of the seven changes in the metals were upward. The advances were seen in No. 28 black sheets, furnace coke, zinc, lead and tin. The declines took place in iron bars and in ordinary antimony. Lumber prices were unchanged for the week.

Features of importance were lacking in changes in the drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils, of which six were upward and four were declines. In the naval stores were seen a further rise in resin and a drop in turpentine. Crude rubber continued to mount sharply, and both the Brazilian and plantation grades were higher than a week ago. In the miscellaneous changes were a decline in hemp and advances in jute and No. 1 old paper mixture pulp.

Not much feature was seen in the dry goods list this week. In the cotton goods the rise in the staple brought with it some higher prices on unfinished goods, but it has as yet had no real bearing on prices of the finished fabrics. In the burlaps an easing off at Calcutta was reflected in lower prices here.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Announcement was made yesterday of the adoption by the Board of Directors of the W. & J. Sloane Manufacturing Company of a name for its new line of linoleum. It is "W. & J. Sloane Linoleum." Work is progressing so rapidly on the company's plant at Trenton, N. J., that it is expected that merchandise will be ready for sale in small quantities soon after Jan. 1.

The Smith-Roberts Company of Griffin, Ga., outfitters of women and children, has been incorporated with a paid-in, all-cash capital of $30,000, with M. F. Smith as President. The incorporators were all formerly connected with the Griffin Mercantile Company. The store will open on Sept. 1 and will carry a widely diversified line of apparel and accessories. Miss L. Jackson, buyer, will make her headquarters in this city with Charles Robertson, resident buyer, 141 West Thirty-sixth Street.

New Classifications for Buyers' Wants and Offerings to Buyers

Beginning Monday, August 3rd, a re-classification of announcements will increase the value of the Wholesale Market Page to readers and advertisers.

Under Buyers' Wants there will be two general captions—"Standard Merchandise which can be re-ordered" and "Close Outs." Each of these will be followed by sub-headings: Coats, Suits, Dresses, Cotton Goods, Furs, Silks, Woolens and Miscellaneous.

Under Offerings to Buyers there will be a new general classification of "Manufacturers, Mill Agents and Converters, Standard Merchandise which can be re-ordered." And a new general heading of "Close Outs." Each of these to be followed by the subheads named above.

The purpose of this new arrangement is to separate limited offerings from those of Manufacturers, Mill Agents and Converters who offer standard lines of goods.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

NEW INTERESTS BUY ROCKAWAY PARK INN

Property With 200-Foot Broadway Frontage One of Three Unrestricted Parcels.

COUNTRY ESTATES IN SALES

New Yorker Purchases "The Moorings," Long Beach, for Summer Occupancy.

The S. Lichterman Agency sold to Philadelphia and Atlantic City interests the Rockaway Park Inn Property, owned by the Cova Real Estate Company, Inc. This parcel is one of three parcels located on the Boardwalk at Rockaway Park, which can be used for business purposes and which is unrestricted. It fronts 200 feet on the Boardwalk, running from the east side of Beach 116th Street to the west side of Beach 115th Street, and running north from the Boardwalk 220 feet on each street, making a total area of 44,000 square feet, for hotel and other purposes. The property was held at $525,000.

The William L. Peck Realty Company sold about 100 lots on both sides of 201st Street, between Jamaica Avenue and Hillside Avenue, Hollis, L. I., to Frederick H. Elermann. The property was held at $100,000. Present plans are to develop the property with one-family detached Colonial homes. The brokers, Ramsay & Son, also sold for Moeller and Wonnberger, one-family detached home on 211th Street, Bellaire Park, Hollis, to Charles Ardell.

The following Woodmere, L. I., sales were effected through the office of L. M. & A. Bloch: The J. & J. Construction Company purchased two corner plots, one 80 by 125 feet on West Broadway, and the other 50 by 110 feet on Henley Road. Both will be improved with one-family private residences. R. Campo bought the corner plot 80 by 100 feet, West Broadway & Haddon Road, and an additional plot 50 by 115 feet on Haddon Road for improvement with two brick Colonial houses.

Glen Ridge (N. J.) Residence Sold.

F. M. Crawley & Bros. sold the Colonial residence on the west side of Ridgewood Avenue, between Bay Avenue and Baldwin Street, Glen Ridge, to C. D. Newell. The residence is two and one-half stories, stucco construction and contains twelve rooms and four bathrooms. The property has a frontage of 118 feet and extends 220 feet in depth. It was held at $60,000. Mr. Newell contemplates taking possession of his new home Aug. 15.

Robert W. Thompson sold to Miss Isabella Stone, vocal artist, a plot of ground overlooking the Palisades, near Palisades Park, N. J., on which she will erect a bungalow for her own occupancy. The broker was G. Tuoti & Co.

Bowles & Co. and Charles Rosenberg have sold about 400 lots in Teaneck, N. J., to Benjamin B. Zimmerman. The lots are the unsold portion of Manhattan Heights and Prospect Heights, which was developed by Mr. Selvage some years ago. Most of the property lies on Forest Avenue and streets adjacent. The sale was made for Mrs. Katherine Selvage, the widow of the original developer. The new owner has bought the property as an investment.

West Chester Estate In Sale.

Former Judge Edward Swann sold his property known as "Bubble Brook" situated at Scarborough-on-Hudson, containing six acres of land, together with residence of fourteen rooms and four baths. There is also a stable, garage and cottage. It was held at $50,000 and the purchaser is T. B. Lyon, of New York City. William H. Oliver was the broker.

William T. Burke, sales agent, of Pelham Parkway Gardens, being developed by the Five Boroughs Realty Company, Edwin Gould, president, has made the following sales:

To Charles L. Perret a seven room dwelling and garage on the southwest corner of Astor and Wickham Avenues. The property was held at $17,000; to Frank E. Morgen, a New York lawyer, six room dwelling and garage on the north side of Astor Avenue, between Wickham and Delanoy Avenues. The property held at $15,000.

Mr. Burke also sold three lots on the east side of Lodovick Avenue to Leighton J. O'Brien who adds this new parcel to his present holdings and to Alice I. Croft, four lots on the west side of Lodovick Avenue.

The same broker also sold for Patrick Hanlon, four lots on the west side of Kingsland Avenue to Philip Heaton who plans the erection of a seven room dwelling and garage for occupancy in the fall.

Tier, Fallon & Kyle Co. has sold to Roberts & Rubnitz the property at 212-214 South Fulton Avenue, Mount Vernon, adjoining the new theatre now being erected at the corner of South Fulton Avenue and East Third Street.

New Yorker Buys "The Moorings."

E. B. Adams of E. F. Hutton & Co., bought for summer occupancy from E. J. Lucas "The Moorings," a twelve room colonial house on an acre plot, at Lucas Point, Sound Beach, Conn. The property is on the waterfront and has its own pier which Mr. Adams will extend to accomodate yacht landings. It was held for $45,000 and was sold through the office of Raymond B. Thompson.

PRIVATE HOUSE SALES.

Alice Chapin Adoption Nursery Buys West Side Residence.

The Alice Chapin Adoption Nursery bought from Katherine C. Morehouse the 25 by 100 foot dwelling at 444 West Twenty-second Street, between Ninth and Tenth Avenues, for the permanent home of that organization. The property was held at $35,000. Edmund Yard represented the former owner and Peter Grimm represented the Nursery.

Pingpank & Greene sold for Dr. Bernard McBride 338 West 120th Street, a three story and basement dwelling.

Edward Swann has sold to V. Green Company, 80 East Ninetieth Street, a four story and basement dwelling on lot 17.8x100.8, near Park Avenue.

Nathaniel S. Schiff has purchased from the Natwill Construction Company, 42 East Sixty-fourth Street, a four story and basement residence, on lot 17x100. The house contains fifteen rooms and five baths.

RITZ TOWERS LEASED.

One thousand dollars a day will be the rental received by Arthur Brisbane from the Ritz-Carlton Hotel interests for the thirty-story apartment hotel being erected by the editor at the northeast corner of Park Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street.

The structure, which is to be known as the Ritz Tower, will be 400 feet high. It is expected to be ready early next year, and the lease to the Ritz interests begins May 1 next, running for twenty-one and one-half years, with an option of ten-year renewals.

The rental is figured on a net basis and will bring in Mr. Brisbane $7,847,500 during the first term.

New Construction Values Increase Over Last Year

Value of proposed construction in the United States is greater than at this time a year ago. The cost situation is favorable to the awarding of new contracts, as the trend has been downward ever since May, 1924. In this period the decline in building costs amounted to 9.2 per cent., with no change whatever in June, 1925. With costs now on a comparatively steady basis, contract letting is expected to show continued activity, the McGraw-Hill Daily Construction News Service reports. In the week just ended the value of work proposed for the entire country was placed at $59,850,000, which compares with $63,150,000 a week ago and $49,625,000 two weeks previous. The total for the week by groups follows: Public works, $14,800,000; schools and churches, $14,100,000; office buildings, $13,200,000; residential projects, $9,000,000; industrial operations, $7,250,000, and theatres, $1,500,000.

NEW YORK SYNDICATE BUYS FLORIDA ACREAGE

Indian River and Ocean Front Land to Be Cut Into Small Lots.

A. A. Lewis, president of the Lewis Homes Company of Manhattan, has organized a syndicate for the purchase of 13,000 acres of Florida land located about eight miles south of Fort Pierce on the Indian River and the Ocean front.

The property will be developed at once and about 5,750 lots will be offered for sale this winter.

The Lewis Homes Company has been identified with many of the large developments including Fenimore Cooper Park, being the property surrounding the Winged Foot Golf Course, and the development of many of the recent country clubs including the ones at Queensboro known as the Laurelton, Lawrence, Pomonok, Flushing, and at Westchester the new courses at Rye, Mount Vernon, Rockwood Hall on the Vanderbilt Estate and the Congressional at Washington and several in New Jersey including the Maplewood and Summit.

Tremont Avenue and Boston Road Multi-Family Properties Change Ownership.

The Rambern Construction Corporation (J. Abrams, President, and I. Bernstein, Secretary and Treasurer) sold their newly completed apartment house at the southwest corner of Vyse and Tremont Avenues, known as Gothic Arms. It occupies a plot about 128 by 104 feet, and consists of fifty-four suites of two and six rooms and eight stores. All apartments and five stores have been leased. The property was held at $375,000.

Maxwell A. Goldfuss sold to Augusta Zelewich the five-story apartment at the northeast corner of Boston Road and Prospect Avenue, 38 by 78.7 by irregular.

Molsam Realty, Inc., purchased the six-story apartment house at 863 and 865 Home Street, 46 by 112 feet, irregular.

The property, 50 by 100 feet, at the southwest corner of Beaumont Avenue and 187th Street, has been sold by Dominic A. Trotta to the M. Brothers and D. Realty Company.

Julius Trattner sold for Dr. A. Landy to G. Cafarelli the two three-story frame dwellings, with a ten-car brick garage, at 403 and 405 East 155th Street. The property adjoins the northeast corner of Melrose Avenue and is built on a plot 50 by 100 feet.

COMMERCIAL LEASES.

Central Manhattan Space in New Business Contracts.

Cross & Brown Company leased space in the new McCutcheon Building, 607-9 Fifth Avenue, to Alfred G. Stein; space in 745 Seventh Avenue to Louis S. Friedman; space in 350-56 West Thirty-first Street to the Sunbean Radio Corporation and Stanwood Electric Specialty Company; space in 1,775 Broadway to Ellis & Van Brunt Company, Inc.; space in 300 Madison Avenue to Daniel P. Doyle; space in 227 West Sixty-fourth Street to Charles M. Van Auken, trading as the Van Auken Sales Company; space in 514-16 West Fifty-seventh Street to Pedeze Chemical Company; space in the Brokaw Building, 1,457 Broadway, to Boggiamo & Lehman; also fifth floor at 624 First Avenue to the General Dye Works.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., leased the store and basement at 821-23 Broadway, northwest corner of Twelfth Street, to Gray Brothers, cotton goods, and in conjunction with Charles M. Hollander, Inc., space in the Greeley Arcade Building, 128-36 West Thirty-first Street and 127-33 West Thirtieth Street, to the Grey Advertising Service.

BUYS WEST SIDE LEASE.

Samuel Hoffman to Erect a Nine-Story Building on Thirty-first St.

Samuel Hoffman has acquired a sixty-three year lease on 23 West Thirty-first Street. The property is 25 feet front and rear by 98.9 in depth.

There is at the present time a semi-improved five-story building on the premises. It is Mr. Hoffman's intention to demolish the present structure, and in its place erect a nine-story fireproof building, with stores on the ground floor and lofts on the upper portion thereof. Abraham Alpert acted as broker in this transaction.

BLOCK FRONT IN SALE.

Long Beach Property Brings $55,000 at Auction.

James R. Murphy, Inc., sold at auction yesterday to the Realty Supply Co., the motion picture theatre, dance hall, billiard parlor and five stores comprising the block front on Beach Street between Vermont Street and Tennessee Avenue in the West End section of Long Beach.

The sale was held at the court house in Mineola. Fifty-seven bids were recorded, the final bid being $36,500 over encumbrances of about $19,000, or a total of somewhat more than $55,000.

Apartment Rentals.

TWO NEW THEATRES FOR BROOKLYN SITES

Court Street Plot Bought for a Skyscraper—2,800-Seat House on Sutter Avenue.

Announcement was made yesterday of two new theatre operations in Brooklyn.

Mountor Realty Corporation purchased through Paul A. Bogossian three four story buildings at 111-113-115 Court St. between Schermerhorn and State Streets. This parcel was held at $300,000. The purchasers will erect a skyscraper office building with a large theatre on the ground floor, A. Lloyd Lott represented the seller, the Court Holding Company, Inc.

Shampan & Shampan, architects, have been commissioned to prepare plans and supervise the construction of a theatre, with a seating capacity of 2,800, to be erected on the plot located on the north side of Sutter Avenue, including the corners of Ralph Avenue and East Ninety-eighth Street, Brooklyn, having an area of about 24,000 square feet. The building will be provided with stores on the Ralph Avenue side and part of the Sutter Avenue side.

It is estimated that the building will cost about $700,000. The site was recently acquired by the Incorporated Parkway Builders, owners, the sale being negotiated by the Riker-J. M. Hoffman Co., Inc. as brokers.

The Multiple Listing Bureau of the Brooklyn Real Estate Board reports the following sales through the Multiple Listing System: By Elwin S. Piper Company, listing broker, in cooperation with Nicholas Catania, of the two and one-half story detached frame residence, 2,428 Sixty-fourth Street, for Harry Hoyer and wife to Giovanni Tancredi for occupancy; by Railey & Barrera of the three story frame building at 2,222-2,224 Surf Avenue for R. Cohen to Nadler Brothers for investment.

HOTEL NORMANDIE SOLD TO BUILDER

A. E. Lefcourt Buys Famous Old Landmark on Broadway Corner.

PLANS 25-STORY STRUCTURE

The Hotel Normandie at the southeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-eighth Street, famous thirty-five years ago as the home of many old New York families, was sold yesterday by the Joseph Fisher estate to A. E. Lefcourt, the builder. Mr. Lefcourt will demolish the old hotel and erect a twenty-five-story building on the site, representing an investment of about $7,500,000.

A monumental building with offices and showroom space for the wearing apparel and kindred trades is planned for the site, which fronts 80 feet on Broadway and 127 feet on Thirty-eighth Street. Louis Haas, associate of Mr. Lefcourt, acted for him in the purchase and will have charge of the construction of the new structure, to be known as the Lefcourt-Normandie Building. The United States Trust Company, as trustee, acted for the Fisher estate.

The Fisher family is selling the property after an ownership dating back to Civil War days. Its sale adds another hostelry to the list of those that have been demolished because trade demanded choice sites for new commercial skyscrapers.

Ferdinand Earl had the Hotel Normandie built for him, and early in 1887 its doors were opened. It was the most exclusive hotel of its day, and for quite some time Governor David B. Hill made his home there. Many other old New York families occupied the luxuriously equipped suites.

The Normandie is the second Broadway hotel that Mr. Lefcourt will soon turn over to the wreckers. He purchased the old Marlboro Hotel in 1922, and on the site of this landmark he has erected the Lefcourt-Marlboro Building with its twenty-four floors all occupied.

A short time later he bought the northeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-ninth Street, and a few months ago, in order to enlarge this corner, he acquired the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre from the Shubert interests, giving him a corner plot of 15,000 square feet, and plans have already been filed with the Building Department for a twenty-five-story building.

$2,000,000 Project Near Hotel Plaza.

As a site for a sixteen-story apartment hotel representing an investment of approximately $2,000,000, the property at 42 to 48 West Fifty-eighth Street was purchased yesterday by Harry Schiff, the builder, from Henry Mandel. Mr. Schiff also announced yesterday that plans were progressing for a twenty-story apartment hotel for the Army & Navy Club site in the same vicinity at 112 Central Park South, estimated to cost $3,500,000.

The site acquired from Mr. Mandel measures 100 by 100 feet, just off Fifth Avenue, and is at present improved with four five-story private residences, which will be demolished to make way for the new improvement. The proposed apartment hotel will be started next Fall, and it is expected will be ready for occupancy in September, 1926.

The property at 112 Central Park South was sold a few months ago by the Army & Navy Club to Mr. Schiff. The site is 75 by 110 feet. Mr. Schiff is now completing a fifteen-story apartment house at 128 Central Park South, giving him three large housing operations in the vicinity of the Hotel Plaza. The Army & Navy Club recently bought for its new home the property of the Delta Pappa Epsilon Club at 30 West Forty-fourth Street, formerly owned by the Yale Club.

The Sigley Realty Company (Sigmund Glatzer, Samuel Beck and Edward Unterman) purchased from Annie Witt Schierloh the four-story tenement with two stores and a rear house at 776 Ninth Avenue, adjoining the southeast corner of Fifty-second Street. Jackson & Co. were the brokers.

The five-story tenement on a lot 25 by 100 feet at 173 East Seventy-fourth Street was sold by the Estate of S. Rosenfeld to Samuel Tanzer. The property was held at $50,000.

The three five-story tentments with four stores, on a plot 45 by 80 feet, at the southwest corner of Fiftieth Street and Second Avenue were sold by the Zittah Realty Co., to a client of Louis Lent. Wehring Bros. were the brokers.

Ludwig and Julian Marx sold to Charles H. Dreyfus 134-6 Eighth Avenue, two four-story tenement buildings with stores, on plot 34 by 60 feet. The property was held at $60,000.

The Jensico Apartment Sold.

The Elrrac Corporation has sold to the Albertina Realty Company the seven-story Jensico apartment house on a plot 48.10 by 102, at 829 West End Avenue, between 100th and 101st streets. The property was sold subject to a mortgage of $140,000.

Cleary & Glynn sold for Frank Bloom a five-story flat with stores at 50 East End Avenue, to Bornstein Realty Corporation.

Wilhelmina Ohlsen sold to John Cavalleri, the five-story tenement at 521 West Fiftieth Street, 25 by 100, held at $30,000. This property has not changed hands in more than 32 years. Ohlson & Co., were the brokers.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—The South Dakota disturbance has advanced to eastern Iowa with slightly decreased intensity, pressure is relatively low over British Columbia and thence southward to Utah and it is also relatively low north of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Pressure continues high in the region of Bermuda and it is relatively high over Saskatchewan and the Dakotas on the North Pacific Coast.

During the last twenty-four hours, scattered showers and thunderstorms have occurred in the upper Mississippi Valley, the upper lake region and along the South Atlantic Coast. It has become warmer over the Southern plains States, the Missouri Valley, while cooler weather has overspread the upper lake region. Elsewhere temperature changes have been unimportant.

The outlook is for showers on Saturday along Lake Erie, on Sunday along Lake Ontario and in Northern New England, and on Saturday and Sunday in portions of the South Atlantic and East Gulf States. Elsewhere the weather will be mostly fair.

Transatlantic Mails Due at New York

Postmaster John J. Kiely announces that the S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON (United States) is due July 31 with mails from Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Egypt, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Lithuania, Netherlands, Portugal, Rumania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

New Foreign Mail Regulations

Germany—Articles paid at the letter rate of postage, addressed for delivery in Germany, containing acceptable dutiable matter, must bear a label showing the following notation: "To be submitted to the customs office. Nature of merchandise.......... Weight........ Value.........." The label must be green in color and not less than 2 2-5 by 1 1-5 inches.

Dutiable articles prepaid at the letter rate must not, however, contain any of those articles prohibited in the regular or parcel post mails to Germany.

French Morocco—The delivery of parcel post packages destined for places in French Morocco is greatly impeded by the incomplete and illegible addresses borne by such articles. It is therefore requested that mailers of parcels destined for places in French Morocco see to it that the address indicated thereon is both clear and complete in order that the parcel may not be delayed in delivery.

Mexico—Coffee plants and their various parts (roots, stems, flowers, and fruits), as well as commercial coffee grains, are prohibited in the regular and parcel post mails to Mexico, unless intended for purposes of study upon previous authorization of the Secretariat of Agriculture and Encouragement.

Tanganyika Territory Parcel Post—Parcel-post packages addressed for delivery in the provinces of Langenburg and Songea, Tanganyika Territory, will be forwarded via Dar-es-Salaam and therefore will be subject to the following transit charges, in addition to postage rate of 14 cents a pound or fraction of a pound; up to 3 pounds, 60 cents; over 3 pounds and up to 7 pounds, $1.08; over 7 pounds and up to 11 pounds, $1.50. Parcels cannot be registered.

WILL ASK M'KELLAR TO FIGHT EVOLUTION

Fundamentalists Will Urge Him to Sponsor Move to Change 'Rider' Into Permanent Law.

WITTNER IS UNDER INQUIRY

Officials Discover He Dropped the Words "So Help Me God" in His Oath of Office.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Fundamentalists will ask Senator Kenneth McKellar and House members of the Tennessee delegation to see to it that the clause in the District of Columbia appropriation bill refusing salaries to teachers who teach "disrespect for the Bible" be made permanent law when Congress meets next Fall.

As Senator McKellar, now on tour with the joint Congressional postal committee, is expected in Washington tomorrow, the anti-evolutionists propose to approach him at once with the demand that he move to have the Senate District of Columbia Committee write the clause into the bill, with the addition of the word "hereafter." Should this lone word be placed in the bill by the committee and the clause then approved by Congress, the provision, say Congressional experts, would remain in the bill for all time, unless repealed by a vote of both houses.

This was the principal development of the day in the new contest between evolution and fundamentalism which has suddenly sprung up in Washington, but woven into the story, which began with the filing of the Wittner suit day before yesterday, came a disclosure this afternoon which startled those following the case.

It was discovered that Laren H. Wittner had thrice stricken from the oaths he took on entering the Treasury service the words "so help me, God," and also the word "swear."

Apparently without precedent, Mr. Wittner's action crossing out with a pen "so help me, God" astonished officials, who said later a special ruling from the Solicitor of the Treasury, or from the Department of Justice, might be necessary to determine the legality of oaths thus amended. It is a serious question, officials say, whether Mr. Wittner is now legally in the Government employ or whether he has been occupying his post without the warrant laid down by the Treasury Department.

Text of Prescribed Oath.

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion. And that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter; so help me, God."

Provision is made in the opening sentence of the oath for using either the words "swear" or "affirm," because certain sects, notably the Society of Friends, are prevented from employing the word "swear." But there is no provision for eliminating the words "so help me, God." Neither James E. Harper, Chief of the Appointment Division of the Treasury, nor William C. Deming, President of the Civil Service Commission, could recall another instance, unless it be that of Walt Whitman, the poet, who was ousted from the Treasury service soon after the Civil War on the grounds that atheistic tendencies were shown in "Leaves of Grass."

"I cannot understand how this matter has escaped our attention," Mr. Harper said. "Evidently it has gone three times through the hands of all those who handle employment papers without being detected. The facts are that the oath is so much a matter of form that any one handling such papers would not be apt to read into the body of it unless for some special reason and consequently would let it slip by.

"This becomes purely a legal question for a ruling by the Solicitor of the Treasury. It is a question as to whether Mr. Wittner had taken the prescribed oath, whether there is a prescribed oath, or whether the oath he took constitutes any oath at all according to law."

All signs still point to the idea that District of Columbia officials are convinced Congress must be the arbiter between evolution and fundamentalism; that it alone shall decide what shall be taught in the schools here. Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens and Major Peyton Gordon, the District Attorney, both expressed the opinion that the case would probably be instantly dismissed by Justice Siddons on Monday and thus it would be thrown into Congress.

Dismissal Will Be Asked.

"The demurrer I will file will, no doubt, cause the case to be immediately dismissed," said Mr. Stephens, adding that he did not expect any witnesses or defendants to be called. Mr. Wittner's confession that he is an atheist will be employed by the Corporation Counsel in citing precedents of the United States Supreme Court that an assailant of a law must prove that he has been or is in danger of being injured by it.

While it cannot be said that the prospect of the hearing has set Washington aflame, and that excitement here is in any way comparable to that at Dayton, still there is great interest, and an accompanying demand for seats. James D. Preston, Superintendent of the Senate Press Gallery, was busy this afternoon laying out arrangements for the newspaper men.

In one way the coming hearing will be entirely different from that at Dayton. Justice Siddons is conservative in his ideas, and vocal pyrotechnics will be absent if the Judge's mind can be read in advance, and no suspenders and no other bizarre male fashions will be permitted in Justice Siddons's court. All inside the courtroom must be fully clothed, and if the Justice has his way, in their right minds.

Congratulations were sent today to Mr. Wittner by the Association Opposed to the Blue Laws, which wrote:

"We hope that the resultant publicity will force off the statute books such an absurd and indefensible law. The law has no right to attempt to maintain respect for any religion or any religious book."

CLEARS PASTOR OF 'HERESY'

Presbyterian Synod of Wisconsin Disposes of Evolution Charge.

WAUPACA, Wis., July 24 (AP).—Dr. George E. Hunt, pastor of Christ Presbyterian Church, Madison, Wis., today stood clear of all charges of heresy, in which evolution figured, placed against him by a group of clergymen of the Madison Presbytery.

A report made by a committee of foreign ministers and laymen, which sustained the findings of the Madison Presbytery, clearing Dr. Hunt last November, was adopted by the Presbyterian Synod of Wisconsin in session here.

The report censured the Madison group of clergymen for what it termed insufficient evidence.

Dr. R. J. Aitchison declared he believed an appeal would be taken to the Presbyterian Assembly in Baltimore.

The charges made against Dr. Hunt included: Affirmation by him of evolution, with a declaration that life developed on earth long before the appearance of man; statement that Genesis is a crude yet noble conception of God as the Creator, and his signature to a petition asking support of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick in his religious views.

BRYAN FOR FULL DISCUSSION

He Declares That the Scopes Trial Had Answered Its Purpose.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 24.—The widest discussion of evolution was urged by William Jennings Bryan in Chattanooga today in a talk with a Chattanooga News representative. He declared that he, in common with his opponents who aided the defense of John T. Scopes at Dayton, urged full discussion of their common belief, that the truth was mighty and would prevail. Mr. Bryan, however, hinted that immature minds of boys and girls of 14 years might not be as much helped by discussions as would adults.

Mr. Bryan was here preparatory to leaving for Winchester, Tenn., where he will speak tomorrow. He declared that the Scopes case at Dayton had answered its purpose.

The Commoner incidentally made arrangements here for the printing of the address he had intended to make to close the case for the State at Dayton, but had been prevented from making because of the collapse of the trial.

EVOLUTION BOOKS UPHELD.

Californian Board Keeps Two in Schools and May Keep a Third.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24 (AP).—Fundamentalists and evolutionists clashed here yesterday over the question of teaching evolution in the public schools of California, and the evolutionists won.

This, in spite of the throwing into the fray by the Fundamentalists of reserve forces from outside the State in the person of Dr. W. B. Riley of Minneapolis, Executive Secretary of the World's Christian Fundamentalist Association.

Of the three books on biology which opponents of the evolutionary theory sought to have excluded from the schools and around which the fight centred, two were found acceptable by the State Board of Education and action on the third was deferred temporarily.

Indications were that the third textbook, "Biology and Human Welfare," by Peabody and Hunt, also would be passed upon favorably. The books accepted were Gruenberg's "Biology and Human Life" and Atwood's "Problems, Projects and Experiments in Biology."

CAPTAIN BLAIKIE SAILS ON LAST VOYAGE TODAY

Veteran Master of the Anchor Line Says He Will 'Swallow the Anchor' and Retire to Country.

James Blaikie, D. S. C., senior captain of the Anchor Line service between New York and Glasgow, starts on his last voyage as master of a ship when he takes the California out of this port at noon today for Moville and Glasgow. He has sailed the seven seas to India, China, Japan and Australia for forty-seven years and spent six of them in clipper sailing packets out of Aberdeen before joining the Anchor Line.

Captain Blaikie said last night that during his long career in the merchant service he had never lost a life or hurt a ship.

When the war started in 1914 his ship, the Caledonia, was requisitioned by the Government and used for transporting the first expeditionary force across the channel to France. Later he made two trips to India taking out territorials and bringing back regulars.

The Caledonia was one of the first at Gallipoli in April, 1915, and was used as a first-aid ship. In November the Caledonia was torpedoed in the Mediterranean 100 miles east of Malta and Captain Blaikie was taken prisoner. Of that experience, he said:

"First I was tried for trying to sink one of his German Majesty's ships on the high seas, meaning the submarine, and then sent through Austria to Mainz on the Rhine where I remained some time and later to three other camps, making two years altogether."

Captain Blaikie is 63 years old. He said he would retire to a cottage in the country after swallowing the anchor, as sailors call it, and make a trip to Glasgow occasionally to visit some of his old friends in the Anchor Line in the service of which he has passed most of his life.

AMERICA GETS SAINT'S BODY

Pope Authorizes Transfer of St. Christine's Coffin to Cleveland.

ROME, July 24 (AP).—Bishop Joseph Schrembs of Cleveland expects to sail from Cherbourg, France, Aug. 5, transporting with him to the United States the body of the martyr, St. Christine, the Virgin, which in the middle of the eighteenth century under the Pontificate of Benedict XIV. was removed from the catacombs and placed in a near-by monastery.

Now the body of the Saint has been presented to Bishop Schrembs by the Pope, who wishes to show his gratitude for the generous offerings made through Bishop Schrembs by his diocese for the erection of the "House of Catacombs," built by the Pontifical Commission on Sacred Archaelogy.

GARY ENDS DIET COURSE.

Steel Chairman "Feeling Good" as He Leaves Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 24 (AP).—Apparently vigorous and in a happy frame of mind, Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, left here today for New York, after having completed a diet treatment supervised by physicians attached to the Steel Corporation's hospital at Fairfield.

Judge Gary said he was "feeling good," and his appearance bore out the statement. While under observation of physicians he spent much of his time inspecting the corporation's properties in the Alabama mine field. He was optimistic concerning business in general.

Mrs. Gary accompanied her husband.

VATICAN BUYS A VILLA.

It Will Be for Propaganda College Alumni and American College.

ROME, July 24 (AP).—The Epoca says the Vatican has purchased for 40,000,000 lire (about $1,464,000 at present exchange rates) the villa of Santa Maria della Pieta, on the Janiculum Hill, for use as a residence hall for alumni, especially Americans, of the Propaganda College here.

Sixty thousand square meters will be used in connection with the building of the new American College, to be a modern structure, with extensive athletic fields. It will be the best equipped of its kind in Rome, contrasting with the antiquated buildings now in use.

CARDINAL FOR FRENCH LOAN

Makes Appeal to Catholics to Subscribe to the Issue.

PARIS, July 24 (AP).—Cardinal Dubois has sent an urgent appeal to all Catholics in France to subscribe to the new 4 per cent. guaranteed loan being made by the French Government to take up its floating debt.

The Cardinal's pastoral letter says it is the patriotic duty of all Catholics in France to safeguard the financial dignity of their country and to assist its future.

FOSDICK'S CHURCH TO GO UP ON DRIVE

PIERCE FOUNDATION IN DEAL

The Proposed Skyscraper Will Be Near Columbia, as Recommended by Dr. Fosdick.

The skyscraper church which the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick required in his acceptance of the call to the pastorship of the Park Avenue Baptist Church is to be located at Riverside Drive and 122d Street. It will be near the Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University.

The site of the church was indicated yesterday when its purchase by John D. Rockefeller Jr. was disclosed through the filing of deeds conveying the property to the Empire Mortgage Company, a real estate holding company for the Rockefeller family. In exchange the holding company gave the plot on Morningside Drive at 117th Street, which it recently purchased, to the John B. Pierce Foundation, Inc., sellers of the Riverside Drive site.

When the Park Avenue Baptist Church extended its call to Dr. Fosdick he made three things prerequisite to his acceptance—the new church, with an auditorium accommodating 3,000; adoption of the principle of inclusive membership and non-insistence upon the rite of baptism by immersion. Mr. Rockefeller and other officers of the church approved, and the communicants ratified their decision at a general meeting.

The new site overlooks Riverside Park, near Grant's Tomb. It is known as 493 to 497 Riverside Drive, at the southeast corner of 122d Street. Included in the plot is an abutting parcel at 107 Claremont Avenue.

The property has a frontage of 125 feet on Riverside Drive and 100 feet on 122d Street and is improved with two four-story residences on seventy-five feet, the two adjoining lots being vacant. The Claremont Avenue parcel is 25.7 by 100 feet and is improved with a two-story garage. The whole plot is assessed for $236,000, according to the 1924 tax rolls.

Last May the Empire Mortgage Company, through its real estate brokers, William A. White & Sons, purchased the block front on Morningside Drive, from 117th to 118th Street. This property was considered the logical site for the new church, because of its proximity to Columbia University, a location suggested by Dr. Fosdick.

The site just acquired also meets this condition and its purchase composes a difficulty met by the church officials when they bought the property overlooking Morningside Park. The latter parcel is highly improved, containing two apartment houses in four seven-story units, known as Hague Court and New University Court.

These houses were cooperatively owned, many of the tenant-owners being professors at Columbia University. The sale was made on condition that the church officers find new quarters for the professors in the same vicinity. Some difficulty in understood to have been encountered in finding the new living quarters.

Rolland J. Hamilton, one of the trustees of the John B. Pierce Foundation, said last night that the exchange was mutually beneficial, as it gave the church a good site near Columbia University only partly improved, while the Foundation would have an investment in the Morningside Drive houses yielding a steady income.

When the Pierce Foundation began to negotiate for the plot overlooking Riverside Park last year it had the Empire Mortgage Company as a competitor. The Foundation closed the deal for the property last December, and in May last the Rockefeller interests purchased the block front on Morningside Drive. The latter parcel is assessed for taxation purposes at $610,000, according to the 1924 rolls. This figure is $374,000 over the assessed valuation of the new church site, the difference being due largely to the Morningside Drive improvement, which is considered comparatively modern in real estate circles.

The Riverside Drive corner was originally intended to provide the site for the John B. Pierce Foundation research laboratory for the study of heating apparatus and equipment. It was endowed for this purpose by the late President of the American Radiator Company. The Foundation's new holding will not be utilized for the laboratory, but will be held indefinitely as an investment.

No architectural plans for the new Park Avenue Baptist Church have been drawn, but it has been decided to make the new auditorium large enough for an audience of from 2,000 to 3,000 persons. The new edifice is to be on the plans and idea of Dr. Christian F. Reisner's Broadway Temple, with living quarters, clubrooms and other institutional features.

EVANGELISTS DRAW MANY TO MEETINGS

OTHER TOPICS OF RELIGION

Under the auspices of the Evangelistic Committee of New York City, Inc., 174 open-air meetings are being held each week. Thousands are attending. The workers go out each day from the headquarters, 1,514 Grand Central Terminal, to various parts of the city. A gospel auto car, which is operating for the third season, has a daily schedule of meetings in the financial, shopping and residential sections of New York. The meetings are held at noon, afternoon and evening. In addition meetings are being conducted on street corners in Russian, Italian, Hungarian and Greek. Ten tent campaigns have been conducted in Corona, Jamaica, Woodhaven and Richmond Hill, Long Island; Williamsbridge, Bronx; Bath Beach, Wyckoff Heights, Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, South Brooklyn. This is the twenty-first year of the organization.

A missionary conference will open tomorrow at Stony Brook, L. I., under the auspices of the Interdenominational Foreign Missions Association of North America. Among the fourteen mission movements which will be represented are the China Inland Mission, Africa Inland Mission, Central America Mission, India General Mission, Sudan Interior Mission and the South America Missionary Union. The leader of the conference will be the Rev. Dr. Henry W. Frost of the China Inland Mission. The sessions will continue through Aug. 3.

The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton has accepted an invitation from the Educational Forum of Boston to debate Evolution with Clarence Darrow in that city this Fall, provided Mr. Darrow also accepts a like invitation. Dr. Straton will preach tomorrow evening in Calvary Baptist Church, of which he is the pastor, on "What I would have testified if I had gone as a witness to the Scopes trial."

The Presbyterian Board of National Missions, 156 Fifth Avenue, announced yesterday through the Rev. Dr. David G. Wylie, Secretary of its Division of Buildings and Property, that it had just made appropriations for new church buildings totaling $64,500; for manses, $3,550, and for repairs and new buildings, $11,350. The proposed new churches are to be located at Cedar City, Utah; Springfield, Mo.; Montrose, Iowa; Des Moines, Iowa; Hartford, Conn.; South St. Paul, Minn.; Linn Grove, Iowa; Roslyn, Pa.; Denver, Col., and Erwin, Tenn.

Bishop Thomas F. Gailor, President of the National Council of the Episcopal Church, recovered from his recent illness and is taking a brief vacation at his Summer home, Sewanee, Tenn. It is not unlikely that Bishop Gailor will be elected Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church when the triennial general convention is held next October in New Orleans. At that time the office of Presiding Bishop and President of the Council is to be combined. Bishop Gailor is rounding out six years as President of the council.

The Rev. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Governor of New York in the last election, will be the preacher tomorrow morning and evening in the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church at Seventy-third Street, of which the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin is the pastor. This will be the first time Mr. Thomas has occupied a pulpit of a leading local church in some time. Mr. Thomas is a member of the Presbytery of New York, but seldom attends its meetings. He is a graduate of Union Theological Seminary, where Dr. Coffin was one of his professors. And it was Dr. Coffin who in September, 1910, performed the ceremony when Mr. Thomas married Miss Frances Violet Stewart. The wedding took place in the Brick Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, of which Mr. Thomas was then assistant pastor.

The Rev. Paul Scherer, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, Central Park West and Sixty-fifth Street, is receiving congratulations on becoming for the second time a father. Pamella Scherer was born in Buffalo this month, where her mother went to visit relatives. The other child of Mr. and Mrs. Scherer is Barbara, 5 years old.

The preacher this morning at Trinity Episcopal Church, at the head of Wall Street, will be the Rev. R. A. Giles, Vicar of Sherisshales, England. Mr. Giles was chaplain of the Australian troops during the war, Territorial Army, Fifty-third Division. He was for some time secretary to the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, during which period he was instrumental in organizing under the Bishop's direction the London Diocesan Fund.

The morning service in St. George's Episcopal Church, Stuyvesant Square and East Sixteenth Street, for this and next month will be held at 10 instead of 11 o'clock "in order to assist those who wish to engage in some recreation out of the city."

A special Summer course in practical nursing is being given at the Catholic Women's Association, 10 Prospect Place, Brooklyn. During the last year the Nazarene Nursing School graduated with certificates seventy-seven pupils. Fifty former graduates received diplomas after nursing for one year. This school was added to the activities of the organization by its founder and President, the late Mgr. E. W. McCarty. Pupils receive intensive training five evenings a week for three months by three physicians, a registered nurse and a dietitian.
